Texas, Louisiana Are Betsy's Next Targets

AMC Talks Still Fruitless; Strike Into 18th Day

Negotiators Meet Past Midnight in Attempt to Settle

KENOSHA (AP)—Representatives of the American Motors Corp., and United Auto Workers Local 72 continued their meetings until well past midnight Wednesday in an attempt to settle the 18-day strike at the company's Rambler plants here.

More than 16,000 production workers have been idled at Kenosha and at Milwaukee in the strike reportedly started here over work standards and disciplining of union stewards.

The meetings were resumed late Wednesday after Gov. Warren P. Knowles said at a joint meeting of the company and union leaders that a prolonged strike would "do irreparable damage" to the state's image and its efforts to locate and expand industry.

Knowles' Offer

The governor offered his services to end the strike "at the earliest opportunity."

"I believe that men of good will sitting around the bargaining table can find a means of compromising their differences and adjusting their grievances," Knowles said.

Local 72 announced shortly after the governor's talk that it would hold its regular meeting on Saturday at a lakefront stadium. A union source indicated a progress report on the negotiations would be given at the meeting.

George Gullen, vice president of industrial relations and the company's chief negotiator, issued a statement after the governor's talk.

Good Citizen

He said

"The American Motors Corporation regards itself as a good citizen of Wisconsin. We have been honored by the presence of the governor today. He has helped us to see our problems in a new perspective. It renews our determination to settle our problems in such a manner that we can continue to be a strong industrial organization in this important state and community."

Another company spokesman said early today that the union and company held separate caucuses during the night and then met jointly until about 1:30 a.m. today before adjourning with an agreement to meet again this morning.

Aid Appropriation Passed by House

$4 Billion Foreign Spending Sent to Senate; GOP Balk Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $4-billion foreign aid appropriation has cleared the House after administration forces beat back Republican moves to withhold help from India and Pakistan.

Such a cutback would invite Communist China to enter the war on Pakistan's side, Democrats argued before passing the bill on a 239-143 roll call vote late Wednesday and sending it to the Senate.

Besides, administration supporters said, the State Department already has announced a suspension of military aid to the battling countries and said no economic help will be given without consultation with congressional leaders.

Ban Atempt

The attempt to ban aid until the fighting stops was spearheaded by Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, who coupled it with a proposal to cut $285 million from the bill's total.

Bow, along with the GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and former leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, disputed the administration claim that the amendment would tie the hands of the President in dealing with the India-Pakistan crisis.

They insisted it would ban U.S. aid from a recipient nation carrying on a militation action against another recipient country. Since Red China receives no U.S. help, Bow contended it would not be binding if that nation enters the war.

Into Red's Hands

Democrats pointed out, however, that even if China enters the battle on the side of Pakistan, India presumably would continue fighting Pakistan and the United States could not go to India's assistance.

Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said Bow's proposal would tie the hands of the President and would be "playing into the hands of Red China."

"This might be an invitation to Red China to intervene," declared Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma.

In the face of apparent defeat, Republicans did not seek a roll-call vote on the Bow amendment, although they could have forced one.

In another action, the House approved without debate and by voice vote a ban on aid to any nation whose ships carry war supplies or strategic material to Cuba or North Viet Nam.

WASHINGTON (AP)— Four Wisconsin Democrats voted with the majority Wednesday night as the House passed, 239-143, the Foreign Aid Appropriations Bill. Five Wisconsin Republicans and one Democrat voted against the measure.

Voting for the bill were Democrats Kastenmeier, Reuss, Stalbaum and Zablocki. Opposing the measure were Republicans Byrnes, Davis, Laird, O'Konski and Thomson and Democrat Race.

100,000 Expected to Leave U. S. Gulf Coast Area; Florida Assesses Damage

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A great exodus from low lying coastal areas shaped up today as Hurricane Betsy, fresh from an attack on Florida, advanced on the Gulf Coast.

More than 100,000 residents were expected to pack cars and trailers today and head out of south Louisiana and east Texas, away from possible killer tides and 140-mile winds.

The Weather Bureau urged them to evacuate as soon as possible before escape routes were cut off by rising waters.

The bureau hoisted emergency hurricane warnings at 6 a.m. from the mouth of the Mississippi River west to Galveston, Tex.

Target Uncertain

Backtracking Betsy's exact target remained uncertain. The storm — described as fast-moving, big and dangerous — has proved itself unpredictable.

The multibillion-dollar offshore oil industry — 4,800 oil wells and drilling platforms, some of them 100 miles from land — was being evacuated and battened down.

All possible equipment had headed for inland waters. About 3,000 oil workers had been moved to safety.

The last hurricane in the area — Hilda last September — caused about $200 million damage to offshore oil rigs.

At 8 a.m. the Navy located the center of Betsy about 235 miles southeast of the mouth of the Mississippi River. She was moving west-northwest at 18 miles an hour, packing winds of 120 to 140 miles an hour.

1957 Storm

The trickle of evacuees, soon to swell, started at Cameron, the little town in western Louisiana near the Texas border, where Hurricane Audrey killed 500 in June 1957.

Most of those 500 died in surging tides which swept the coastal area. Betsy's tides were also expected to be high — forecast at 10 to 12 feet at some points.

The Weather Bureau said the most likely landfall for the hurricane's center was western Louisiana and the extreme upper Texas coast.

Betsy left most of the Florida area without power and with ruined crops, flooded homes.

No damage estimate was firm but it was expected to run to at least $100 million.

Three Dead

Three lives also were lost. This was considered a relatively light toll in view of the six-foot

U. S. Silent About Wessin Bribe Claim

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The U.S. Embassy kept silent today on claims by Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin that two of its staff offered him money and position abroad if he agreed to leave the Dominican Republic.

Wessin, who led the coup which overthrew President Juan Bosch and also led the resistance to the pro-Bosch revolt in April, told newsmen the Americans offered him $50,000 for his home. He said the house and lot were worth half that.

The two Americans also promised him military attache jobs in London or Madrid he said.

Rebel leaders have demanded removal of Wessin from command of the armed forces training center and that he be sent out of the country or barred from any post of power.

The general, 42, said he was approached by Lt. Col. Joseph William Weyrick, an Army attache; and David Phillips, who he claimed was an agent for the Central Intelligence Agency.

U. S. Bombers Hit Bridge at Red China Line

Closest Penetration To Frontier in Viet Nam Conflict

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S military spokesmen announced today that American planes bombed a bridge 17 miles south of Red China's border with North Viet Nam. It was their closest penetration toward the Chinese frontier in the Vietnamese war.

The spokesmen said four F105 Thunderchiefs damaged the railroad bridge in the raid Wednesday and pounded two other bridges 25 and 30 miles south of the border.

The area, about 140 miles northwest of Hanoi, is an important transportation center leading to the North Vietnamese capital. U.S pilots are trying to disrupt a railroad in the area and last month bombed within 30 miles of Red China twice.

Ground War

In the ground war, U.S. Marines and Vietnamese troops continued their giant sweep to clear the Viet Cong from the Batangan peninsula.

Reports from the three-day-old operation 200 miles south of Chu Lai said 148 Viet Cong had been killed, 38 captured and 100 suspects detained.

Although between 5,000 and 6,000 troops were taking part, American and Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

No other major ground activity was reported, but a U.S. Army helicopter crashed in the Mekong Delta 100 miles south of Saigon, and all members of its crew were reported killed.

The crash occurred in Communist-infested Vinh Binh Province, but it was not known immediately whether the craft was hit by enemy fire. Although the

Red Blast

As the fighting raged, Premier Chou En-lai of Red China loosed another blast at India and said its "massive armed attack on Pakistan" could not have been carried out without U.S consent and support.

In a speech at a reception in Peking at the North Korean Embassy, Chou stopped short of saying Red China would provide concrete assistance to Pakistan But he reiterated firm support of the Pakistanis.

Officials in Washington and London were concerned lest Red China take a hand in behalf of Pakistan by starting new trouble on India's border.

Thant Arrives

There were these other diplomatic developments:

—U.N. Secretary-General U Thant arrived in Rawalpindi, the Pakistan capital, on his mission to seek a cease-fire. He said the situation was serious.

—Premier Amir Abass Hoveida of Iran flew into Turkey to consult with Turkish officials on Pakistan's appeal to them for military help. All three nations

Baggage Cut From Airborne U. S. Divisions

Units Slimmed for Likely Duty Against 'Unsophisticated' Foe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has streamlined its two paratrooper divisions and regeared them to fight chiefly in underdeveloped areas like Southeast Asia rather than against a "sophisticated" enemy in Europe.

The action came after Army experts reviewed the role of the 82nd Airborne and 101st Airborne divisions "in the light of contemporary world conditions."

The slimmed-down divisions require only about half as many Air Force transports to carry them to trouble spots — 620 instead of 1,300 — and this gives the paratroopers what the Army calls "greater strategic mobility."

Weapons Cut

Stripped away from each division was a battalion of 47 self-propelled 90-millimeter guns, a battery of four Little John rockets and all heavy equipment not capable of being carried in the Air Force's C130 transport planes.

Each division was cut by 1,000 men, paring their strength to slightly under 13,000 men apiece.

In effect, the Army's combat developments command decided that airborne divisions would not be needed, at least at the outset, in any land battle against Communist armies in Europe.

However, it was stressed that in the event a need arose for the paratrooper units in Europe, they could be reinforced and fitted for action there.

Likely Threats

Basically, the Army experts concluded that the most likely threats of the future will arise in areas like Asia, Africa and Latin America.

It was to meet these threats better that the airborne divisions were streamlined.

Both the 82nd Airborne and the 101st Airborne currently are involved in what are called militarily "unsophisticated" environments. Part of the 82nd is still in the Dominican Republic. A brigade of the 101st is in South Viet Nam.

'Wise and Progressive'

Urban Cabinet Seat Bill Signed by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today legislation creating a new department of housing and urban affairs and called it "a wise, just and progressive measure for all America."

Speaking before a large group of mayors, members of Congress and other officials in the White House flower garden, Johnson said the legislation is "the first step toward organizing our system for a more rational response to the pressing challenge of urban life."

Johnson delayed announcement of his selection to head the new department which will be the 11th Cabinet post.

Speculation has centered on Robert C. Weaver, director of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, which is the core of the new department.

Second America

Johnson said that in the next 35 years "we must literally build a second America — putting in place as many houses, schools, apartments, parks and offices as we have built through all the time since the pilgrims arrived on these shores."

"The physical challenge is awesome," Johnson said.

"But there is a challenge to the spirit that is even greater and more demanding.

Not Enough

"It is not enough for us to erect towers of stone and glass or to lay out vast suburbs of order and conformity. We must seek — and we must find — ways to preserve and perpetuate in the city the individuality, the human dignity, the respect for individual rights and the devotion to individual responsibility that have been parts of the American character and strengths of the American system."

Johnson said enactment of the legislation "represents the unified determination of this generation to preserve the best of the past by preparing to make the future better still."

DeGaulle Calls for Dismantling of NATO Command Structure

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle said today that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's integrated command structure must be dismantled by 1969 at the latest.

At his semiannual news conference the president said the present system of NATO constitutes a "subordination" of France's own defense forces to the Allied structure. He said this must end.

This was a reference to the integrated command structure at Supreme Allied Command, Europe, first established by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and headed by an American general ever since. The present commander is Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

De Gaulle did not mention SHAPE by name, nor the nationality of its commander, but his reference was quite clear.

Jailer Hospitalized

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA—The search continued late this morning for a 29-year-old rural Iola man who struck a jailer and fled from the county jail about 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Bloodhounds were taken into the area near the intersection of Oborn and Sherear streets on the northeast side today to see if they could pick up the trail left by Gordon F. Tews who was being held in jail on a rape charge. The bloodhounds lost the train in the same vicinity during heavy rains Wednesday night.

Dogs were unable to pick up any scent this morning. Again the rain was blamed. The hounds also were taken to the Soo Line railroad yards but found nothing.

Gordon F. Tews

Tews struck Jailer Larry Jensen with a heavy cast frame which he pried loose from a ceiling light fixture in his cell. Tews fled out the front door of the jail as Jensen went to the radio to summon help.

All exit routes from the city were sealed off by police from Waupaca and neighboring communities. An intensive search continued through the night and early morning hours. It was called off about 4 a.m. because of the heavy rains but was resumed at daybreak.

Taken to Hospital

Jensen, who was rushed to the Waupaca Riverside Hospital, is listed in satisfactory condition. He suffered a gash above his left eye which required 10 stitches to close. He also may have received a skull fracture.

Mrs. Loran Frazier, wife of Sheriff Frazier, was in the kitchen adjoining the office. She gave the following account of the jailbreak.

Jensen was at the radio desk when Tews pounded on the cell block door. When Jensen went to investigate, Tews asked that he be locked in his cell. When Jensen opened the cell block door, Tews apparently pushed him back and Jensen yelled for help. As Mrs. Frazier started for the door she saw Jensen back across the doorway and Tews had the six-by 13-inch five-pound metal frame in his hand. With the first blow Tews struck Jensen across the arm which he raised to ward off the blow. The second blow struck Jensen on the head.

After striking Jensen the second time, Tews looked towards Mrs. Frazier, dropped the frame and fled out the door. Other prisoners in the cell block rushed out and one attempted to stop Tews but he was unable to catch him. Two prisoners gave Jensen first aid until an ambulance arrived.

At the time of the break,

What Yes and No Votes Really Mean Tuesday

The Post Crescent last week and this has published a series of articles by city hall reporter William C. Carey and staff writers of three other Wisconsin newspapers on the charter ordinance referenda which will be before Appleton voters at a special election next Tuesday. We hope they have answered question voters may have had about why the mayor and the common council want four administrative positions in city government made appointive rather than elective.

It may appear that the articles have presented only the positive side of the case. If so there is a good reason. All of the objective, factual arguments support a Yes vote on the referenda. The opposition is based entirely on emotional grounds. The committee in favor of a No vote has presented no logical reasons for its opposition.

To sum up this newspaper's position, these are the reasons why the positions of city clerk, attorney, assessor and treasurer should be made appointive:

- It will take the positions out of politics. Instead of devoting themselves full-time to their jobs these officers at present must concern themselves with being re-elected every two years. And the manner in which they conduct city business is affected by their concern for garnering votes
- The positions are administrative in nature. The voters elect a common council to make policy, and a mayor to carry out those directives. All of the heads of departments within city government should be part of the mayor's administrative staff and subject to the direction of the mayor and council. At present, being elected, these four officers can if they choose operate independently of the mayor and council. If they are completely uncooperative, as the clerk and attorney have been, they disrupt the orderly and efficient operation of city government.
- If the positions are appointive, the council can set up qualifications for persons seeking these positions. As long as they are elective offices no such qualifications can be legally required. And being appointed for tenure, the positions will attract career public servants who are specialists in their fields.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell made a valuable contribution to the debate last week when he outlined to the council the procedural steps which he has used in the past in making city appointments and which he recommended be put in ordinance form to govern all future appointments.

These provide for public advertising of vacancies, setting of qualifications by the State Bureau of Personnel, competitive examinations conducted by the same agency, oral interviews by a specially appointed local committee, rating of candidates and submission of appointments by the mayor to the council from the list of rated candidates, in order.

Under these conditions there can be no suspicion of a 'power grab by the mayor' or of 'politics' being involved in the appointments.

That reduces the case for the opposition to the emotional charge that the ordinances would take away the citizens' right to vote, that this is a step in the direction of Socialism or Communism in Appleton city government, and that electors should vote No 'for God and Country.'

Anyone who accepts such advice is thinking with his prejudices instead of his brain matter.

Let no one be confused about the nature of the opposition.

A No vote Tuesday is a vote for:

- A city clerk and a city attorney who are interested in protecting their jobs and who have led opposition in city hall to many progressive steps the mayor and council have tried to effect in the last few years.
- A slate of candidates for municipal offices next April who have banded together with the clerk and attorney in the hope that in unity there is more strength than they individually have demonstrated in previous unsuccessful tries for public office.
- An organization within the city whose purpose is to oppose, interrupt, discredit and if possible halt civic progress.

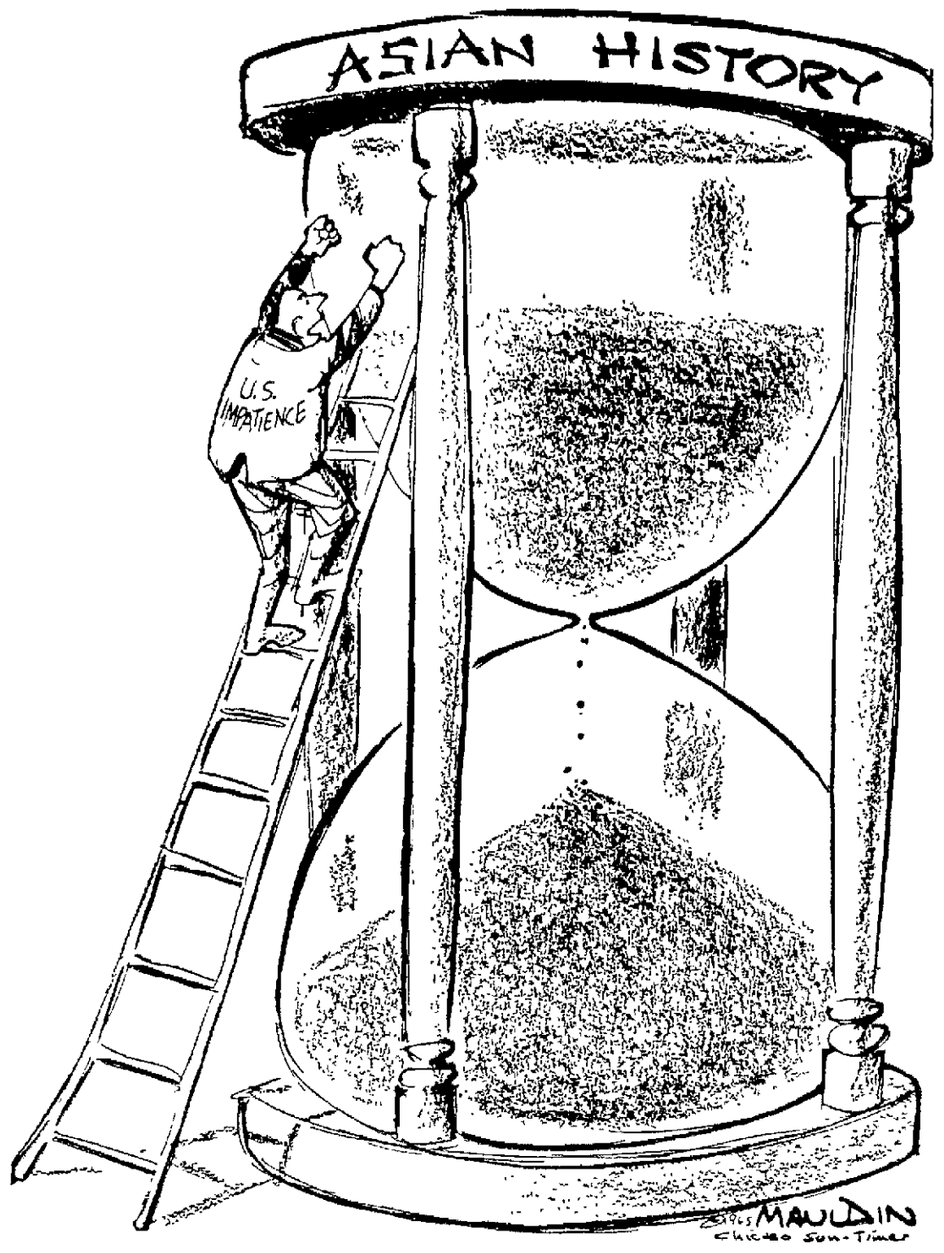
In effect Appleton voters Tuesday will vote Yes if they wish to support a city administration which aggressively seeks to solve our multitudinous growth problems.



'Let's Shake It Up in There!'

Can Democracy Survive in India?

Western diplomats have always expressed the hope that India could not only survive as a democracy but thrive to point up the opportunities for other Asian peoples contemplating the advantages of Communism as supposedly demonstrated by Red China. Economically India is somewhat healthier than China although its tremendous birth rate means that often it is merely holding its own as far as improving economic conditions are concerned. But there are other forces at work among the Indians that mean fragmentation and they may be harder to change than privation.

There are hundreds of dialects spoken in India and the constitution recognizes 13 different tongues The only one of the 13 without a state of its own is Punjabi and the Sikhs are trying to get such a state authorized by the federal government which understandably seeks to bring the people of India closer together rather than to set them apart.

The Sikhs are also called the Army of the Servants of God. The men have been renowned as soldiers in the Indian Army. They usually wear beards and their hair long under white turbans and traditionally wear thin steel bracelets and carry daggers.

Their demand at present for a Punjabi-speaking state is probably part of the struggle for power among the Sikhs by two of their leaders Four years ago Master Tara Singh, a former teacher, demanded the separate state and went on a 48 day fast. However, he made no impression on Nehru and went into retirement. Now he is once more demanding the separate state while his competition, Sant Fateh Singh, has announced that he will not only fast for two weeks but burn himself up after that if the government does not authorize the separate language state.

The Indian Government of Prime Minister Shastri is particularly sensitive to these demands at this time because of the fighting in the Kashmir. The Punjab is just south of the Kashmir and the major road from New Delhi to the Kashmir goes through Punjab. Eight million demonstrating Sikhs could make troop movements difficult.

The government realistically draws away from what it calls the danger of religious communalism. Not only is India broken up by different tongues, there are five major religious groups which often have a hatred and fear of each other that is difficult for westerners to understand. There is concern in the Punjab if the government acceded to the demands of the Sikhs because while the Sikhs would have control with about 55 per cent of the population, another 40 per cent is Hindu and the rest Moslem and Christian. Although the Sikhs' ancient teacher, Guru Nank, preached brotherly love, so did the leaders of most religious groups which have contributed rather extensively to wars through history.

A Communist government through various means of terror, propaganda and suppression, would seek to push everyone into a mold. If democracy can indeed work in India, it should work anywhere in the world.

New Use for the Maginot Line

The Maginot Line didn't deter the mighty German Army during World War II but it yet may serve sort of a useful purpose.

The line is really a collection of fortified blockhouses penetrating deep into the ground It runs along much of France's eastern border and was built between the years 1927 and 1936 just in case the emerging Nazis wanted to try something. It has elevators, wells that go down more than 350 feet, and complete electrical and pump equipment regularly checked and kept in working condition.

The Nazis didn't even challenge the Maginot Line in 1940 They just went around. But now pessimists—or maybe they are optimists — suggest that the fortifications would make ideal atomic bomb shelters—just in case.

Looking Backward

Appleton's City Officials Neglectful

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Sept. 23, 1865.

Our business men, merchants, grocery-men, etc., ought to unite upon some plan to open the road at once into the heart of Calumet County. It is useless of them to wait for the slow motion of our proverbially indolent and incompetent Common Council.

The road is wanted "forthwithly." There is a very large amount of trade which belongs here and would come if they had an outlet. The road can just as well be cut out and bridged in two weeks as to wait until a working Council is elected.

Raise the money by subscription, and put the road through That is the quickest way to cut the reddest of red tape used by out sleepy city fathers.

It is possible that before this newspaper reaches our readers the Autumn storms may have commenced. In what condition then is the new College Avenue bridge?

It has not been gravelled nor planked. The last rains narrowed it considerably, and the fall rains certainly will render it impassable if not attended to this season. It will cost thrice as much to plank that roadway if the rains continue to tear it away.

Why must we be so often compelled to call attention to the neglect of city officials? Is the Bridge Committee anxious for an unenviable notoriety?

Thursday, Sept. 5, 1940.

King Carol II of Rumania surrendered his vast powers of state that day and officials in certain government quarters expressed belief that Carol might abdicate the king's red-haired friend, Madame Magda Lupescu, was reported to have been banished from the country with King Carol's consent.

New commanders of the two Twin City American Legion posts were Arthur Crushinska for Menasha's Henry J. Lenz Post and Leo Madison, James P. Hawley Post of Neenah.

Miss Marian Lemke of Kaukauna left for Kokomo, Ind., where she had accepted a teaching position at Kokomo Junior College.

Officers for the New London Bowling Association were Sylvester Stern, president; Arthur Gottschalk and W. B. Viel, vice presidents, and E. F. Buelow, secretary-treasurer.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Sept. 8, 1955.

Appleton's council "saved" the oak tree at the intersection of Hycrest Court and Cedar Street from destruction by a vote of 13 to 5 with two aldermen absent the previous evening at City Hall. It had been proposed to remove the tree for curb and gutter installation, which raised a lively controversy throughout the city.

As the 1955 bowling season swung into action that week, top bowlers were Frans Larson with a 558 series on the Oregon team of the Elks League; James Temmers in the same league with 555; Cliff Gjerald paced the Fraternal League with a 551, and "Butch" Schultz also rolled a 551 in the Merchants League.

Mrs. Gerald Clark, Appleton, pulled in a 25-pound, 50-inch muskellunge at the Chippewa Flowage near Hayward the previous weekend. The first muskie she ever caught, it also held the current record for that area for the season.

People's Forum

Revamping of City Government Vital to Appleton's Future Growth

Editor, Post-Crescent:

September 14, 1965 is not just another election day. Nor is the referendum on elective vs. appointive city positions just another referendum. On that date the voters of the city of Appleton will decide if they want to hang on to the past or take a step into the future.

Most of us who come from small communities which still must rely on the "part time" clerk, treasurer or assessor are nostalgic in remembering the long hours put in by people we knew personally who, in many instances, were not too qualified to do the job, but somebody had to do it; and though they had other full time work, they accepted these offices because of a desire to serve their community. They were the best we could get. We admired their dedication and gave them our vote as an expression of tribute for this voluntary service—and we allowed them a meager salary as a token of appreciation.

Service such as this is vitally needed today in our towns and villages, and will continue to be in small communities. But we must not let nostalgia affect our judgment in the running of the full time big business that Appleton has become. We spend out tax dollars, and look to our city government to produce the highest quality and the most efficient service for those dollars. The charter ordinances passed by the City Council provide that efficiency and the professional services we need in a growing community.

A "Yes" vote is not giving up the right to elect any officials who determine city policy. None of the four offices which will become appointive are policy-making in any sense. None of the officials has a vote on the City Council which governs Appleton.

We now have numerous city departments, run by experienced professional people whose full time job it is to give of their education, ability and talent to operate their departments competently. No one questions the fact that the Director of Public Works, the Director of Finance, the Superintendent of Schools, the City Welfare Director, the Police and Fire Chiefs, and several other department heads are appointive. These are specialized fields. Appleton has grown to a point where the duties of the City Assessor, Attorney, Clerk and Treasurer are also specialized duties, requiring special ability and education. Our City Council has foresight in deciding we are now at a point in our growth where these departments must also become appointive. They took every precaution in preparing the charter ordinances. The appointments will not be political. The same civil service procedures for filling other department director positions will apply. Applicants must undergo state civil service examinations and extensive interviews, and appointment can be made only from those who rate high on the list of eligibles, with the appointment confirmed by the City Council. The person who then takes the job knows that he has met all the qualifications, is accepted as proficient and capable, answerable to the City Council which provides his budget and oversees his work: and he may reasonably expect to be retained in the job. A position such as this will be attractive and challenging. We can expect quality applicants who will see a future in their work and bring vitality to the job. The applicants can spend their full time at their duties, without being concerned about making all the necessary political contacts and keeping their names before the public to be sure of re-election the next time around.

We reminisce fondly of the one room school, but we gave it up gladly to provide our children with the system which meets their special educational needs to live in today's world. Appleton is a complex growing business. We as voters must do everything possible to keep it growing, let go of the traditions that slow us down, and support a Council that has studied thoroughly all of the aspects of specialized efficient government and acted to bring it to Appleton.

Each of us in his own work recognizes the importance of specialization. Our jobs require skill and training, and our performance can be judged accurately only by those closely associated with us We as individual voters are not familiar with the duties of the purely administrative offices of the city, though we expect professional competence from them. Neither do we have constant close contact with the various candidates so that we can judge their competence. Putting the responsibility to select qualified people for administration directly on the true policy makers of our city, the Mayor and City Council, and holding them fully responsible for good government, is a recognition that we hold our vote in high regard. We want to cast it, not for the civil servants who keep our city operating, but for the leaders who make the policies and determine our future by selecting the best in civil servants for us.

We shall give our Council an overwhelming "Yes" on September 14.

Mabel R. McClanahan

State Has Antiseptic Public Service, Yet People Are Skeptical

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—The waitress in a far northern Wisconsin town was garrulous as she served the early morning customer at the breakfast counter. The visitor had offered some pleasantry about the scenic quality of the countryside and the evident increase in the volume of summer business. She nodded agreement somewhat impatiently.

Wyngaard

"But," she objected, "we don't have any roads. This county has the lousiest road system in the state."

The visitor didn't know quite how to respond to that, and so he didn't. But she didn't expect an answer. She wanted to make a speech.

"Of course," she said, "everybody knows there has to be graft in the highway department. You know and I know. But I wish they would leave us something for some road improvements."

I changed the subject, half embarrassed, paid the check, and walked away pondering the curious fact that there is stubbornly planted in the minds of some persons the idea that there is theft and corruption in the public administration, in spite of the almost total absence of proof or example of skullduggery.

WHY?

As it happens, the episode occurred in a county which is rich only in its expanse of virtually empty land. The lady was obviously correct in assuring her visitors that the local road system is inferior to that to which her sister-in-law in Waukesha or Appleton is accustomed. Yet it is rarely profitable to explain the realities of public service economics in such situations. There's the obvious inability of a district in which the soil is poor, the timber not yet grown, and the population scanty to produce a tax b that will pay for mod roadways. This is so even w generous assistance from taxpayers of the state as whole through the state sharing and grant-in-aid s tems.

But why should there be so frequent assumption t the inadequacies of local g ernment show corruption malfeasance?

The question worries ma persons. Half a dozen lett from public officials, notably including legislato during recent weeks ha sounded the theme of unfavorable "image" of public official, as the mode vocabulary would put it, a the cynicism of so many ra and file citizens about integrity of the men they ha put into public places.

The facts are quite contrary. One of the dist guishing characteristics public administration in W consin is its nearly antisep quality. Public services Wisconsin may be costly. they are honest.

PROMOTION THEME

It is an interesting coin dence that the Governo Board of Economic Develo ment, meeting here for organization session the oth day, distributed copies of new publication which tempts to accentuate the po tive about the character of t state as a place in which work, to do business, and live. It contains a promine chapter on the distincti quality of ethical performan in Wisconsin government ge erally. Perhaps copies of th outline should be dispatched many local residents, as we as to prospective emigran from other states.

If any citizen truly believe that there are illegal activiti in his local government, anywhere in the government structure of the state, the are plenty of prosecuto ready to listen to the story. point of fact, of cours virtually all of the governme tal transactions are subject careful post-audit. One day, may be hoped, a brigl legislator will wonder wh absolutely all are not automa ically submitted to post-aud by law, adn wil bring about statute.

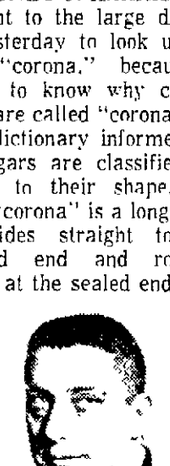
Strictly Personal

Do You Know What Word Corona Means?

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I went to the large dictionary yesterday to look up the word "corona," because I wanted to know why certain cigars are called "corona."

The dictionary informed me that cigars are classified according to their shape, and that a "corona" is a long cigar with sides straight to the unsealed end and roundly blunted at the sealed end.



Harris

It also informed me that the word "corona" means a number of different things to different people—and thereby hangs the moral of this essay.

To a dentist, a "corona" is the upper part of a tooth. To an architect, a "corona" is the projecting part of a classic cornice. To an astronomer, a "corona" is a luminous envelope surrounding the sun beyond the chromosphere, seen during a total eclipse.

To a Botanist, a "corona" is an appendage on the inner side of the corolla in certain flowers, such as the daffodil. To a physicist, a "corona" is the discharge of electricity which appears on the surface of a conductor under high voltage. To a zoologist, a "corona" is part of the anatomy of Rotifera, which i a class of many-celled aquati animals.

And to the cigar-smoker, o course, it is none of these, bu simply a fragrant weed whos odor inexplicably annoys fe males in resturants.

Now, if a relatively rar word such as "corona" ca have dozen different mean ings, what about the familia words we are fond of usin every day? What about "free dom," "democracy," "peace," "equality" and all the othe common coinage of discus sion?

Two men may argue abou "democracy" for an hou without ever realizing tha they are arguing about two different things—for neithe has tried to define the word rigorously and consistently, even to himself.

There is no doubt that "democracy," for instance has a tremendous range of meanings—one in Maine and one in Mississippi, one in England and one in Egypt, one in the country club and one in the bowling alley, one in the landlord who writes a lease and one in the tenant who signs it.

Not all disagreements, of course, are verbal. Semantics cannot "solve" problems; but it can illuminate them. For the real pity of so much public controversy is that many people don't even agree on what they are disagreeing about, and don't even know that one of them is talkingi about the corona of a tooth and the other about the corona of a building.

Life Not His Own

Suburb Clamps Down On Former City Dweller

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — It used to be that our life was our own. Not any more.

It used to be that we governed our own values, associates and schedules, that nobody minded if we drove an old car, that we could throw the garbage down the incinerator whenever the pail was full.

But the pressure is on, since we moved to a Long Island suburb after 15 years as Manhattan apartment dwellers. Suburbia has clamped on its shackles.

It used to be that status symbols didn't count, that variety surrounded us, in people, restaurants, shops, movies, that we could step across the street to the store whenever we needed a bottle of milk or anything else.

Now Main Stret is a mile away — and variety is farther.

It used to be that we chose a church parish where we were needed rather than where we were situated, that I could leave for work or start for home to suit my own shift, that I got to see my kids before bedtime.

Ah, it used to be.

But we have stepped into the commuter's bog. I'm vassal to the 8:06 by morning, to another hour-plus trip at night, and to undreamt-of risks to the pocketbook.

"Daddy, when are we going to get a boat?"

Port Washington, Long Island, may be beautiful and restful, with its tree-lined streets, clipped lawns, beaches and bird songs, but I really haven't seen it yet by full day — and the birds are at roost before I get home.

Existence is ruled by timetables, system and community concern.

Car's A Stinkpot

"How old is your mother?" asks a neighbor boy of our young son. Across the street, we overhear this shouted juvenile exchange about our daughter and other things:

"Hey, you know a new little girl lives over there!" "Yeah, their car sure is a stinkpot."

The anonymity of numbers is gone here. The disinterested metropolis, like the western Oklahoma farm where I grew up, lets you be. The small town or suburb expects you to match, to fit the pattern.

"Keep your voice down," my wife advises as we sit late of evening in our new backyard patio, so quiet you hear the bug wings fluttering about the light. "You might disturb the neighbors."

Garbage At Dawn

The garbage truck comes on Tuesday and Thursday dawn. There's no nearby self-service laundry; we'll need to buy a machine. Our boy broke the steel stopper in the bathtub, and we've got no landlord to call to get it fixed.

The mortgage payments are due the 15th of each month, along with interest and taxes, plus the utility bills which used to be covered in the rent; the grass to cut, a new family doctor to find, the door latch to adjust; and, always a train to catch.

"There's a wonderful country club," a helpful woman tells us. Membership only $300 a year. Or was it $350. Beach rights $90. At a certain dizzying point, the figures blur. "Your daughter might like to take horseback riding."

Big Study

I've got a nice, big study in the new house, much roomier than the bedroom corner I had for my typewriter back in Manhattan, but I had time to use that one.

For about a year, there's been a hubcap missing from our 1953 sedan, and nobody cared. But this week I hunted up a replacement. Maybe, too, I can scrub some of the rust off the bumpers.

After all, out here you get a sharper perspective on the important things.

Committee to Study Rules on Residence

May Require Appleton Employes To Live Inside City Limits

A policy requiring Appleton municipal employes to reside within the city limits is being considered by the common council's personnel committee.

The committee received an informal report from Ald. John MacDonald (7th) on the matter Wednesday night and said it would look into it further at a later date.

It was estimated there are at least 22 city employes who live outside of Appleton.

The committee noted the fire and police commission reportedly has a rule that police and firemen must be residents of the city but questioned whether it has been enforced.

Committee members said municipal employes hired from outside the city have moved to Appleton after having their appointments confirmed by the common council.

Feel No Need

MacDonald said a poll of department heads indicated they felt no need for a live-in-Appleton policy.

A report was given the committee that the city recreation department director and an estimated nine part-time employes do not reside in the City of Appleton.

Committee members said it was probably a number of Appleton Public School system employes do not reside in the city.

Committee members felt there were several aspects involved and wanted to review the pros and cons before making a recommendation to the council.

At the same time, they indicated the city attorney will be asked to render a legal opinion as to the legality of a person working for two city departments.

C of C Urges Members to Vote Tuesday

Need Good Turnout For Referendum on Key Appleton Posts

Members of the Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce were urged in letters received Wednesday to take an active interest in Tuesday's referendum election.

The Chamber's board of directors warned that lack of interest could result in a small minority deciding the outcome.

They made no outright endorsement.

Members were asked to study the pros and cons of having the city offices of clerk, attorney, assessor and treasurer become appointive rather than elective.

The letter sent to the membership listed arguments favoring and opposing the proposed change, and under the heading of additional information quoted statistics which showed the majority of cities are appointing the four administrative officials.

In Other Cities

According to the 1964 Municipal Yearbook, the Chamber board said, 52.1 per cent of the 1,495 cities reporting in a survey do not elect any of these four officials.

And, of all the cities of over 5,000 population reporting, only 29.9 per cent elect a treasurer; 23.4 per cent a clerk; 12.6 per cent, the assessor; and 8.2 per cent, the city attorney.

"In a special referendum such as this, a small minority of electors are apt to decide on the election," the Chamber directors said.

"It would appear to us, that it would be in the best interest of your community, your business and your Chamber to make your decision known and to urge your family, friends and employes to do likewise," they added.

Heck forfeited a cash bond of $29.50 and forfeited six demerit points against his driving privilege.

He said he had no objections to honest criticism of his ideas and philosophy. "What I do object to," Race said, "is having radical groups from outside the state peddle such hog-wash in Wisconsin.

Rep. Race said if he received a low rating from the ACA "I believe it might be an indication that I am following a conscientious path in my activities in Washington."

See Tie-In With Clerk's Office, Election by Voters Committee

Serviceman Sought Absentee Ballot; 'Vote No' Letter Came First

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

In early August an Appleton serviceman stationed on the east coast wrote to the city clerk for an absentee ballot to vote in the special Sept. 14 referendum election on appointing instead of electing four key city officers.

On Aug. 15 he received instead a one-page form letter from a group aligned with the city clerk and attorney, called the Committee of Election by Voters of Appleton Officials, telling him how to vote.

Seventh of Series

And the next day the serviceman got his absentee ballot in the mail from the city clerk.

In another instance, a hospitalized resident wrote the clerk's office for a ballot and the first thing he received was the committee's printed advice to vote "no" on the referendum questions. His ballot came later.

Other Instances

The incidents, repeated in the case of several others who inquired about getting absentee ballots, raised questions as to whether the city clerk's office has been linked directly with the activities of the group, and if so, for how long.

Other citizen groups, whose activities over the years have been dedicated to worthwhile community projects and improving the efficiency and services of local government, have been concerned over the allegiance which appears to have developed.

Specifically, the two public officials who have the responsibility of directing elections and interpreting the election statutes, have lined up with the Committee of Election by Voters of Appleton Officials.

The city clerk and city attorney have indicated through their actions they fear they will lose their jobs should the referendum pass and their positions be put on a merit basis with written and oral examinations by the State Bureau of Personnel and appointment by the mayor — subject to council confirmation.

Election Irregularities

In the April spring election when 267 servicemen were registered to vote, irregularities developed in the 15th Ward which resulted in recounts and court actions. While the clerk and some of his pollworkers had done nothing illegal, there were several instances which were questionable. The election was affected.

In one incident, the clerk was directly involved.

When the special election was scheduled by the council after it had adopted the charter ordinances and had backed making the four positions appointive instead of elective, the president of the council and a few other aldermen raised the question of conflict of interest.

It was suggested the deputy city clerk or some other party in official capacity not directly affected by the election and its outcome should be in charge of making the necessary election preparations rather than the clerk.

Attorney's Ruling

However, the city attorney ruled—and legally so—that under the statutes the city clerk was to be in charge of all elections and could not be replaced for that duty.

Literature sent out to servicemen and others seeking absentee ballots has been slanted to give the impression the mayor is making a power grab. It fails to explain in any way the detailed "valves" included in the proposed charter ordinances to insure that the best qualified people are picked for the administrative positions of clerk, attorney, treasurer and assessor.

The various citizen and civic groups supporting a "yes" vote on the referendum questions are stressing the possibility of developing a "political machine" danger and feel the best way to fill administrative positions, which have nothing to do with policymaking or legislating, is to have some kind of a civil service system to attract qualified, career people whose jobs will not hang in the political balance.

Popularity Contest

That the Committee of Election by Voters of Appleton officials favors the elective popularity contest approach to filling administrative jobs is indicated in the letter received by servicemen, which says in part:

"March 17, 1965 the Common Council of the City of Appleton passed four (4) Charter Ordinances giving the Mayor the right to appoint the city clerk, city assessor, city attorney and city treasurer.

"This committee opposes this type of legislation as we feel that you, the voter, should elect your public officials."

Without referring to the mandatory procedure prescribed by law in the charter ordinances for appointing the four officials, the committee also wrote, "A referendum election will be held Sept. 14, 1965 at which time you will be able to express your

Official Break-in

Kimberly Board Solves Lockout, Removes Door

KIMBERLY — Village officials were forced to break into the village board rooms Tuesday night before being able to conduct a meeting and once inside the room, routine business was transacted.

Police notified the village clerk in the afternoon that their keys did not function properly in the door lock. The clerk arrived about one-half hour before meeting time and found her key also did not work. Alvin Fulcer, village president, also encountered the same problem.

As each trustee arrived he tried his key but none worked. The street department foreman, who has keys for all locks on village buildings, ran into the same difficulty. It was found necessary to remove the door and the meeting started about five minutes late.

Village officials said the lock was old and worn, and had not been working properly for a long time.

Board Business

Trustees authorized the chief of police to attend a convention at Burlington Sept. 20-22 and village officials to attend a League of Municipalities convention at Green Bay Oct. 20-22.

Fulcer commended the village police, crossing guards and general motoring public for making it possible for the village to receive an award for going eight years without a pedestrian fatality.

Although no formal vote was held, it was agreed informally that the faulty lock should be replaced and proper officials provided with new keys.

Aldermen May Qualify For Insurance

Appleton Policy Covers Those With 85 Hours a Month

Do Appleton aldermen devote 85 hours a month to city business?

The question was broached by the council's personnel committee Wednesday night in connection with the new municipal employe hospital-surgical insurance plan.

Under the former plan, a minimum of 85 hours put in on city business made elected city officials, including aldermen, eligible to qualify for group insurance coverage.

The personnel committee reaffirmed its policy that elected city officials be included in the plan.

Under the Blue Cross-Blue Shield plan approved by the common council, the city pays $12 monthly toward family coverage and the employe $9.39. Unmarried employes have an $8.27 per month premium, the city paying $4.64 of the cost.

Convention Policy

In other action, the committee said the present convention policy of the city "appears unrealistic" and recommended it be changed.

The committee recommended deletion of the requirement which confines trips to 500 air miles and attendance at national conventions by department heads and others once every three years.

Members felt convention requests should be reviewed by department heads and then approved or rejected by the council committee having jurisdiction. The council would have to vote on all requests recommended for approval by the various committees.

Enrollment at WSU-O Climbs to Nearly 7,000

Officials Predict Largest School in System To Have 13,000 Student Population by 1968

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Enrollment growth at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh continues at a pace that is one of the highlights of the extraordinary expansion of state-supported higher education in Wisconsin. Nearly 7,000 have enrolled for the fall term.

The state administrative office of the state university system Thursday published enrollment projects showing that the Oshkosh school, already the largest in the system by a substantial margin, will increase its lead during the next two years and attain a probable student population of over 13,000 in the fall of 1968.

Compared With UW

That would be more than the total enrollment of the University of Wisconsin at Madison before World War II, and would represent the most rapid campus expansion in the history of education in Wisconsin.

The state university system officials said enrollment at Oshkosh next fall will be 9,200, and that the figure will rise to 11,200 in the fall of 1967.

Rival of the Oshkosh university in student enrollment growth has been Wisconsin State University-Whitewater in recent years. Whitewater, like Oshkosh, attracts students from a populous neighborhood. The Whitewater figure will rise to 8,600 next year, to 10,400 in 1967 and to 11,900 in 1968, said E. R. McPhee, director of the state university system.

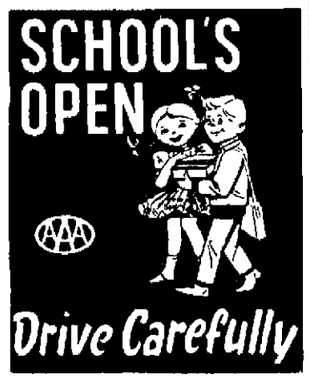
Reflects Valley Urbanization

The rapid growth of the two schools, reflecting the urbanization of the Fox River Valley and the southeastern district, figured in the decision of the Legislature to authorize two new branches of the University of Wisconsin to serve northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin.

Such schools would divert some of the pressure upon the Oshkosh and Whitewater institutions, and contain them to manageable and more satisfactory size, according to the calculations of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, which were accepted in effect by the legislature in authorizing planning funds for the new University of Wisconsin branches.

Ripon Driver Fined $150 for Speeding

OSHKOSH — Rayne J. La Fave, 26, route 3, Ripon, was fined $150 and costs or 45 days in the county jail by County Judge James Sitter after he pleaded guilty of speeding 14 miles over the limit in Menasha on Aug. 29. La Fave was arraigned today on the charge. Judge Sitter called attention to several previous speeding arrests in levying the high fine. La Fave was arrested during a radar check on Ahnaip Street in Menasha.



Sept. 14 Referendum Campaign Picks Up

Citizen Groups Flooding Mails With Literature Urging 'Yes,' 'No' Votes for Four Appointive Posts

Pre-referendum election campaigning is gaining momentum in Appleton with citizen groups flooding the mails with literature urging "yes" and "no" votes.

Activity is expected to attain a feverish pitch by Tuesday when voters go to the polls to decide whether the four administrative posts of city clerk, attorney, treasurer and assessor should be appointive rather than elective.

Spokesmen for the citizen groups supporting a "yes" vote on the government reform issue said today they are optimistic "because the explanation of the appointive procedure appears to be getting through to the voters.

There were these latest developments on the campaign front:

Mail Pamphlets

—The Appleton Taxpayers Association, a non-profit organization dedicated to good government, mailed out a "Vote Yes" pamphlet to an estimated 12,000 Appleton households, summing up the reasons why government administrative positions should be appointive.

—An association spokesman said an additional 2,000 to 3,000 fact pamphlets would be circulated in the business district and other areas of the city in the next few days.

—Newspaper advertisements are being run and other activities planned between now and election day by the Coordinating Committee for Good Government, a volunteer group also endorsing a "yes" vote.

—Members of the Appleton League of Women Voters intend to shift their campaign in support of a "yes" vote into high gear between now and the weekend, putting heavy emphasis on the explanation as to how the four officials would be appointed. Members will distribute brochures at supermarkets and shopping centers.

—The Committee for Election by Voters of Appleton City Officials, organized several months ago to oppose changing the present elective system used in picking the four officials, is mailing out 15,000 "vote no" cards, explaining how to operate the voting machine and carrying the slogan, "Let's keep our government of the people, by the people and for the people."

Proponents of the "yes" vote have indicated they intend to concentrate on giving residents of the city a factual explanation on how the appointive process would work.

The charter ordinances changing the offices of clerk, attorney, treasurer and assessor to appointive were previously endorsed and adopted by the common council, and then put to a referendum.

Derogatory Statements

It was also learned today some city officials and others who have gone on record citing the need for a "yes" vote and change in the status of the four positions have been receiving unsigned "no vote" postcards in the mail with personal and derogatory statements typewritten on the back.

There have also been reports of placards urging "yes" or "no" votes being removed from their posting places and torn up.

And, a news story published by the Oshkosh Northwestern Wednesday said a member of the committee campaigning for a "no" vote stated that members of the organization have been circulating petitions opposing any future candidacy of Mayor Clarence Mitchell for reelection, "as a result of the mayor's close association with the movement favoring the appointive system."

In checking the claim, The Post-Crescent could find no evidence or knowledge of such petitions being circulated here.

Forrest Polk, Former WSU-O Head, 76, Dies

Services Saturday For Man Who Led School 28 Years

OSHKOSH — Forrest R. Polk, 76, 727 Wright St., who served as president of Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh, for 28 years before his retirement in June of 1959, died at 2:25 a.m. today after a short illness.

His tenure was the longest in the history of the school and was marked with special problems — the depression when he first took office, the training of aviation students during World War II, the influx of post-war GI students and the "normal" enrollment increase which far exceeded predictions. Between 1953 and 1957 WSU-O enrollment more than doubled. During World War II, 1,261 aviation students were trained at the school.

Forrest R. Polk

During his tenure major study increased from 10 to 16 and several minor study areas also were added. The long range building program also started in the post-war years.

Library Dedication

The new library on the WSU-O campus was named in his honor in dedication services in 1963.

Born Oct. 12, 1888, in Tobinsport, Ind., Polk received a bachelor of science degree from Valparaiso College in 1909 and a bachelor of engineering degree from Purdue University in 1914. He came to the Oshkosh school in 1915, after a few years of teaching and administration in the Indiana public schools, as an instructor in the industrial arts department.

Too Much Practice By Combo Brings Woman Into Court

OSHKOSH — Too much practicing by her son's musical combo brought Mrs. Norine Clark, 47, 816 Franklin St., into court before County Judge James Sitter Wednesday.

The charge stated she had allowed musicians to practice at her home "of such intensity and duration" as to disturb the "peace and repose of the community." The charge covered the period from Aug. 10 to Sept. 5.

Judge Sitter deferred further proceedings until Sept. 24 to give her attorney a chance to study the ordinance and she was released without bond.

Briefs Requested in Trial Petition Case

Former Oshkosh Man Received 80-Year Jail Term on 10 Counts

MILWAUKEE — U.S. Judge Kenneth Grubb directed both sides to file briefs after a day of testimony here Wednesday on a petition by David Spanbauer for a new trial on 10 felony charges which brought an 80-year prison sentence in Brown County in 1960.

The 24-year-old former Oshkosh man was convicted after pleading guilty to raping a 16-year-old Green Bay babysitter and shooting her employer. Other charges included the attempted rape of a 12-year-old Appleton babysitter and seven counts of armed burglary or robbery in four counties.

Spanbauer is seeking the new trial on grounds that his constitutional rights were violated. In testimony Wednesday, he said he confessed to the crimes because of promises, and that he was denied the right to an attorney both during the trial and for appeal purposes.

The defendant was sentenced in February, 1960 by Judge Donald Gleason in Green Bay after waiving preliminary hearing and pleading guilty to the 10 consolidated counts. He received the longest prison term ever given in Brown County on eight of the counts, and was sentenced to the sex deviate facility for an undetermined term on the rape charges.

Rights Explained

Alexander Grant, who was Brown County district attorney then, told the court he had carefully explained the defendant's rights to him, and that Spanbauer was anxious to confess and "get everything off his chest."

During the trial, Spanbauer indicated he might want a preliminary hearing on the shooting count, but after a conversation with Grant, he waived the hearing.

When questioned on this point by Spanbauer's attorney, William Kiernan of Milwaukee, Grant said he merely explained the meaning of the statute to the defendant who seemed confused concerning the intention aspect of the charge.

Made No Promises

Grant said he never promised to "help" Spanbauer if he waived his right to counsel at the trial.

After Spanbauer's conviction, both Grant and Milwaukee Asst. Dist. Atty. John Romann, who took the original confession from the youth, spoke on Spanbauer's behalf prior to sentencing.

In all, Spanbauer gave three written statements to officials from Milwaukee, Appleton and Green Bay.

Romann refuted testimony by the defendant that he had made promises to the youth to move him to a private cell and let him see a priest if he made a confession. Spanbauer was first held in Milwaukee concerning a Wauwatosa burglary before admitting the Green Bay charges.

Clarence Elias, a Wauwatosa detective, testified Spanbauer told the officers he had something "real bad" to tell them, and that he wanted to "get it off his chest." Prior to this time, the

Little Chute to Get Plans for Garage Wing

Board Authorizes Firm to Prepare Garage Drawings

LITTLE CHUTE — The village board Tuesday night authorized McMahon Associates Inc. to draw preliminary plans for an addition of approximately 7,152 square feet to the village garage.

The addition to the garage near the athletic field at Monroe and McKinley streets would almost triple the size of the existing structure Additional room needed as storage area is inadequate because of the large amount of equipment

The American Legion Post of the village has agreed to make some of its property available to the village should the addition be constructed. Board members indicated that prior to the start of construction a referendum would be held in which residents would be asked to approve borrowing from $60,000 to $70,000 to finance the addition

No Effect on Taxes

Finance committee members indicated borrowing of such an amount would not result in an increase in taxes as the existing debt on the garage would be eliminated and future payments on the loan would be the same as have been paid on the initial garage loan through the years.

McMahon is to submit plans which call for a concrete block structure with a brick front to the village board and if approved, a referendum will be held sometime in October Board members expressed the hope the structure could be completed and equipment moved inside before winter

Traffic Lights

The village engineer reported work on the stop and go lights for Madison and Main streets is expected to get underway next week with completion prior to the end of the month. State men are expected to arrive late this week to point out positioning for the traffic signals.

The chief of police was authorized to hire a third school crossing guard to be stationed at Depot and Main streets and to attend the police chief's convention at Burlington Sept 20 through 22 Four applications were received for the position of police officer in the village and board members approved testing of the applicants as soon as arrangements could be made with the Appleton Vocational School.

Madison Firm Will Make Study on Utility Connection

Mead and Hunt Chosen to Work On Menasha-Kaukauna Project

MENASHA — Mead and Hunt Inc., a Madison engineering consulting firm, was selected Wednesday by the Menasha - Kaukauna Interconnection Committee to make a study of the proposed reserve power link between the two communities.

Thomas McGuire, Menasha Water & Light Commission superintendent, said the firm had been chosen from a list of six companies

The study, scheduled to be completed by Dec. 15, will evaluate the relative advantages and disadvantages to each city's utility, the sharing of costs and possible prices of exchanged power.

The proposed link would have to be a 14-mile high power transmission line, McGuire said.

It would operate at 34,500 volts, with a capacity for being doubled should the power needs of the cities grow It has not been determined yet whether the link would be mounted on poles or steel towers.

Driver Found Guilty, Fined

Thomas Armstrong, Kaukauna, Pays $200, Court Costs

Thomas Armstrong, 58, 615 Hyland Ave., Kaukauna, was found guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol when he appeared this morning in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Armstrong earlier had pleaded innocent. The court found him guilty. He was arrested Nov. 20, 1964 by Outagamie County traffic police

Armstrong today paid a fine of $200 and costs and had his drivers' license revoked for one year.

Police Aid Trucker at Struck Plant

OSHKOSH — A steel truck declined to pass a picket line at the struck Leach Co plant here where Local 1108 of the United Auto Work Union walked out Wednesday.

A company truck, driven by a supervisor of the manufacturer of refuse collection truck bodies and refuse containers, was halted at the company entrance by pickets

Police Chief Harry A. Guenther read the law to Union President Bernard Clavette and to a representative of the international union and then ordered the strikers to disperse, calling out to them three times in the name of the State of Wisconsin to disperse. The pickets moved out of the way and police formed a line for the truck to leave the plant.

Both city police and Winnebago County sheriff's police are on hand at the times of the shift changes to permit non-striking employes to go in and out of company property

The UAW local won a bargaining representative election earlier this year. The main issue at stake in the strike is whether the plant shall be a union plant, officials say.

Method of Annexation Angers Town Officials

MENASHA — Town of Menasha Clerk Robert Jacobs said today it is the manner in which the City of Menasha is annexing town property, not so much the annexation itself, which irritates town officials.

He cited the example of the recent 13-acre annexation of the Belleview plat and two other smaller adjacent pieces of land as an example.

While Mrs. Mathilda Kasel, owner of the 9 6 acre Belleview plat located in the area included by Racine and Milwaukee streets and 9th Street and the Milwaukee Road tracks, had agreed with the city to annex. The owners of the other two pieces of property had not even been contacted, Jacobs said.

Not Informed

One piece is owned by Standard of Appleton, Inc. and is occupied by the Wayside Inn Mrs. Karl Kuchenbecker, 1952 Palisades Drive, Town of Menasha, who is secretary-treasurer of Standard, said city officials had not informed her they planned to use direct annexation procedures on the firm's property.

Mrs. Kuchenbecker said the first the firm knew of the city's intention was reading it in the newspaper.

The city must file an intention to circulate an annexation petition 10 days before it is presented to owners. The petition from the city will reach Standard by next week, but it is largely a formality since under state statutes the city can annex the whole parcel with only Mrs. Kasel's signature.

Jacobs said the owner of the other small piece, William Akstulewicz, had not been contacted.

Groups File Financial Reports for Referendum

Unit Urging 'No' Vote Spends $351; ATA, LWV; Coordinating Committee Costs, $154

Pre-election financial statements have been filed with the Appleton city clerk's office, including one for the April 5, 1966 city-wide election.

On Tuesday, residents of Appleton will vote in a special referendum election to determine whether administrative positions of city clerk, attorney, assessor and treasurer should be made appointive.

The Committee for Election by Voters of Appleton City Officials — the group promoting a "no" vote on the referenda — reported income for two elections.

M. H. Regal, 1341 W. Wisconsin Ave., is the treasurer for the "no" group. It listed contributions of $351.75 and expenditures of $350.98 for Tuesday's election.

April Election Funds

In another statement the committee reported received $74 and having no expenses for the coming April 5, 1966 election. Contributions were reportedly received in March of this year.

Three citizen groups supporting a "yes" vote in Tuesday's election also listed contributions and expenditures to date.

John W. McKenzie of the Appleton Taxpayers Association said the organization had income of $210 and reported expenses totaling $16 10.

Mrs. Barbara Hoffman, 627 Brewster St., reported the League of Women Voters appropriated $85 from its treasury and spent $60 74 to date.

League Spends $60

And, the Coordinating Committee for Good Government received $291 in contributions and spent $98 so far, according to Mrs. Louise F. Sevetson, secretary-treasurer.

Expenses of all groups were for printed materials and advertising.

City Clerk Elden Broehm reminded that a final financial statement is due Sept. 21.

Two passengers in the Nemec car were injured. They are Mrs. John Sidoff, 21, route 1, Mosinee, who received a leg laceration, and Sharon Sidoff, 1, Mosinee, who was cut on the chin. The injured were taken to Mercy Hospital in the Moore Ambulance

The Nemec car was submerged up to the door handles in the lake, and the Pickering car was partially in the water Damage was estimated at $1,800 to the front and both sides of the Nemec car and at $900 to the right side of the Pickering car.

Accounts as to how the accident happened differed, county police reported Both vehicles were headed north on U S 41 where the two lanes narrow into one

Mrs Nemec claimed her auto was hit in the rear knocking it off the highway, through the guard rails and into the lake Pickering contended Mrs Nemec hit the guard rails first and then spun out and he could not avoid a collision opinion on the matter of the Mayor appointing the four major officials of the city"

To counteract the strategy of the committee in making it appear that full power is being invested in the mayor, the Appleton Taxpayers Association, which favors a "yes" vote, has asked residents to read the actual charter ordinances for themselves

Except in the case of the city attorney, the ordinances which would be approved through a "yes" vote make it mandatory for the administration to advertise for applicants for the positions. The job descriptions and pay ranges would be set by the State Bureau of Personnel, the official body to conduct written exams for the applicants The names of the three top-ranked applicants would then be turned over to the mayor who would make a selection and submit the appointment to the council for confirmation.

The appointments would be for indefinite periods and office holders could be removed only for cause and three-fourths vote of the council The aldermen, elected by the people, would have the final word officers had no indication the youth was involved with crimes outside Milwaukee County.

Refused Advice

Norbert Marx, a former Appleton detective who now serves as Outagamie County undersheriff, was the next to interview Spanbauer.

Marx told the court he asked the youth if he had talked to an attorney or if he wanted to see one, and Spanbauer replied no to each query.

The final statement from Spanbauer was taken by former Green Bay Detective Capt. W. R. Gilsdorf, who said the youth, "actually begged to get the story off his chest. He was very cooperative"

Gilsdorf also said that prior to making the statement, he warned the defendant that he didn't have to make any statement, and that anything he said could be used against him in a court of law.

Confessed Voluntarily

Under cross-examination by Asst. Atty. General William A Platz who represented the state, Spanbauer admitted he was never forced to give any of the three statements, and that they were given voluntarily.

Should Judge Grubb rule in favor of Spanbauer, he would be returned to Green Bay where he would again be arraigned on the various charges and the state would try to locate the evidence and witnesses from five and one-half years ago to try the case again.

Should the judge rule that Spanbauer's constitutional rights were not violated by the actions of the authorities surrounding his confessions and trial, he would be returned to Waupun to finish serving his lengthy sentence

Rats in Haiti Illustrate Effects of Foreign Aid

By LOUIS UCHITELLE

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Rats infest Haiti. They nest in the thick grass roof of a peasant's hut and feed on his meager crops. They seem to own the country road at night as they flit back and forth in the headlights.

The U.S. government once tried to do something about the rats. Mongooses were introduced into the country. But the project failed. The mongooses instead of attacking the rats ate the peasant's chickens, adding to his burden.

For many Haitians, the mongoose project is a fair illustration of the effectiveness of foreign aid in the Western Hemisphere's poorest nation. One hundred million dollars has been spent to aid Haiti since World War II. Most of it came from the United States. But the deterioration of the country seems to continue.

Road Construction

Much of the aid was for road construction and maintenance. Yet the 200-mile ride from Port au Prince to Les Cayes, a southern port city, takes more than 15 hours by Jeep today. It was a four hour trip by car in 1957, the year Francois Duvalier became president.

Near Les Cayes a huge earth mover sits abandoned on a rise in the rutted road. The initials "U.S.A." are stenciled on the doors. Weeds grow through the engine hood. Peasants in the neighborhood say the earth mover blew a tire six years ago. Before a new tire was obtained, the road project stopped and the earth mover was forgotten.

In the potentially rich Artibonite Valley, a dam and irrigation system stands as a monument to what U.S. officials describe as corruption and inefficiency in the Haitian government. More than $30 million, borrowed from the Export-Import Bank, went into the project. The money was exhausted before electric generators were installed. They were left to rust in the fields.

Canals Clogged

The Duvalier government no longer maintains the dam and the irrigation canals. They are clogged with silt, limiting agricultural development of the valley.

One aid project has been successful in recent years, and its success helps explain some of the failures.

In 1961, Duvalier signed a $3.5 million credit agreement with the International Development Bank. Under it, an institute of agricultural and industrial development was established as an autonomous branch of the Haitian government. The director, Jean Delej, a U.S. citizen, assumed control over money and hiring.

Loans Peasants

The institute set out to provide financial and technical assistance for the small peasant farmer — and also a market for his product.

This was the key feature. In the Haitian feudal economy, the peasant farmer doesn't conceive of a good market for a good crop. Cotton, growing nearly wild, always has been purchased by Port au Prince merchants for five or six cents a pound.

The institute, through a series of small loans to peasants, encouraged proper cultivation of a better grade of cotton, then paid 10 cents a pound.

The program started slowly as skeptical peasants used their loans to buy fertilizer, insecticide, seed and advice from the institute. In a matter of months, the yield on many tiny holdings jumped from 200 to 2,000 pounds per acre. The number of participating farmers in the volunteer program went from 136 in 1962 to 1,053 in 1964 to 4,600 this year. The 1965 production was 5.2 million pounds of the highest grade cotton Haiti has seen in generations.

Similar loan programs have been carried out for corn and grain with similar results in the past 12 months, according to the institute's figures.

The institute has spent $2,045,200 since 1961 and has made loans to 10,000 of Haiti's 500,000 peasant families.

"We are trying to create a revolution of expectation by breaking the peasant apathy and ignorance," Delej says. "If we introduce expectation and hope, production and spirit will rise. Otherwise the erosion and deterioration of the country, and the population explosion, will force the peasant into starvation."

Duvalier has been pressing for a renewal of large-scale foreign aid, which was cut off in 1962 amid charges of political interference and financial irresponsibility.

Your Money's Worth

Poverty Built Into Lives Of Population Groups

BY SYLVIA PORTER

What are your strictly statistical chances of being poor today? Precisely how much does your "poverty risk" increase if you are a man or a woman, if you are young or old, employed or unemployed, Negro or white?

For the first time, we are getting details profiling the full face of poverty — the "who," the "how many," the "how bad." A new study by Mollie Orshansky of the Social Security Administration in Washington not only pinpoints the percentages but also dramatizes the grim fact that large segments of our population are far more poverty prone than the nation as a whole.

Hard statistics on high poverty risks in our country are imperative if, in our mounting war on poverty, we are to isolate the targets of attack and know where to concentrate our efforts. Here are some of Miss Orshansky's startling findings:

Porter

One of Six

—Your over-all chances of being counted among the nation's 34.1 million poor today are statistically one out of six.

—If you're 65 years old or over, though, your risk is twice as large as that of a 45-year-old. While the overall number of people who are impoverished is declining, the number of our aged poor has remained unchanged.

Live Alone

—Next to the aged, children are the second greatest poverty risk in the nation today — particularly children in large families and in households headed by women. Nearly one in four American children — 15 million — now lives in poverty but nearly half of all children in families with five or more children under 18 are listed among the poor. That's five times the rate for families with only one child.

—If you are living alone, your chances of being poor are about twice those living in a family unit. If you are old and living alone, your odds of being poor soar to nearly three times the odds for the family unit.

—If you are a non-jobholding wife, your family's risk of being poor is double that of a family in which the wife works.

—If you are a Negro, your risk of being poor is 3½ times that of a white citizen. Today, 10.7 million Negroes are counted poor — about one-half the entire American Negro population.

—For a Negro child, the poverty risk is four times that of a white child. For an elederly Negro, the chances are twice as large as those for an elderly white.

—Your chances of being at the very bottom of the U. S. poverty barrel are greatest if you are a Negro woman heading a large family or an aged Negro woman living alone. A sickening five out of six of these are poor!

The face of poverty obviously is ugly and extremely lopsided. For some groups, the odds of being poor actually outweigh the odds of being non-poor. Poverty does not "strike" race groups; it is built into their lives.

Ugly Face

What's more, the study reveals that employment does not necessarily mean non-poverty. nearly 40 per cent of the 15 American children counted as poor live in families headed by a full-time breadwinner. The problem, Miss Orshansky notes, is not joblessness but "rather a history of an erratic series of short-term jobs." The critical question for dependency — and for the welfare rolls — is not whether the breadwinner is unemployed at any given time, but whether he works over a span of time, for an income which can support his family.

Even at this early stage in our research, it already is complicated than most Americans now think.

Study of Reproduction, Evolution, Race Take Frog's Place in Biology

Emphasis in New Curriculum Put On Learning How to Inquire

Third of five articles in the revolution in the 3Rs's in the U.S. school system.

By G.K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Sure, everyone remembers high school biology. That's the course where you cut up a dead frog.

Well, frogs are getting a new lease on life in the "new biology" which has been developed here. So are crayfish and earthworms. The emphasis has changed.

In its most radical departure from the traditional, the new biology part of curricula reform in U.S. education teaches evolution as major scientific theory, and discusses the facts of human reproduction.

Coming up soon in an early revision of the text: The biological basis for human racial differences, and the problems of human population growth.

100 Years Behind

From dead frogs to lively controversy is a natural step when you consider the knowledge explosion that has rocked the education world. Some biology being taught today is 100 years behind the times.

"Our goal is not to produce future scientists, but to make every student an effectve citizen in an age of science," said Dr. Arnold Grobman, director of the Biological Sciences Curriculum Study.

"For many youngsters, this will be the last science course they have in high school. We decided the emphasis should be not so much on the facts of science, as on how you can ask questions of nature."

Although cutting up dead frogs is not part of the program, there still is heavy emphasis on laboratory work and field work.

"We give the students lab experiences where they aren't sure how things are going to turn out," Grobman said. "The students need facts, but memorization of facts isn't enough."

Average Student

Unlike some of the "new" science programs, this biology has been written for the average student, with special materials prepared both for fast and slow learners.

About 70 per cent of all 10th graders study biology, compared with 41 per cent of the 11th graders studying chemistry, and 25 per cent of the 12th graders studying physics.

The project got under way on the University of Colorado campus in 1959 with a grant from the National Science Foundation to the American Institute of Biological Sciences. Gorbman, who had been involved from the start recently resigned to become dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Rutgers University this fall.

The textbooks and other materials were the joint product of university professors and high school teachers.

By the time the materials were ready for commercial publication in 1963, they had been revised several times after testing on 165,000 students in dozens of large and small high schools.

Although the materials seem to have won general acceptance, there has been some criticism of the teaching about evolution and human reproduction.

"We've had some trouble in Texas and Arizona about evolution," Grobman said. "One church group even called us Communists. Some communities won't have anything to do with the materials."

Grobman has been asked many times: "Do the biological sciences courses teach the origin of man differently from the story of creation as presented in the Bible?"

His answer: "The courses deal solely with biology and not with theology. They do not attempt to bring scientific information in conformity or in conflict with the Bible."

Grobman also says human reproduction is treated as a major biological process, and not as sex education.

Some Anticonvulsants Can Have Side Effects

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 14, has epilepsy and has been taking phenobarbital and dilantin to control his seizures. We had to increase the dosage and his gums have become very puffy, partly covering his teeth to quite a degree.

We have three problems: Soreness; unattractive appearance, and lately lack of appetite toward certain foods, especially meat.

The dentist says the medication is responsible for this puffiness and suggested rinsing with a special mouthwash. The doctor seems to be evasive. My son also is quite hairy and has to shave twice a week.—Mrs. L.E.

I believe your dentist is right, but I would add further suggestions. The drugs are known, at times, to cause such thickening of the gums as well as increase in hairiness—in some individuals.

Studies indicate (as far as the gums are concerned) that the drugs can interfere with absorption of Vitamin C. Therefore large doses of the vitamin are used as a treatment.

In addition, it may be possible to switch to another type of anticonvulsant drug, since the gums recede again when the dilantin is stopped.

It may, of course, take some careful trial-and-error work to find another combination which will control the seizures, but there are a number of anticonvulsants available. While they do not have identical actions and purposes, there is some overlap.

Think Twice

I thought twice, Mrs. L.E., before printing your letter, because of the risk of frightening some people away from the anticonvulsant drugs. That would be too bad, because they are marvelous in controlling or preventing epileptic seizures.

However, I suppose we do best to remember that almost any drug will have side effects under some circumstances. If the dosage has to be heavy, or a certain individual is sensitive to its action, side effects can develop. Yet other patients, using the same drugs, have no trouble at all.

It is so with the anticonvulsants. Some patients (the majority be far) use these drugs day after day, over many years, with no adverse reactions.

When side effects do develop, then it is necessary to find means of alleviating them without sacrificing the primary benefits of the medication.

Dear Dr. Molner: What does a D. & C. on a young married woman involve? Will this hinder her from becoming pregnant?—T.Y.

D & C. means "dilation and curettage." The opening of the uterus is stretched open enough so that special instruments can be inserted inside to scrape the surface gently, and to remove anything which should not be there.

For instance, this procedure is wise after a miscarriage, but there are various other reasons for it.

D. & C. will not hinder pregnancy; in fact, sometimes it is very helpful in making pregnancy possible.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Crescent for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Thant Says China Should Take Part in Disarmament Talks

Red Nation Should be Admitted To U.N., Urges Secretary-General

OTTAWA (AP) — U N Secretary-General U Thant endorses the idea of holding a world disarmament conference under conditions that would make it possible for Communist China to take part

He made clear also that he believes Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations as soon as possible.

Thant made his views known in a speech prepared for the 54th conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union in Ottawa. Because Thant is on a peace mission to end the fighting in India and Pakistan, the speech was to be read for him today by his chief aide, Undersecretary C V. Narasimhan

The 20th session of the U N General Assembly opening Sept 21 will consider the question of convening a world disarmament conference, as proposed by the summit conference of non-aligned countries in October 1964 The U N. disarmament commission has endorsed the idea

Common Predicament

"While the convening of such a conference under aegis of the United Nations may not be enough to bring about agreement on general disarmament, it could serve to focus attention in all parts of the world on the common predicament that is shared by all mankind," Thant declared

But he said that progress in disarmament can hardly be made "while one of the major military powers of the world in terms of conventional weapons, which has recently become a nuclear power in its own right, does not participate in the deliberations on such a serious subject "

He said it seemed essential to him that a world disarmament conference "should take place under conditions which would make it possible for all countries, if they so wished, to participate in its deliberations. This would be, in my view, a very significant step forward in the relaxation of international tension and the reduction of the feeling of insecurity which prevails in various parts of the world "

World Community

Referring to the absence from the United Nations of Communist China and such divided countries as Korea, Germany and Viet Nam, Thant said

"Sometime, somehow, we must finish the job of building a world community under the United Nations consisting of all nations, regardless of ideology regardless of size, so that all nations may be moved by the same impulse on behalf of peace, freedom and justice

"If this should be our goal, it is obvious that we should strive to bring about, as soon as possible, universality of membership in the United Nations "

The fall session of the U N General Assembly will again take up a proposal to admit the Communist Chinese and expel the Chinese Nationalists Most diplomats expect that the door will remain closed to Peking but by a closer vote than ever before.

Soviets Decline Invitation to Gemini Launch

Red Scientists Say They Seek Peaceful Cooperation in Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has declined an invitation to have an observer at the launching of spacecraft Gemini 6 from Cape Kennedy next month

Announcing this Wednesday, White House press secretary Bill D Movers said President Johnson regrets the Soviets were unable to accept an invitation now and hopes they will be able to accept a future one.

James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, invited the Soviet Academy of Sciences to send an observer. M D Keldysh, president of the academy, declined, replying through the U S. Embassy in Moscow.

Keldysh said Soviet scientists "positively evaluate cooperation between our countries in the study of cosmic space for purposes of peaceful use." He added

"However, at the present time, our representative cannot avail himself of your invitation. Availing myself of the opportunity, I would like on behalf of the Academy of Sciences of the U.S.S.R. to congratulate you, the cosmonauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad and also the scientists and engineers who took part in the preparation of the space flight of Gemini 5."

Pope Paul VI Reads from notes as he addresses a general audience in his summer residence at Castle Gandolfo Wednesday. He said he would do everything in his power to bring a quick end to the conflict between India and Pakistan. It also was announced the pontiff will visit the U. N. in New York Oct. 4. (AP Wirephoto)

Pontiff Long Wanted to Visit United Nations

Pope Paul Spent 31 Years in Vatican Secretariat of State

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul has been thinking about a trip to the United Nations almost from the time of his election two years ago, Vatican sources said today.

A veteran of 31 years in the Vatican's Secretariat of State, its foreign office, Paul VI has always been a supporter of the United Nations. His desire to give the papacy a more active world image, especially in the field of peace seeking was said to be behind the Vatican announcement Wednesday that he would fly to New York Oct. 3 and talk on peace the next day to the assembled U.N. delegates.

The same desire prompted his earlier history-making trips to the Holy Land and India, his continuation of the Vatican Ecumenical Council after the death of Pope John XXIII, and his willingness for a council topic on modern world problems to get full airing in the church assembly.

Invitation From Thant

U N. Secretary-General U Thant's invitation to Pope Paul more than three months ago gave him a chance he welcomed Many here say the outbreak of fighting between India and Pakistan, as the last straw atop a stack of global troubles had a bearing on the timing of the announcement of the trip

Thant was on his way to India and Pakistan seeking to halt the fighting. L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican newspaper, saw connections between the Pope's trip and the efforts of any peacemakers.

The Vatican paper said the Pope's appearance before the United Nations could be viewed as "a potent factor of encouragement for every good and worked-for will for peace by peoples."

Gets Immigration Bill

LBJ Seems Ahead In Favor Swapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson appears to have traded Senate Republican Leader Everett M Dirksen a rabbit for a horse in an exchange of political favors

Johnson got the horse Wednesday when the Senate Judiciary Committee approved by a 14-2 vote a House-passed bill which would abolish over the next three years the 41-year-old national origins system of immigration.

From the President's viewpoint the horse may be somewhat spavined by a provision that would limit Western Hemisphere immigration to 120,000 individuals yearly. But otherwise Johnson is reported to believe the horse is satisfactorily sound

Proposed Amendment

Dirksen got what his best friends and ardent supporters hesitate to describe other than as a rabbit — a proposed constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment.

The Republican leader is credited with being a hard bargainer most of the time. His difficulty in this case was that he was in desperate straits to keep his proposal alive in the hope that he can inflate support for it on another day.

The Dirksen proposal would permit state voters to determine whether one house of their legislature should be apportioned on other than a population basis This would nullify in part the Supreme Court's one-man, one-vote decision.

Short of Majority

The Republican leader once got the proposal before the Senate but couldn't get it adopted because support for it was eight votes short of the required two-thirds majority.

Starting all over again, Dirksen got a judiciary subcommittee to approve it. But he was up against an 8-8 tie vote by which the full committee previously had rejected the proposed amendment

To change that lineup, the GOP leader moved in to block committee action on the immigration bill although he said he favored passage of the later measure.

Settlement Offered in School Fire

Families of Pupils Killed, Hurt in 1958 May Get $3 Million

CHICAGO (AP) — Three million dollars was offered Wednesday to the 76 pupils who suffered injuries and to the families of the 92 students who died in the 1958 Our Lady of the Angels school fire.

Archbishop John P. Cody, speaking in behalf of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago, announced the settlement offer.

The fire Dec. 1, 1958, killed three nuns and 92 pupils.

Suits on file ask approximately $9 million in damages. None was filed on behalf of 57 of the injured children. No case has reached the trial stage.

Settlement offers are to be mailed today to persons who did not file suit and to persons who did

Not Binding

The announcement added that the settlement recommendations, although not legally binding, probably will be accepted by the injured children and the families of their deceased classmates.

It said the amount had been determined by a panel of three Circuit Court judges who this summer heard pre-trial discussions of the cases

"The money to be paid will be borrowed from Chicago banks," Archbishop Cody told newsmen "This I consider a moral obligation and we shall meet our obligations "

Jack Paar Opens Own TV Station

POLAND SPRING, Maine (AP) — Jack Paar, in his broadcast debut as owner of his own television station, says that, with some exceptions "show people bored me to death."

Paar, who quit the national network spotlight to operate a television station in rural Maine, said in a one-hour performance, "I was never really happy in show business."

But, he said, "It was harder to get out of TV than to get into it." He said his decision to leave the National Broadcasting Co. was easy but he was under contract so that it took a while to arrange his exit.

The former star of the "Tonight" show and later of an hour weekly program said he could never understand why the "controversial" label was hung on him.

One reason might have been that "never once in my career did we have a phony laughter or phony applause," he said.

Referring to the appearances of prominent politicians on his network how, Paar said, "it was just more interesting than talking to some dumb movie actor "

Bulges Out For New York Meter Maids

NEW YORK (AP)—Matthew Corey has an eye for the ladies but it's all in the name of law enforcement

Corey, who is chief of the city's traffic enforcement bureau, looked over New York's probationary meter maids Wednesday and decided that 84 of them shaped up for the job

His eye for the ladies had them all watching their weight during the six-month probation, and all but two weighed in Four of the original 90 resigned for other reasons

A spokesman for the department said Corey dispenses with the usual scales and tape measure "The weight is a flexible thing," he said. "Mr Corey is looking at the weight in proportion to the height "

In other words, curves are in and bulges are out

Site on Capitol Hill

Complex Fight for New Library Far From Over

WASHINGTON (AP) — It looks as if the Library of Congress has won the battle of Square 732, but the fight is far from over.

Square 732 is a choice, two block site on Capitol Hill and the library, James Madison, the House of Representatives, House-Senate prestige and the Capitol architect are all involved in what is going to happen to it

Wednesday a House Public Works Committee voted to let the library put up a $75-million building on the site and include a memorial to Madison. The full committee is expected to take similar action today. The Senate already has passed such a bill

However, opposition is certain to come when the bill reaches the House floor.

Square 732 has been making people unhappy since Speaker Sam Rayburn decided to acquire it in 1960, removing dozens of small shops, restaurants and homes.

Purpose Secret

He never made public just what purpose he had in mind for the land, which lies in the line of three House office buildings marching up the hill alongside the Capitol, and across from the main Library of Congress building

In 1961 the Madison Memorial Commission decided it was just the place for a monument to the father of the Constitution And the library, scratching to find room for the 44 million items it stores, thought it would be perfect for the third building it so desperately needed

Many House leaders thought it should be kept for a fourth House office building, but such talk died down in the clamor of protest over the munificent third office building — the $86 4-million marble-walled Rayburn Building

More Than Monument

The bill approved by the subcommittee is more a monument to compromise than to Madison The library would get a much needed building — about 10 stories high, three of them underground Madison would get a long overdue memorial — a large room off the main entrance, with exhibits honoring his contributions to the young republic

But there would never be a fourth office building on the site and this is the main issue which will have to be settled on the House floor before the fight ends.

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., sounded the cry Wednesday when he told the subcommittee he was unalterably opposed to any plan that would prevent a fourth office building from going up on the site.

An old friend of Rayburn's, Patman said the late speaker told him many times he would not let anything be built on the site that precluded an office building.

House Prestige

Patman also raised the issue of House prestige, saying it was House property, bought with House funds and its use should be determined by the House, not the Senate or the library.

"This is the first time there has been an attempted invasion of House property by outsiders " he said.

Another possible sticking point that could keep the bill from being enacted is the Senate's insistence that the Capitol architect, J George Stewart, be barred from the project. Stewart was in charge of construction of the Rayburn Building and much of the criticism about it has been directed at him.

But Stewart is a former House member and the House bill keeps him in control — a matter that would have to be worked out between the House and Senate.

Former Wisconsin Governor Fights to Curb Foreign Aid

Rep. Vernon Thomson Charges AID With Unwarranted Waste, Boondoggling

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The foreign aid agency, which has poured more than $100 billion into foreign countries in the past 20 years, is now spending hundreds of thousands of dollars trying to find out what it's doing, how and why.

Private research firms have been retained to study and report on the agency's far-flung organizational structure, myriad administrative and operating procedures, red-tape-entangled functions of its army and executives and lesser officials, and various other details of its vast bureaucratic empire.

Representative Vernon Thomson, R-Wis., member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, who has been digging into these remarkable backstage research projects, has uncovered two new ones.

Two Studies

Both awarded to Booz, Allen & Hamilton, Inc., they are a $54,050 "Management Survey of (AID) Organizational and Administrative Arrangements," and a $70,945 study of AID's "Management Reporting System." The first has been completed, the other is still in progress.

Thomson's latest disclosure is of particular moment as the House begins consideration of President Johnson's multi-billion dollar foreign aid budget. Originally, he asked for $3.38 billion, but this has been cut to $3.285 billion.

Bipartisan foes of large-scale foreign aid spending will try to slash this further. In this, they will have the active support of Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee in charge of the foreign aid budget, who has long fought to whittle such budgets to the bone.

Unwarranted Waste

In the forefront of this fight Rep. Thomson will lay before the House a comprehensive account of AID's considerable expenditures for research projects which he caustically characterizes as "unwarranted waste and boondoggling."

As a graphic illustration of that he will cite a $281,000 project given the American Institute of Research, Washington, D. C., that produced the following baffling gem:

"Feasible means for measuring the degree to which a prospective incumbent possesses some of the requisite characteristics may not be currently available to AID. However, the inability to measure the characteristics within the constraints that now bind the agency should not be confused with the issue of whether or not a characteristic is essential to do a job effectively. If the characteristic is needed, and AID chooses and places a candidate lacking it in the appropriate degree, the aspects of the job in which the characteristic is required cannot be performed effectively."

Former Governor

From the recently uncovered $54,050 "Management Survey of Organizational and Administrative Arrangements," Thomson, former governor of Wisconsin, will submit to the House more examples of such scintillating findings

He will also point out that they reveal numerous serious AID shortcomings, flaws and defects. Illustrative are the following:

"The central personnel office has not been as effective as desirable in assuming a strong leadership role because of internal staffing and structural problems. . .Frequent changes in agency leadership, revisions of organizational structure and operating philosophy, and emphasis upon immediate operation needs have all been impediments to the development of a well balanced and comprehensive personnel program suited to AID's needs."

"AID has not fully exercised its broad discretionary powers in coping with the situation of unnecessary or marginal employes. Until recently, there was no tradition in AID of the tough exercise of evaluative judgement as a basis for personnel actions."

Files Disappear

"It has often been said that AID has an inadequate memory. Evaluation reports on projects in process or completed are scarce, and what has been done tends to go into the files and disappear. Moreover, files become incomplete and their contents lost over the years.

"AID has not yet developed a systematic process to appraise the consequences and results of its program operations and to exploit the rich accumulated experience of the agency."

"There is at the present time no organization unit in AID specifically vested with the responsibility for establishing and maintaining a comprehensive management reporting system consciously oriented to the Administrator's need."

"There needs to be a clearer designation of unified responsibility for coordianted overall program policy and program review below the level of the Administrator. . .One of the principal consequences of this lack of a strong unifying influence at staff levels is that the several staff units in their separate and discreet workings to not make a significant impact as a coordinating force on the regions."

"The primary structural need of the agency is to clarify and strengthen overall program leadership responsibilities. . .The Administrator requires further assurance that all essential elements of the agency's program process are receiving balanced and adequat attention."

"A very valuminous document, intended to be AID's version of the Federal Procurement Regulations, was drafted and circulated. Its volume alone was enough to discourage the busy recipient from reading, let alone studying, it and preparing thoughtful comments."

Unification Lacking

"AID structure is overly segmented in staff and functional offices. Unified impact, in terms of a sustained and coordinate contribution to program and implementation processes, is lacking. Some units have higher status than is warranted, while some functions are not adequately recognized. The structure tends to place an extraordinary burden of coordination on top leadership with respect to line and staff relationships."

Representative Passman, at the final meeting of the Appropriations Committee that voted the $3.285 billion foreign aid budget, made an impassioned 35-minute plea for a steeper cut.

He proposed a slash to $3 billion, pointing out that more than $7.5 million for various foreign assistance purposes has already been voted by Congress this year at the President's behest. Although Passman listed these immense expenditures in detail, his arguments fell on deaf ears.

Dolefully he told his colleagues, "I feel like a rooster who fooled around with the chickens next door and got his wings clipped. When he forgot and tried to fly over the fence, his neck was caught in the pickets and he near choked to death."

His colleagues laughed, but did not relent.

Golden Agers Begin New Season

Charles Goldbeck throws out a booming bass as the group sings after dinner.

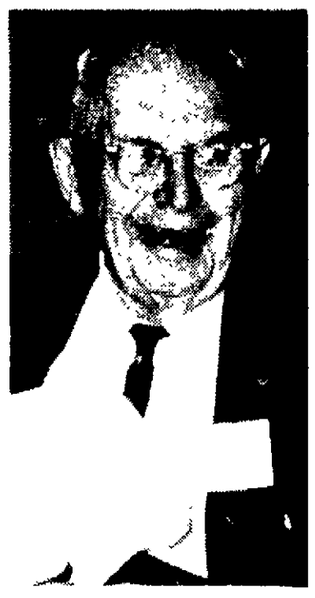
A fall and winter season that promises to be full of friendship, fun and rewarding work was initiated by Appleton's Golden Age Club Sept. 2 at their opening meeting of the new season. The event was a potluck supper at Jefferson School. Special guests at the program were members of the Golden Age Board of Directors, invited so they could get to know club members individually.

The organization hopes this year to increase its membership from 250 to 300.

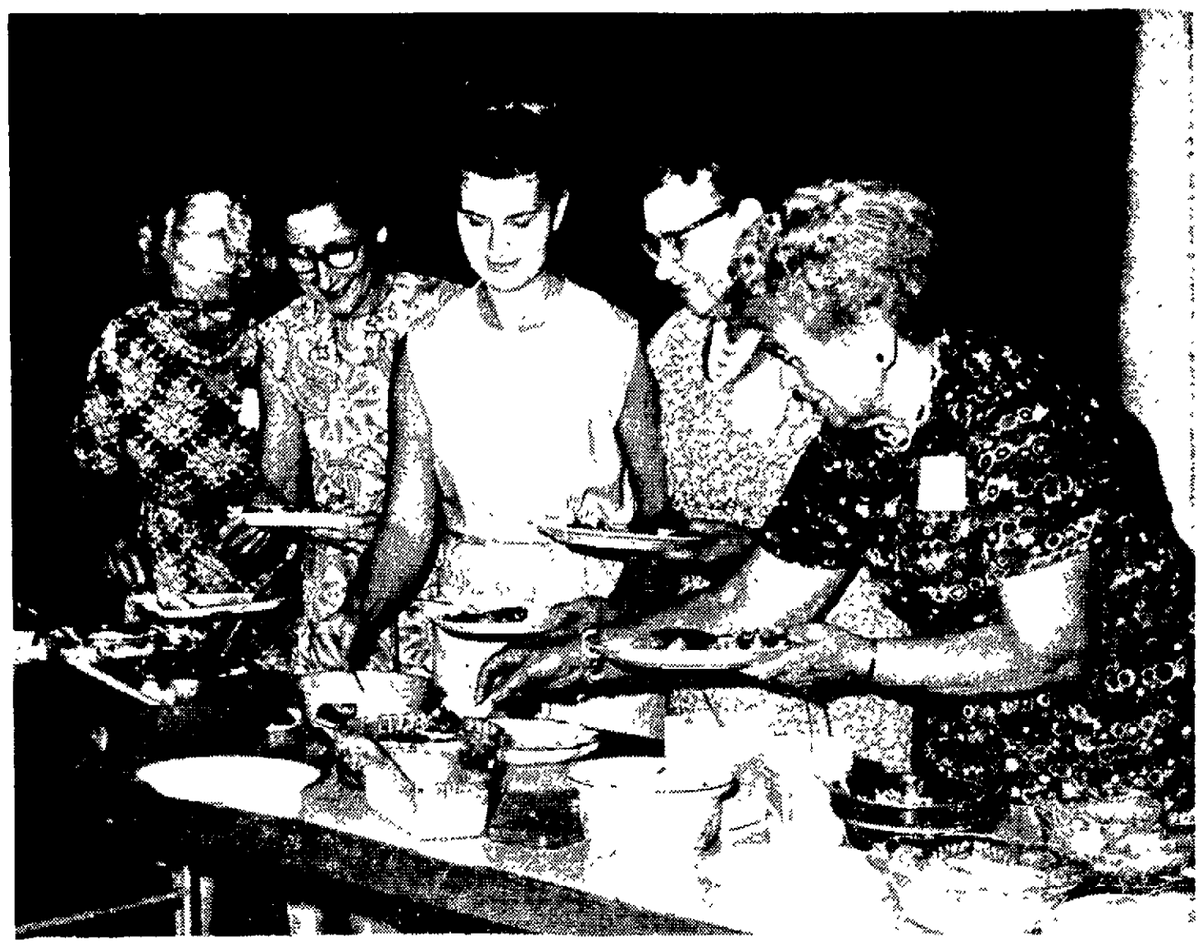
On the club agenda for the coming year are the Oct. 16 Pancake Day and Bazaar at St. Mary School. At this event, members sell handicraft items they have made throughout the year. Their like-new toy sale, with items donated by the community and repaired and refinished by club members, is scheduled Dec. 3 and 4, at the clubhouse, 532 N. Appleton St.

Getting their program underway for the year, members held a songfest and dance after their first meeting. Regular events include handicraft sessions, card games and singing.

Mrs. Marie Wendell's smile reflects the enjoyment members find in doing things together.



Herbert A. Black, 90, received a life membership in the Golden Age Club at the meeting.



Golden Age Club members and board members found that they all had some fine cooking skills as they dined on potluck fare at the first meeting of the year. Sampling favorite dishes are Mrs. Ann Dreier, board members Mrs. Daniel Crowley and Mrs. Charles Seter, and Mrs. Ethel Kirsling and Mrs. Lybia Brock. Below left, members join voices in an after-dinner song. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Even Experts See Judging As Difficult, Trying Task

Ever meet a man who wasn't positive he knew what beauty is? Or a woman who didn't have an ideal "look" that she both envied and strived for? And when it comes to contests, who doesn't know better than the judges what that intangible but ever so obvious quality embodies?

When a new Miss America is chosen Saturday evening, the judges will seek to choose from among the 50 contestants that girl who most nearly meets standards accepted by everyone. Quite a task! The new Miss America must not only be physically beautiful, but also possess poise, charm, talent personality and intelligence. By anyone's standards, these add up to beauty.

No Absolutes

Still, everyone has his own opinion. For this reason, the Miss America Pageant sets strict standards, and makes an exacting task of choosing the beauty who will wear the Miss America crown. They call upon outstanding personalities in the fields of drama, music, literature, art, dance, even education, to cast a critical eye upon the young ladies who covet the title.

Top Judges

Sharon Singstock, the Oshkosh beauty who is this year's Miss Wisconsin, will compete in talent, swim suit and evening gown categories before a panel of judges that uses a painstakingly constructed point system to assure the best use of their own professional knowledge and experience. Judges of past years have been Moss Hart, Mitch Miller, Bennett Cerf, Joan Crawford, June Allison, Arthur Fiedler and Arlene Dahl.

Even judges of this caliber have their knowledge put to the test during the four days of competition. Besides, they are subjected to questions by the Miss America contestants themselves. The girls get solid answers to such questions as what it's like to be famous, and how to succeed in their particular fields.

Joan Crawford, who will join the judge's panel again this year, says, "It is particularly important today to select the right girl in view of the overabundance of uncomplimentary headlines involving the nation's young people."

A City Welcome

Atlantic City has put on festive airs for the week-long sojourn with the nation's beauties. Store fronts are decorated and banners fly the colors of every state of the union.

Contestants vie in one of three categories Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, with the big finale televised at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Miss Singstock gave her talent presentation Wednesday evening. Tonight she is slated for swimsuit competition and Friday, evening gown. On hand to applaud are her family, Oshkosh friends and sorority sisters from Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh.

Lady Bird Says All Have Stake in American Beauty

By FRANCES LEWINE

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson joined in a flying bridge game, spoke out against ugliness in American cities, and took in the beauties of the Grand Tetons on a visit here.

The President's wife focused attention on a highway beautification bill now being considered by Congress.

In a speech to 500 conservationists Tuesday night she said: "The people of this country will be disappointed—as I will—if Congress goes home this year without enacting legislation on highway improvement."

Mrs. Johnson's four-day visit to Grand Teton National Park was turning out to be a holiday for mother and daughter. As the First Lady put it—a chance to be with 21-year-old Lynda Bird "a little bit before she goes back to college in Texas."

Enter Romance

And for Lynda, there was perhaps a bit of romance. She unexpectedly renewed acquaintance with a young medical student, Brent Eastman of Evanston, Wyo., a summer float boat guide, whom she met when she was here in July.

Tall, handsome Eastman, 25, a senior at the University of California Medical School, telephoned Lynda as soon as she arrived and turned up to escort her to the dinner where Mrs. Johnson spoke in behalf of the President's campaign to beautify America.

Afterward, while Mrs. Johnson shook hands at the door with the dinner guests from three conservation organizations, Lynda and Eastman went off together, accompanied by a Secret Service agent.

Reserve Beauty

Amid the beauty of the snow-capped Tetons, Mrs. Johnson reminded in her speech that it is not enough to set aside areas like this. "Beauty can not be for vacations or for special occasions. It can not be an occasional privilege for those who come long distances to visit nature. It cannot be reserved: 'For nice neighborhoods only'," she said.

The President's wife said, "Ugliness — the gray, dreary unchanging world of crowded, deprived neighborhoods — has contributed to riots, to mental ill health, to crime."

She pointed out that "preserving the attractiveness of a city is a primary economic asset, a way to get payrolls. The city that is beautiful brings high return on the dollar. The ugly city is one which will decline and die."

Favorable Break Is 2nd Chance

In general, a defender who has an ace should try to capture a king or a queen with it. A declarer should try to dislodge a defender's ace without giving anything up in the process. Sometimes a contract depends on which side has its way in this type of struggle.

West opened the queen of spades, and South won with the king. Needing three club tricks,

Opening lead — ♠ Q

South thought that his best chance was to find the six missing clubs divided 3-3 so that dummy's last low club would be good.

South therefore led the king of clubs, forcing out the ace. West returned the jack of spades to the ace, and declarer led out the queen and jack of clubs. The suit failed to break, and South was down.

It was reasonable to play for the 3-3 break in clubs, but only as a second chance. South should play first for the chance that West started with a singleton or doubleton ace of clubs.

Leads Low

South should begin the clubs by leading a low club from his hand. If West held the singleton ace, he would have to play it, and South would easily get three club tricks.

As it happens, West plays the seven of clubs, and dummy wins with the jack. South returns to his hand with a diamond and leads his other low club.

This time West must play his ace. He gets only a low club from South and a low club from the dummy. South can get a second club trick with his king and can then get to dummy with a diamond to cash the queen of clubs, making the contract.

South cannot be sure that West will have to play his ace of clubs on the first or second trick, or even that West has the ace of clubs. It costs nothing to try: if the attempt fails, there is always time to play for the 3-3 break.

Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S Q J 10 9 C H 9 8 6 D 8 6 3 C A 7. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention. If partner has a major suit of four or more cards, he will bid it and you will raise to game in that suit. If partner has no major suit, he will bid two diamonds and you will then jump to three no trump.

The man-tailored shirt above shows the emphasis placed on the blouse necklines this fall and winter. Blouses may be collared or collarless. If collared, it may be a tiny round circle or it may be the pointed button down collar. The latter may be worn open at the neck to show an ascot, turtle neck dickey or other colorful touches filling in the space. The trend is to paisley prints for fall.

Fussing About Little Habits Is Mistake, Reader Agrees

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: You're absolutely right when you tell parents to keep from fussing at their children about little habits. If they're certain their children are generally happy and are being reasonably well taken care of, they don't need to worry about such habits.

I was worried a little when I noticed my son, 1 year, sucking his finger and stroking his blanket binding. But I figured that he was probably a little upset because he had just weaned himself. So I didn't interfere. I knew he had been the one to make the change from the bottle to a cup by himself, so I didn't think it was because of any pressures I was putting on him.

Well, he kept right on sucking that finger, mainly when he was listening to a book or watching television or going to sleep. And I kept right on thinking about what I might be doing wrong, but deciding there wasn't much real trouble he could be fretting over.

And when he was 4 years old and finally able to ride a 2 wheel bike and learn to swim and do other "grown-up" things, he stopped sucking his finger, with no encouragement from us.

I'm certain that if we had made a big issue of his finger-sucking, we would have caused a serious problem. Don't you agree? Mrs. C. J.

The only reason I don't answer you with an unqualified "Yes" is that it's not likely that parents who are taking good care of their children will cause serious problems of any sort. That's the great thing about avoiding making major mistakes about such things as eating, sleeping, cleanliness, sex, and activity — there's plenty of room to make all sorts of trivial mistakes without causing lasting emotional difficulties.

The best reason for not fussing at a child about behavior that doesn't hurt him or bother others is that the fuss is generally lots of trouble for the parents. Occasionally, some parents are more fussed by putting up with trivial bad habits. For them, it makes sense to tell the kids to stop.

For help with questions about your child, write to Dr. Eve Jones, care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Dr. Jones will be happy to reply to you personally.

Plastic Bathtub

Plastic bathtubs have been "tenant-tested" in Indianapolis with considerable success. These tubs and their enclosures are molded in a one-piece design which eliminates hard-to-keep-clean nooks and crannies. The smooth plastic surface needs only sponging with soap or detergent suds to keep its white or pastel surface sparkling clean.

IT WAS A SNAP! I'm telling you girls, it was a real personality changer. I'm really a new gal with a full measure of dippity-do.

It all started when someone, I don't really remember, though I should, told me to learn about the CHAMINADE WOMEN'S CHORUS of the Fox Cities.

Here was, I said to myself, an idea worth developing. I needed to put some zing into my spirits. It was getting so that HE was getting to ignore my conversation at breakfast and giving full time to the newspaper.

You should see him now. He's telling all his friends what a wonder I am and how he is skipping cocktail hours just to be home with me.

Want to be in my shoes? Well, here's how:

First Trophies Given At Atlantic City

BY TOM SEPPY

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — "I have no problem keeping my shape. I have a problem keeping my weight up," says the curvy blonde who won the swim suit title in the Miss America pageant.

"I'm eating all the time and I eat anything and everything," says Patsy Puckett, the shapely 20-year-old Miss Mississippi.

The University of Mississippi junior measures 35-23-35 on a 5-foot-6, 120-pound frame.

Miss Puckett was named the swim suit winner Wednesday night during the first round in the nation's oldest beauty contest.

Miss Indiana, an 18-year-old soprano who never took a voice lesson, won the talent honors singing a medley of three songs from the hit show "Sound of Music."

Eileen Smith of Indianapolis said she began singing "when I was 7, ever since I first saw Roy Rogers and Dale Evans."

She has hazel eyes, auburn hair and a 34-23-34 figure, and wants to pursue a singing career.

Miss Indiana, a Ball State University freshman, said she chose the winning medley because "Julie Andrews is my idol. I'd like to follow a career like her."

Miss Mississippi, born in San Mateo, Calif., said she wasn't nervous when she walked down the 120-foot runway in a swim suit before more than 5,000 spectators in Convention Hall.

But Miss Puckett said that she had been a little leery when she first saw the runway during rehearsal.

"I wondered how you could go all the way out on the runway and get back without fainting," she said.

Miss Puckett, of Columbus, Miss., wants to complete her education and then get married and raise a family.

Miss Indiana won out over 15 other girls and Miss Mississippi over 16.

The remaining 17 contestants who seek the title now held by Vonda Kay Van Dyke of Phoenix, Ariz., and the $10,000 scholarship that goes with the crown, appeared in evening gowns. To heighten the suspense, the winners in that division are not announced.

During the three nights of preliminary competition the girls will appear in each category.

Miss Mississippi and Miss Indiana walked off with first round honors in Miss America Competition Wednesday evening in Atlantic City. Miss Patricia Puckett, Miss Mississippi, left, took honors in the swim suit phase of the first night contests and Miss Eileen Mary Smith, Miss Indiana, won the talent division. Sharon Singstock, Oshkosh, Miss Wisconsin, competed in the talent division Wednesday. (AP Wirephoto)

Readers Protest to Articles on Alcoholic Drinks

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS. I've been reading your column for a long time and you're not bad when it comes to teen-age foolishness, mother-in-law stuff and free-loading relatives But I sure wish you'd keep your trap shut about social drinking

Believe it or not a lot of people pay attention to the junk you write On account of you, folks who used to enjoy a couple of sociable martinis before dinner are now wondering if maybe they aren't alcoholics For example we were at a party last night and I asked a woman if she'd like another highball She replied, "I don't think Ann Landers would approve I've already had two."

Do you think it is right to make people feel guilty if they take a drink to relax. You keep harping on the evils of liquor and then quote doctors to back you up Have you noticed there are more old drunks around than old doctors—Bourbon Barney

Dear Barn: Those "old" drunks you see around are probably a lot younger than they look. Among other things, liquor ages people.

Furthermore, Buster, the moderate drinkers rarely object to my advice. The beefs come from the heavy boozers. Anyone who feels the need to point out that he is a social drinker and not a drunk is in trouble already.

DEAR ANN LANDERS. I'd like to shake the hand of that woman who wrote in to say she loves to watch her husband's face when he is asleep and that his snoring doesn't bother her because it means he is home where he belongs

I live in a trailer court where all I hear is, "My Carl is a skunk" and "My Vernon is an idiot." I never say a word about my Ed I just listen

Yesterday one of the wives said, "Is your husband a saint or something? Doesn't he have any faults?" I answered, "I have nothing to complain about, and if I did have I sure wouldn't broadcast it to the neighbors."

The woman looked at me like I was nuts Will you please say something to wives who are all the time knocking their husbands—Mrs No Complaints

Dear Mrs.: It's unforgiveable. The woman who runs down her husband reveals more about herself than she says about him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago while on a trip to North Carolina I bought a beautiful little console table.

I hadn't had the table more than a month when a friend of mine went crazy over it. Liz insisted it was the only table she had ever seen that would fit perfectly in her hall, which was odd-shaped and impossible to decorate.

I hated to part with the table but she begged so hard I agreed to sell it to her for exactly what I paid—plus shipping.

That was three weeks ago This morning Liz called to say she was browsing through a local furniture store and ran into a table exactly like the one I had sold her. It was priced at $35 less She added, "And your table had some scratches I didn't see when I bought it"

I'm so mad I can't see straight. If the table has scratches on it, her kids put them there Shall I tell her to bring the table back (scratches and all) and then return the money—G. L.

Dear G.L.: No. You've already invested too much time and energy in this mess. Now leave it alone. And in the future stay out of the furniture business. Let your friends find their own tables, then if they have a gripe they can go to the manager of the store.

Wrinkles Are Avoided With Good Packing

In addition to the extra credits of light weight, looks and status, leather luggage is stronger and more pliable than ever. Thanks to new tanning methods, leather absorbs scuffs, bumps and rough handling without a puncture, tear or dent.

A leather two-suiter, with accompanying soft leather carry-on case or duffel bag, should see the college through. The canny co-ed can do with a pullman case (from 26 inches to 30 inches long), a 21 inch weekender, and a fitted cosmetic case. The flexibility of the leather sides allows for maximum packing space.

When packing, pad each fold in jackets, dresses, etc., with loosely gathered tissue paper to avoid wrinkles.

Each garment should be fitted as nearly as possible to the size of the suitcase to get the least number of folds.

Be sure that lapels and collars lie smooth. Fold garments with sleeves smoothed back against the front.

If any skirts or dresses are to be folded, do so near the waistline rather than the hem

In a man's two-suiter, drape pants and jackets carefully across the frames provided, according to the manufacturer's directions Shoes, shirts and the rest should fit snugly into the opposite compartment.

Shoes should be covered. Tuck socks, hankies and other small items inside as a spacesaver.

'Tis Heather for Fall Weather

Bonnie heathers fresh from the moors of Scotland, add their misty haunting color to a wooly collection of swinging coordinates for fall wear.

Certain to be a winner with the campus crowd is the heathered total look, a combination of patterned tops with matching knee-high socks. A featured attention-getter is the heather-y pullover sweater, criss-crossed with a contrasting "chicken wire" pattern. A knee-high sock duplicates the "wire" pattern to complete the look. For fall playdays, pair the top 'n' socks with jaunty Bermuda walkers in solid heather shades

Weskits Popular

Echoing fall's bright colors is a flowered paisley print showing its bright face on a trim weskit. It creates a Scottish "school boy" look when worn under a solid heather jacket lined with the print. Completing the look is a contrast-stitched Bond Street collared blouse and herringbone A-skirt.

To round out your heathered wardrobe there's a snappy houndstooth checked cut-away jacket to wear with a pleated skirt and turtle-necked pullover

Subtly blended heather fabric shapes the English styled cut-away jacket sparked with two pockets above. A flowered paisley-weskit and Bond Street collared blouse are worn beneath the jacket. The A-shaped skirt is of heathered herringbone weave. A Scottish "school boy's" cardigan sets the pattern for the houndstooth check jacket at left. It is worn with a heather-toned turtleneck sweater and solid toned pleated skirt.

The Ailing House

Floor Hole Helps Dry Basement

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I live in an area of old homes with non-waterproof stone basements. I've been told that to prevent water seeping through walls and floors, they dig a hole in the floor, line it with tile or an old oil barrel and install a pump.

Since this is the lowest point, water collects in the hole, and the pump sends it into the drain system. This keeps their basements dry during spring thaws and rains. Is this true? If so, what size hole, and where should I dig it in the floor?

A. Perfectly sound principle. In fact it's the principle used for millions of homes equipped with sump pumps. These are in a small pit, concrete lined, and connected to the drainage system. When water collects, it runs into the pit.

When it's deep enough, it activates the pump. Dig at the lowest point in the floor, and deep enough to accommodate the pump — usually about two feet deep and from two to three feet square. Line it with tile or concrete in preference to a barrel.

Certainly will be a lot less expensive than covering all walls and the floor with concrete and waterproofing.

Q: Recently I obtained a beautiful oil painting. It had been left in a dark corner for years and is very dirty. Is there any way I clean it safely?

A: Lay it face up, on a flat surface, with the canvas firmly supported all over. Magazines are good for this. On a small corner, gently test for colorfastness by wiping with a soft cloth wrung out in stiff suds.

If only dirt comes off — no color — it will be safe to proceed. Work carefully in a small area at a time. Clean by wiping with a soft cloth wrung out in clear water before moving on to the next section.

Avoid soaking. If colors do come off on your test, turn the painting over to a competent professional restorer (which is a mighty good idea anyway, especially if the painting is valuable).

Q: In our newly bought 45-year-old house there must be at least four layers of wallpaper, with three coats of paint on top. In spots it's cracking and peeling off. I'd like to remove it all and begin over. How do I go about this?

A: The principle is to get water or steam under the paper to soften the paste enough so you can pull it off. To allow moisture penetration, you have to scratch the waterproof surfaces of the painted layers, as well as the paper, too.

A rasp (file) makes a good scratcher. So does an old-fashioned cheese grater. You can rent a wallpaper steamer at a tool renting service or wallpaper store.

You can also do the soaking with a sponge and hot water, or your garden hose set to a fine mist. It's a long, tedious job for a whole house.

Posters and Pictures helped members of the Kaukauna High School Class of '50 recall the events of 15 years ago. The group held a reunion Saturday evening at Knights of Columbus Hall, Kaukauna. At right, former football players who brought the school to glory discuss the exciting times with their wives. They are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Myrhum, Hartland; Mr. and Mrs. James Janssen, Wrightstown; the Rev. Mark Schommer, Green Bay, and Mr. and Mrs. Tony Zenisek, Kaukauna. Below, remembering, are Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kroll and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Klarer, all of Kaukauna. Mr. Klarer was reunion chairman. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Sheboygan Setting for Ceremony

SHEBOYGAN — Wedding promises were exchanged by Miss Mary Helen Raml and Gerald Stanley Miller Aug. 21 at St. Peter Episcopal Church, Sheboygan Falls. The double ring ceremony at 11:30 a.m. was performed by the Rev. Richard J. Brown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Raml, route 2, Sheboygan. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Miller, Clintonville, are the parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Kristine Schultz, Sheboygan Falls, a cousin of the bride, acted as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Virginia Miller and Miss Karen Eagan. The flower girl was Miss Laurel Beth Heinig.

A brother of the bride, Wilbur Carl Raml, Washington, D.C., served as best man. Groomsmen were Gary Boreen and Lee Knoll. Thomas Raml and Theron Warfield shared ushering duties.

Guests attended a reception at Durward's Supper Club.

Mrs. Miller attended the University of Wisconsin, Madison. The newlyweds will attend Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh this fall and will live in Oshkosh.

Faddy Diets

Why, oh why, do reducers continue to get hooked on fad diets? Without doubt, it's because the bait is enticing.

Faddy regimens hold out the promise of large, fast weight losses without the slightest effort on the dieter's part. Moreover, methods are often presented under pseudo-scientific labels that sound convincing. And, being conditioned to the true miracles of modern science, the reducer swallows the bait.

It profits her nothing. She may lose a few pounds, but the method soon becomes unpalatable and she gives up. What woman could long take the dull, repetitious and quacky foods that are the backbone of most fad diets? No woman could fit the pattern into her family and social life. If she wants to stick with it, she'd better find a cave. And be sure to let her doctor know its location!

Health Danger

Faddy reducing is dangerous to health and vitality. Such beauty assets as the hair and skin are not improved thereby. Yet there is always a new fad — some high-fat, no-fat, nonsense routine. And there are always takers.

Doctors and nutritionists agree that the long way home, via an approved low-calorie and high-nutritional regiment, is the only sure one. You lose weight slowly, but in the process you learn how to lose for keeps. Meanwhile, you are not denied the pleasures of the table — good food and good company.

Q.E.D.: When the next "wonder" diet comes your way, keep your mouth shut!

Exciting Plaids

By now you're probably getting bored with summer cottons and are itching to get your hands on some beautiful, brilliant colored woolens.

If you decide to tackle a plaid, be sure to match your design when laying out and cutting the pattern.

Plaids can be uneven across the fabric, lengthwise of the fabric or in both directions. Even plaids repeat the design.

To cut an even plaid. For layout guide, use pattern suggestion layout for fabrics without nap. Slide your pattern pieces around so that notches to be joined together are on the same color stripe (fig. 1). For instance, the underarm notch and stripe of the bodice front will meet the underarm notch and stripe of the bodice back. Cut center front and center back so that the finished effect will be symmetrical. Figure A illustrates the finished bodice of an even plaid.

To cut uneven plaid (fig 2): This is cut in one of two ways. If plaid is uneven lengthwise, cut pieces in one direction, using pattern layout for fabric with nap. If plaid is uneven crosswise or both crosswise and lengthwise, it can be matched only if the fabric has no right and wrong side. Pattern pieces are laid on a single thickness of fabric, with the center seam line on the center of a lengthwise plaid bar. After cutting the first piece, don't remove the pattern but lay the cut piece on an identical piece of fabric, matching crosswise and lengthwise stripes. Since the fabric has no right or wrong side, one of the pieces can be reversed when the two are joined. The result will be balanced as shown in Figure B.

With patterns that are not designed for plaids you will have to buy more yardage than is indicated on pattern envelope to allow for matching. If the pattern is suitable for plaids, then buy at least an extra quarter yard of fabric for medium to small plaid. If plaid is large, allow an extra half yard.

Follow these rules for dresses, blouses, skirts, slacks, and coats.

For your copy of Fifteen Gifts You Can Make, write to Patricia Scott in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling costs. The subjects for this fascinating booklet were selected from among Miss Scott's most popular columns.

Miss Scott is always glad to hear from her readers, and whenever possible will use their questions in her column, but because of the great volume of mail received daily, she cannot answer individual letters.

Zoning Change Is Approved at Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — Village board members Tuesday night voted to have the old St Paul Church property on Prospect Street rezoned from Class B 1 to Class B 2 thus permitting use of the property as a parking lot.

The zoning change was requested by the Combined Locks paper Company to provide parking area for the new office building under construction. The church has been torn down and the area is being readied for parking purposes. No objections to the proposed rezoning were filed.

Board members authorized the clerk to advertise for bids on a new squad car, bids to be filed with the clerk by 8 p.m. Oct. 5. Specifications for the vehicle are available from the clerk. The chief of police was authorized to attend a convention at Burlington from Sept. 20 through 22.

Village Lists Vacancy On Water Commission

KIMBERLY — Applications are being accepted until 7 p.m. Oct. 4 by the village clerk from persons interested in serving on the water commission for a 3-year term.

The term of Henry Melcher expires on that date and the village board will name a commissioner at the regular meeting.

ABC's Spoof, 'Tractor,' Is TV's Best Bet

BY TV SCOUT

7-8 (Channels 11-9) — Once Upon a Tractor, the third show in the Telsun-produced series about U.N. activities, is a delightful, modern fairy tale which spoofs spies, bureaucracy, border disputes and even, in a gentle way, the U.N.

6:30-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Daniel Boone repeats "The Courtship of Jericho Jones," which introduced Robert Logan, as Jones, in the role he will be playing regularly next season.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 4-5) — "Tyger, Tyger," which didn't need two hours to tell its slight tale, concludes as Yvette Mimieux slips into Grand Mal epilepsy, Dr. Kildare slips into Grand Amour, and Anjanette Comer slips out of her alcoholic stupor.

8-8:30 (Channel 2) — Password has moved West to allow CBS stars to play the word game and also get in a plug or two for their new and-or returning television series.

8-8:30 (Channels 11-9) — Bewitched, in one of its funniest episodes, lets Endora (Agnes Moorehead) turn herself into a replica of Samantha (Elizabeth Montgomery) to keep a date at a garment fitting. There En-Sam (as the script calls her) allows herself to be picked up by Ron Randell. They have a mad fling, while he keeps putting off a date with his old friend Darren (Dick York), and neighbor Alice Pearce keeps running into "Samantha" apparently cheating on her husband. (R)

8:30-9 (Channels 11-9) — That long-awaited Schuster dinner party finally takes place in Peyton Place.

9-10 (Channels 2-12) — A sensitive bit of acting by Jack Gilford helps The Defenders.

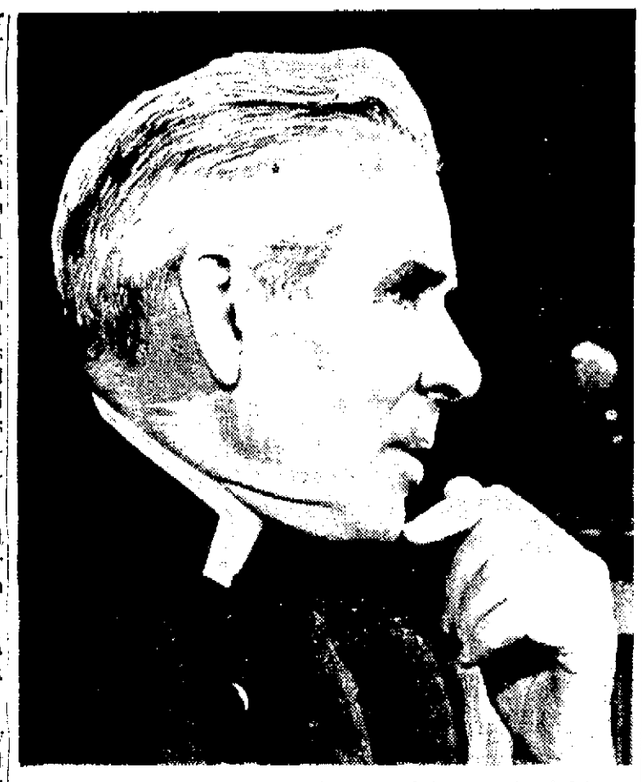
9-10 (Channels 11-9) — Molly Bee, talking about the first "robin" of spring, Leo Durocher talking about baseball, and country-western artists George Jones and Gene Pitney give The Jimmy Dean Show a lively, if not timely, outing. (R)



Bishop Fulton J. Sheen is a special guest tonight on Channel 11's Merv Griffin Show. He will be giving off-the-cuff comments on world affairs and the Ecumenical Council to add both enlightment and amusement to the 90-minute show over WLUK-TV. The program starts at 10.25 p.m.

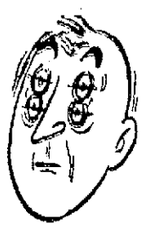
Few Wisconsin Homes Without Television Sets

Jingo to Review More Than 30 Shows Next Week as Season Gets Underway

BY JINGO

With premiere week of all three television network's new fall shows nearly at hand, Jingo thought it appropriate to devote this week's columns to news dealing with that highly-criticized but popular medium. And, of course, next week Jingo will appear daily, attempting to review the more than 30 new shows making first appearances.



Jingo

With television in the foreground, now would be the time to point out the immense popularity the video industry currently enjoys in the nation. A recent survey by the American Research Bureau disclosed that nearly 54.5 million American homes have TV sets somewhere in the house, an average of about 94 per cent of the potential market.

Wisconsin is considerably higher than the national average, with a total of 1,167,300 television homes out of a possible 1,205,000. This figures to about 97 per cent, which leads Jingo to ponder the possibility that only three per cent of the state's residents have maintained a semblance of sanity.

Broken down into counties, this area has one of the highest percentages in the nation. Outagamie County leads the way with a 99 per cent TV penetration, followed by Winnebago, 98 per cent, and Calumet and Waupaca, 97 per cent. Waushara County is a little luckier with 95 per cent coverage.

An interesting press release from the American Humane Association was received in the office recently. It pointed out the tremendous popularity of animals in television series. After tediously listing the various animals starring or appearing in the many shows, a task which took several type-written pages, the AHA pointed out that it was on hand at the filming of the shows to "assure proper treatment and handling" of the animals.

Perhaps it was an oversight, but Jingo thinks otherwise, but the AHA somehow forgot to mention one of the featured animals, a dog of NBC's new spy spoof, "Get Smart." The dog is portrayed as being dumber than you can believe.

Maybe the AHA thought it best not to mention an animal that hasn't mastered the technique of picking locks, communicating with humans and other ingenious activities.

In case no one has noticed, star Vic Morrow of ABC-TV's "Combat" has been fighting World War II on television longer than the actual conflict lasted. It should be noted, however, that it takes quite a long time to fight a war only one hour a week.

Remember Schultzy from the old "Bob Cummings Show?" She has finally landed another role on a series, a sweatshirted, whistle-blowing gym teacher at the school for girls on "The John Forsythe Show."

VOLUNTARY TEST BAN ON OUTSIDE BURNING

The City of Appleton requests you to voluntarily:

1. Stop all outside burning during July, August and September, 1965.
2. Collect and store all material which you usually burn outside and place on the curb for pick-up by city crews on your regular rubbish collection day every other week.
3. Cooperate during this three month "no burning" period so that the city can study the effects of this test ban and determine what steps are necessary to provide the City with an orderly and convenient way to eventually eliminate all outside burning in Appleton.

This ban is placed on a voluntary basis to avoid causing undue hardship or inconvenience; however, your cooperation and patience will be appreciated.

If for reasons of fire safety, excessive accumulation or health hazard, it is not possible to save part or all of your burnable waste material, then it is permissible to burn outside providing burning is done according to the Fire Code Regulations explained below.

EXISTING BURNING REGULATION SUMMARY

HOURS — Daily between 2:00 P.M. and 7:00 P.M.

TYPE OF BURNER: All burners shall have their sides wholly or securely closed and covered with wire screening which shall not be smaller than No. 8 (1/4 inch in diameter) wire. The wire mesh shall not be more than one inch across.

LOCATION OF BURNER: No closer than 5 feet from a public sidewalk. No closer than 10 feet from trees, shrubs, bushes or fences. No closer than 15 feet from any building.

DEFECTIVE BURNER: An approved type burner which becomes defective shall be replaced before burning can be resumed.

MATERIALS WHICH SHALL NOT BE BURNED: Garbage, organic (including animal waste), asphaltic, rubber or plastic material or other materials producing an offensive odor shall not be burned in residentail districts.

OPEN FIRES: No open fires may be started without a permit from the Fire Department. No permit shall be granted for open burning in a public street, alley or other public thoroughfare.

COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL BURNING: To avoid violations, business and industrial establishments should check with the Fire Department for existing ordinances on burning.

ENFORCEMENT OF EXISTING BURNING REGULATIONS

The Fire and Police Departments shall enforce the Fire Prevention Code as follows:

1. City-wide inspections will be made regularly as the burning situation demands and all complaints will be investigated. Every effort shall be made to inform the residents of Appleton of the need for and the desirability of cooperating with the voluntary test ban as well as the regulations governing outside burning.
2. Any resident of the City found to be violating the burning ordinance will be issued a written warning for the first offense. He will be given seven days in which to correct this violation.
3. After this seven day period has expired a reinspection will be made to determine if the resident has complied with the regulation covering his offense. No further action will be taken if he has complied. If a violation still exists and the resident has continued to burn despite the warning, then a second ticket shall be issued and appropriate action taken to prosecute the violator.
4. A second complaint against a resident who has previously been issued a written warning shall result in his being issued a second ticket if a violation is again found to exist. This second ticket shall also result in appropriate action being taken to prosecute the offender.

Incident on Neutral Line Advanced War

Kashmir State Prize For Which India, Pakistan Battling

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The rapid escalation of hostilities between India and Pakistan stems directly from an incident on the U.N. cease-fire line in Kashmir on Aug. 5. The underlying cause is the long struggle — on the battlefield and in the diplomatic arena — for the prize of Kashmir.

Incidents on the cease-fire line involving Indian and Pakistani forces have been mounting this year.

On Aug. 5, according to U.N. observers, a group of armed men mostly in civilian dress crossed the cease-fire line from the Pakistan side "for the purpose of armed action on the Indian side."

Indian Ambassador Gopalaswami Parthasrathi told the U.N. Security Council last Saturday the invaders numbersd 5,000 and were Pakistani troops in civilian guise. He said their objective was sabotage, assassination, and the capture of the summer capital, Srinagar.

Invasion in May

He said interrogation of prisoners revealed that the planned training for the invasion began in May.

Pakistani Ambassador Syed Amjad Ali said his country totally repudiated the Indian allegations. He said that no units of the Pakistani armed forces crossed the cease-fire line. The Pakistani claim that the trouble in Kashmir amounted to an uprising by elements of the Moslem population, assisted by some civilian volunteers from across the line.

Aly charged that India committed aggression first by seizing three posts on the Kashmir side of the line in the Kargil sector in May. Pakistan lodged a complaint with the council in May but did not ask for a council meeting.

India claimed that it seized the posts in order to protect its lines of communications with the Ladakh sector, where Indian troops remain on guard against the threat of invasion by Communist Chinese forces.

India Occupied Posts

Indian forces withdrew from the posts at the end of June after being assured by the United Nations that military observers would be posted in the area to assure the safety of the road. After the incident of Aug. 5 India again occupied the three Pakistani posts.

Secretary-General U Thant stepped into the situation Aug. 9 when he began a series of almost daily private separate meetings with Indian and Pakistani representatives at the United Nations in an effort to get both sides to show restraint.

Thant had been receiving reports from U.N. officials on the increasing gravity of the situation on the cease-fire line.

The struggle between India and Pakistan over Kashmir is more than 18 years old. A short time after partition of India in mid-August 1947 into the two separate countries, armed conflict flared over Kashmir.

The state is predominantly Moslem, but its Hindu maharajah, Sir Hari Singh, acceded the state to India. Pakistan refused to recognize the act of accession and demanded a plebiscite to decide the state's future.

On New Year's Day in 1949 Pakistan and India agreed to observe the U.N. cease-fire line that left about two-thirds of Kashmir in Indian hands.

The dispute has been before the United Nations many times but it has never been resolved. Diplomatic efforts by the major powers to induce both sides to settle the dispute have also been in vain.

Faculty Member At Lawrence Editor of Book

Dr. Bertrand A. Goldgar, associate professor of English at Lawrence University, is editor of a new book, "Literary Criticism of Alexander Pope," published by the University of Nebraska Press as a part of the Regents Critics Series. General editor of the series is Paul A. Olson.

Other books in the series cover the critical writings of Joseph Conrad, Ford Madox Ford, George Henry Lewes and Edgar Allen Poe.

Editor Olson said, "The Regents Critics Series provides reading texts of significant literary critics in the Western tradition. The series treats criticism as a useful tool, an introduction to the critic's own poetry and prose if he is a poet or novelist, an introduction to other work in his day if he is more judge than creator. Nowhere is criticism regarded as an end in itself but as what it is — a means to the understanding of the language of art as it has existed and been understood in various periods and societies."

Dr. Goldgar's first major work, "Swift's Relations with Addison and Steele," was published several years by the University of Nebraska Press.

Color Used to Gauge Auto Contaminants

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — The state says it has come up with a colorful method of measuring auto contaminants.

In the process, air is trapped in water by a special device. Color-producing chemicals are added. The water then turns red, blue, green or some other color depending on what pollutant is being measured. The intensity of the color is measured electronically to show how much of the pollutant is in the air.

Prospects Dim For Grapes in Wine Region

PARIS (AP) — Western Europe's wine growers are holding their breath for a spell of prolonged sunshine as harvest time approaches. Even if they get it, the prospects of most will be only middling.

Major wine growing areas had a late spring and the worst summer in decades. Almost everywhere the grapes are late, although generally sound. But they may not reach ripe fullness without two to four weeks of sunshine—the rarest occurrence of the season.

The harvest normally starts about now for early varieties, ending in October with festivals from the Iberian Peninsula to Austria. This year most areas will start one to three weeks late—six weeks in the Beaujolais region near Lyon.

The first grapes picked so far, in southwest France, aroused little optimism. They were immature and low on sugar, hence low in alcohol content. Elsewhere the quality was feared largely compromised. Acidity was reported climbing in many vineyards.

Man Pleads Guilty to Reckless Driving

Richard H. Walker, 34, 1413 Sullivan Ave., Kaukauna, pleaded guilty to reckless driving in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2.

He earlier had pleaded innocent of driving while under the influence of alcohol and his trial was set for Oct. 25.

The amended charge was filed following a motion by Walker's attorney. Walker was fined $150 and costs. He was arrested in the Town of Seymour Aug. 7.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A & X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

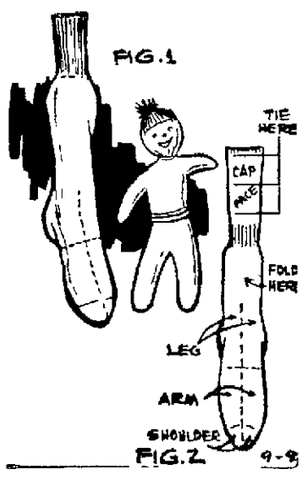
Try to Make a Sock Doll Using This Easy Method

BY CAPPY DICK

A sock doll is easy to make out of a man's sock and some cotton for stuffing

A light-colored sock will make the best-looking doll The dotted lines on the sock in Figure 1 are the cuts to be made with scissors. These are also shown by the dotted lines in Figure 2.



Stuff the doll with cotton.

The first cut is to be lengthwise of the foot, running from the toe to the instep Then cut straight across the center of the foot The two pieces from the end of the foot are for the doll's arms, the rounded part of each piece to be the shoulders. The divided part of the foot that remains attached to the heel will form the legs. Sew the open edge of each leg, but leave the end open to receive stuffing.

Fold the Sock

Fold the sock at the center (the point marked "Fold Here" in Figure 2) and gather it a little to resemble the bottom of a sweater rolled up. Stuff the legs and sew the ends shut Next stuff the body through the top of the sock.

Tie a string around the sock to form the neck. Stuff the head, molding it to the right shape, and tie another string above it to form the doll's stocking cap. Roll the cap down to the doll's face, then back up Tie the very end with string and form a little tassle.

Finally stuff the arms, after sewing shut the open edge of each one Use ink to paint nose, eyes and mouth on the face, completing the doll Friday How to make a mystic maze as a family puzzle!

Future Problem Might Revolve Around Aged

Study Notes Longer Life, Compulsory Retirement as Ills

MADISON (AP) — The community problems of the future may revolve around its aged residents rather than its youth if man continues to live longer than his forebears, a University of Wisconsin study suggests.

The study noted that the present practices of compulsory retirement, often at 65, may have to be re-examined. Persons are now living longer after retirement and therefore need more extended financial support, it said.

More widows may also be expected, the study added, and this too can contribute to social and economic problems for a community.

New problems such as "recreation, economic support and lengthening years in the labor force . . . will replace problems of orphanhood, infant and maternal mortality and childhood diseases" if present longevity trends continue, the report said.

Sociology Study

The study, "Mortality Trends in Wisconsin, 1900-63," was compiled by Douglas G. Marshall, chairman of UW's department of rural sociology.

The decline in Wisconsin in the over-all death rate and the rates among both infants and of mothers in childbirth has led the nation since 1900, the report found.

Medical research has contributed most to the advanced life span. The report said:

"The changes which have taken place in the level of mortality in the United States and Wisconsin in the last 60 years have outstripped the last 2,400 years in rapidity and scope."

The report found Wisconsin reflected national trends in that death rates are lower among women than among men, among rural residents than urban dwellers, and among whites than non-whites.

It also noted that in 1950 traffic accidents accounted for 34 per cent of the deaths in the 15-24 age group.

By 1960 the figure for the same age group was 63 per cent.

Members Picked For Government Revamp Group

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles and Assembly Speaker Robert Huber, D-West Allis., appointed 17 members to the newly - created Commission on Reorganization of State Government Wednesday.

Fitzgerald of Milwaukee, Abbott Byfield of Neenah, Wayne Hood of La Crosse, Richard Cudahy of Milwaukee, Wallace Lemon of Madison, Charles Anderson of Racine, John N. Kramer of Fennimore, and H. Aupert Theobald of Madison, legislative reference bureau chief and Knowles' representative.

Assemblymen Thomas Barland, R-Eau Calire; David Martin, R-Neenah; Frank Nikolay, D - Abbotsford; Vincent Mathews, D - Waukesha, and Raymond Tobiasz, D-Milwaukee.

Plan to Beautify Nation's Roads Reported Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Public Works Committee has approved a bill to beautify the nation's highways, principally by getting rid of a lot of billboards and junkyards.

But before reporting out the administration-backed measure, the committee bowed to complaining governors and omitted a requirement that states use one-third of their federal aid secondary road funds to construct scenic roads or roads leading to scenic areas.

President Johnson had requested such a provision — as well as the three major ones approved by committee: removal of billboards along sections of the primary and interstate highway systems, screening or removing some junkyards on the same routes, and use of federal funds to beautify rights-of-way along the federally aided system.

The program would cost the federal government $320 million in the first two years.

State Unit Head Okays TV Tower At Rhinelander

MADISON (AP)—Thomas K. Jordan, director of the State Aeronautics Commission, said Wednesday he has no objection to the construction of a 1,707-foot television tower in the Rhinelander area if the structure is made visible with marking and lighting.

Rep. Alvin E. O'Konski, R-Mercer, has received Federal Communications Commission approval to build a television station and needs the State Aeronautics agency okay for the tower.

Jordan said he would consider the tower no hazard to fliers if it was marked and lighted according to FCC recommendations.

The state agency, which will rule later on O'Konski's application, has received several letters from aircraft owners and pilot organizations objecting to the proposed tower.

O'Konski did not attend the hearing. He was represented by a Milwaukee attorney.

Proxmire Payment Covers Summer Job Of Son, Daughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today he has repaid with interest $1,806.80 earned in federal government summer jobs by his son and stepdaughter.

Checks were sent to the Treasury Tuesday as unconditional gifts, Proxmire said.

Proxmire said his son Ted, 17, worked this summer as a student assistant in the Washington headquarters of the Post Office Department and that the job had no connection with the Antipoverty Program.

He said his stepdaughter, Mary Ellen Sawall, 19, passed a Civil Service examination in 1964 for a summer job in the Navy Department, and this past summer worked for the National Parks Service in Yellowstone Park.

Proxmire said he decided to make the payment to the federal Treasury because, due to his position as a senator, the fact that Ted and Mary Ellen had the summer jobs might be subject to "misunderstanding or misinterpretation."

Proxmire said he computed the interest on the $602.16 his son earned at $4, the interest on Mary Ellen's 1964 employment at $24.32 and for her 1965 employment at $3.80.

"Accordingly," he said, "I delivered two checks to the U.S. Treasury Tuesday, Sept. 7, one for $606.16 covering Ted's 1965 pay with interest, and one for $1,200.64 covering Mary Ellen's 1964 and 1965 federal government compensation with interest."

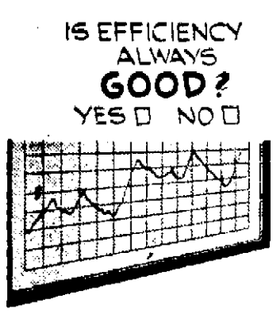
Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.



No, mainly because we can become very efficient in doing what is harmful or unimportant. We lose out in life because we are so often efficient in the wrong things. We want more money, but are not quite sure what for.

We seek entertainment, but go away empty because it does not give us any insights into life. We become fluent in the use of language but do not have anything of importance to say. Our efficiency is often very inefficient — in doing anything important.

A wife should put her husband through school first.

Right—— Wrong——

Wrong. Both husband and wife should finish their schooling together, if they can. Dr. David Gottlieb has found that men are more likely to complete their doctorates if both they and their wives are enrolled as graduate students, are jointly earning the family income, and are sharing their parenthood.

Men least likely to finish are those whose wives are neither in school nor working, even though the couple has the same number of children as those who finish their education. It looks as though teaming up in all aspects of life really works for some couples, doesn't it?

Our greatest social problem is injustice!

True—— False——

No, say careful observers. Our greatest problem is a lack of goals. Unless we know where we want to go, and whether or not we are headed there, we have little basis for determining what is just. Even more serious, we cannot successfully build morale.

Evil movements can win support because they at least have some place they want to go, and they are striving hard to reach it. Finding goals for a free democratic society is one of our greatest problems.

Braves Lose to Phillies; Fall 2 Games Off Pace

Bragan Blames Carty's Fielding For 6-5 Setback

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rico Carty of the Milwaukee Braves may have batted his way back into the lineup, but Manager Bobby Bragan is still not completely happy with the way Carty handles his glove.

That was obvious Wednesday night when Bragan criticized Carty for being out of position during a crucial play in the Braves' 6-5 loss to Philadelphia. The defeat dropped the fourth-place Braves two full games out of the National League lead.

Earlier in the season, Carty complained that Bragan was hurting him as a ballplayer by failing to give him confidence as an outfielder. Carty referred to the fact that he was lifted for defensive purposes, sometimes early in a game.

Bragan, clearly irked by Rico's remarks, replied that he would continue to substitute for Carty when the situation called for it. Carty, at the time was out of the lineup with an ailing

AHS Seeks Revenge in Trojan Tilt

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

The Appleton High School football Terrors will attempt to carry their 1964 season-ending momentum into the new campaign, which begins Friday night in Green Bay. AHS meets Southwest in an 8 p.m. duel in Lambeau Stadium.

Last season, the Terrors finished as the hottest Fox River Valley Conference grid team, outside of invincible Oshkosh — the state's top-ranked club. AHS won four of its last five games — including a 3-win season-concluding streak — to grab a share of fourth place.

Quarterback Terry Soley, who triggered the 1964 surge with eight touchdown passes in the last three games, is back to direct the attack for the Ade Dillon-coached legions.

Shocks Terrors

Even though Green Bay Southwest is considered one of the have-nots of the 1965 campaign, there are sufficient stimuli present to get the favored Terrors aroused for the Friday night tussle. Last year, new school Southwest shocked AHS, 28-26, for the first win in its brief history.

Dillon can't afford to key his team too high (in view of next week's collision with title-favored Oshkosh), but he isn't likely to let the Terrors forget about last year's embarrassment — even though Jim Reinke, one of his favorite proteges, will be at the Trojan helm. Reinke, former AHS and University of Wisconsin star, directed Southwest to two wins last year — a totally-unexpected accomplishment.

Oshkosh opens defense of its title Friday night as host to Preble, the 10th and newest member of the league. Other Friday pairings are: Manitowoc at Green Bay East and Sheboygan South at Fond du Lac. Saturday, Green Bay West will be at Sheobygan North.

Quarterback Rick Toneys, who played a big part in the Southwest win over AHS, will be back to spark the Trojans Toneys completed six of 11 passes for 148 yards — including a 23-yard TD pass — and kicked four extra points against AHS.

Toneys finished as the conference's second most accurate passer, with 52 of 97 — for 53.6 per cent.

On the other hand, Soley, who was unable to oppose Toneys in aerial warfare last year (because of a family emergency) will be on hand with the vengeance-minded visitors Friday night. Soley completed 36 of

New Coaching Era Dawns for Vikings; 38 Gridders Report

Roberts Confident Team Will Absorb New System Readily

Post-Crescent Sports Editor

A new era in Lawrence University football dawned Wednesday as Head Coach Ron Roberts put the Vikings through a pair of spirited and productive sessions.

Roberts, the first new Lawrence coach in 28 years, believes he has both the quantity and the quality on his 41-player squad to make the Vikes a factor in the 1965 Midwest Conference race. Roberts, 33, succeeds his boss of the last two years — the venerable Bernie Heselton, the dean of MC coaches, as well as one of the most successful of the league's mentors.

If the spanking-new edition of the Vikings is to become a "best seller" in the new Lawrence Bowl, the players will have to absorb Roberts' offensive and defensive systems in just a few weeks and be able to mount a cohesive front.

Simplified Maneuvers

Roberts, a 1953 Rose Bowl performer with the University of Wisconsin, feels his system can be learned in good order and it won't require a crash program on the part of himself or his staff. Roberts is an exponent of simplified offensive and defensive maneuvers and is delighted with the way his charges have started to pick up the principles. He is also pleased with the enthusiasm they are showing.

The Vikes can't afford to look ahead to the Lawrence Bowl dedication game of Oct. 2 (against St. Olaf), for they have a season-opening date at Carleton Sept. 25. Right now, that game is the only order of business for the Vikes.

Thirty-eight players turned out for the first drill Wednesday — and at least three more are expected. Curt Buchholz, Chuck Drdla and Barry Garle were delayed in reporting for reasons ranging from a summer job to an injury

Fourteen lettermen are on the squad They include seniors Jack Robertson, co-captain and center; Bob Schoenwetter, co-captain and back; Henry Rutz, back; Buchholz, back; Tom Edstrom, end; John Vedder, center; Mike Anger, guard; Ned Nemacheck, guard and Dal Coventry, guard Junior lettermen are Doug Giffin, tackle; Bob Bletzinger, guard; Bill Benowicz, tackle; Jerry Gatzke, fullback; and Rich Agness, end.

Five other varsity men are back from last year. They are Steve Engelbert, back; Don Skinner, end; Dennis Rosenberg, center! John Williams, guard and Craig Campbell, back.

16 Players Lost

Sixteen players, including seven who were graduated in June, are lost from last year's team Those lost by graduation are Rick Rapport, Gary Kussow, Dennis Koskelin, Tim Knabe, Bill Hobbings, Dan Gurney and Corry Azzi. Nine others who might have made this years squad either dropped out of school transferred or gave up football.

Twenty-one sophomores constitute Lawrence's best rookie crop in years. They include Appleton's Gary Hietpas (a back), Chuch McKee (quarterback) and "Chip" Taggart and Tom Callaway (ends); Steve Figi, quarterback; John Biolo, Jr., end; Chris Anderson, tackle; Rod Clark, back, Ron Colby, guard, Lou Cornelius, guard Rich Disbrow, end; Drdla; Garley; Ken Gatzke, tackle; Cliff Goerke, guard; Ken Koskelin; quarterback; Bill Muttlefeldt, tackle; John O'Boyle, end; Don Parker, halfback; Dick Smith, halfback; and Richard Witte, fullback.

A number of newcomers are pressing veterans for starting

Not anxious for a repeat of last season's two losses in as many games. Coach Gene Clark has been drilling his Xavier football squad with a little extra this week in preparation for Friday night's home opener against Rhinelander High School.

The Hawks and Hodags will clash at 8 p.m. Friday at Goodland Field. This will be the second non-conference tilt of the campaign for both schools.

Xavier was downed by Milwaukee Francis Jordan, 18-14, last week. A year ago the Hawks lost to Jordan, 26-12, and then fell before Rhinelander, 6-0 It marked the first time in the 6-year history of the school that a Clark-coached team had lost two football games in a row.

Offensive Punch

Clark has been trying to put a little more punch in the Hawk offense this week. After picking up nine first downs in the first half against Jordan, Xavier was held without a first down in the last two periods.

Rhinelander, which posted an overall record of 7-1 last season, shared the Wisconsin Valley Conference championship. There are nine lettermen returning to the team while a total of 10 monogram winners were lost through graduation.

Heading the list of returnees for the Hodags is junior quarterback Bob Gironimi It was Gironimi who piloted the winning touchdown drive for Rhinelander in last year's game and one of the key plays was an 11-yard pass completion The shifty signal-caller scored one of the Hodags' two touchdowns in a 13-0 win over Minocqua Lakeland in the season opener last week.

PITCHING — Dave Wickersham, Detroit, pitched a three-hitter as the Tigers whipped Baltimore 5-0 in the second game of a doubleheader, halting the Orioles' eight-game winning streak.

Oshkosh, with the awesome power and fury of hurricane "Betsy" ready to unleash at the slightest prodding, has been tabbed as the high school team to beat in the onrushing 1965 Fox River Valley Conference championship chase by members of the FRV Sports Writers Association.

The Indians, ranked No. 1 in Wisconsin last season with a 9-0 record, polled four of six first place votes in the annual balloting. Green Bay West nosed out Appleton in the projected race for the runnerup spot. Oshkosh also received two second place votes for an 8-point total as compared with West's 15 points and 17 for Appleton.

West's perennially - tough Wildcats mustered a first, pair of seconds and thirds and a fourth for its total. AHS was accorded one first, two seconds and one vote for third, fourth and fifth. Sheboygan North, 1964 runnerup to Oshkosh, was picked as a not-too-distant fourth with 21 points, including three third and three fourth place ballots.

Launch Play

The FRVC launches the 9-game closed schedule Friday. The addition of Green Bay Preble boosted the total of member schools to 10.

Sheboygan South polled 32 points for fifth place, followed by Green Bay East's 37. Manitowoc managed 43 points and a projected seventh place finish, only three points ahead of Preble. Fond du Lac, with its 27-game FRVC loss string still intact, nosed out Green Bay Southwest for ninth place, 55 to 56 points, respectively.

Giants Whip Houston; Reds' O'Toole Finally Records Second Win

Luck of the Irish?

Not for Jim O'Toole. Irish stew would be more appropriate.

O'Toole, who's been in a stew most of his career and all of this season, fashioned a four-hitter Wednesday night as the Cincinnati Reds crushed the New York Mets and moved to within one-half game of the National League lead.

It was O'Toole's first complete game since opening day and only his second victory of the year, but then inexplicable things happen to a guy who in the past has been kicked by a horse and rapped in the face by a paddle-tennis racquet — at a Jewish Center.

O'Toole, as a matter of fact, has been so injury prone during his eight-year major league career that before the 1965 season began he said:

"If I don't watch out my head is going to have so many stitches in it that it's going to look like a baseball when I'm through."

Needs 8 Stitches

But this year was different. He did need eight stitches before the season started to repair the damage from the paddle-tennis racquet, but nothing else happened — except O'Toole couldn't win.

A 17-game winner in 1964, O'Toole pitched well enough in spring training to earn the opening day assignment and went out and pitched a complete game against Milwaukee. But he lost. He went out time and again but was unable to win until June 16 when he was credited with the victory in a game against the Mets.

He hadn't won since when he took a 1-9 record and a 6.82 earned run average into Wednesday's game against the Mets — and in the first inning was hit on his pitching hand by a pitch thrown by Darrell Sutherland

"Everything just seemed to go wrong for me this season — like when he hit me on the hand," said O'Toole. "I thought: Holy smoke, there it goes, and I just wondered if I'd be able to throw the baseball the next inning."

He wasn't, and eventually marched off the mound with the organist playing "When Irish Eyes are Smiling" the Reds in a tie with the idle Los Angeles Dodgers for second place, one-half game behind front-running San Francisco.

The Giants remained on top as Willie Mays hammered his 44th and 45th homer and drove in five runs in a 12-3 walloping

Lions Obtain Marsh for Draft Choice

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League traded fullback Amos Marsh to the Detroit Lions today for a future draft choice.

The trading of Marsh seemed a foregone conclusion when the Cowboys obtained fullback J. D. Smith from San Francisco this week in an effort to help halfback Don Perkins in Dallas' running attack.

Marsh, starting his fifth season in the NFL, was a key man in the 1962 Cowboys' offense when he ran for 802 yards — an average of 5.6. But he gained only 483 yards in 1963 and fell off again to 401 last year.

Performed Well at Cleveland

'I Make Too Many Mistakes,' Says Jacobs After Comparison to Taylor

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY—"He's the spitting image of Jim Taylor his rookie year here. . .He's built like him, he runs like him, acts like him, talks like him. . ."

The subject of this prompted observation, delivered by a veteran member of the Packer family, had just "turned the corner" with Taylor-like abandon during Tuesday's rain-spattered practice session on South Oneida Street.

Said subject was Allen Jacobs, the multi-muscled freshman from the University of Utah, one of only two rookie running backs remaining on the Pack's roster following yesterday's required reduction to 43.

The genuine soul of modesty, Jacobs takes gentle issue with the comparison. "I don't think I should be compared with him," he says almost apologetically. "For one thing, Jimmy's a little quicker."

As a matter of fact, the burly, 210-pound Los Angeles native is apologetic about his efforts to date, particularly in last weekend's match with the Cleveland Browns, which saw him undergo his first extensive test.

"Made Mistakes"

"I made a lot of mistakes, a lot of blunders," Jacobs quietly confided, adding, "I get mixed up all the time, especially when the quarterback changes the play on a short count and I don't have time to adjust.

"In fact, one time I made a mistake and Bart (Starr) almost got it, he wound up with the ball, instead of me. I'd have been in a fine mess," he noted with a wry smile, "if he'd gotten hurt."

Be that as it may, the 210-pound Los Angeles native obviously has intrigued the Packer brain trust to some degree, or he would no longer be in evidence at this late date. And, despite his professed misgiving, it well could be linked to his performance in Cleveland, where he churned for 38 yards in 8 carries, an average of just under five yards per thrust.

These figures proved of small consolation to the bull-shouldered Californian, however. "I mised a lot of holes," he imparted with a somber shake of the head. "When you don't practice live, it's hard to do. Coach Lombardi says to run for daylight, but sometimes it's pretty hard to adjust. It really was easy gaining what I did against the Browns. The linemen blocked well and there were always openings. Nobody had a real good shot at me.

"This is quite a change from college—everything has to be perfect. A back doesn't only have to know how to run, but he has to know the defenses. But, it's a lot of fun to run to daylight."

He was convinced, then, it is the ideal approach? "Oh, I do," Jacobs replied with fervor. "If I'm ever a coach, this is how I'm going to do it."

Randy Schwartz' Contract Bought By Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics acquired outfielder Lou Clinton from the California Angels Wednesday for the waiver price of $20,000.

The 27-year-old player is from Ponca City, Okla.

The A's also bought the contract of Randy Schwartz, Burlington, Iowa, first baseman voted the most valuable player in the Midwest League.

Wood Steals 3 Passes in Packer Drill

GREEN BAY (AP) — Four pass interceptions marked Wednesday's drill as the Green Bay Packers worked against offensive and defensive patterns the St. St. Louis Cardinals may show in a National Football League exhibition at Lambeau Field Saturday night

Bob Jeter, a back injured in last week's exhibition at Cleveland, was in uniform but took no part in contact work.

Athletics' Campaneris Plays All Positions, Gets Injured in Collision

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

For Minesota there's consolidation, for New York there's elimination and for Bert Campaneris there's frustration.

That was the linescore following an historic night in the American League Wednesday.

The Minnesota Twins consolidated their position at the top of the league driving back the onrushing Chicago White Sox 3-2 and increasing their lead to six games.

The Yankees, meanwhile, edged Washington 6-5 but still were eliminated from pennant contention in this, their worst season in 40 years.

Then there was Campaneris The versatile Kansas City youngster became the first player in modern major league history to play all nine positions in one game, but his play at two of them helped lead to the Athletics 5-3, 13-inning loss to California.

Not only that Campaneris, who played a different position in each of the first nine innings, wasn't around at the finish. He left after the ninth with a shoulder injury.

Started at Short

Athletics' owner Charles O. Finley, who conceived the idea, even made Campaneris a $1 million player for the night That's how much he insured him for — taking out the policy with four different companies at an undisclosed cost.

Campaneris, however, wasn't insured against errors and wildness. The error came in the sixth inning while he was playing right field With two out and Albie Pearson at first base, Jim Fregosi lofted a fly to right-center.

Campaneris got under the fly, but the ball bounced out of his glove, allowing Pearson to score the run that broke a 1-1 tie.

Then, as a pitcher in the eighth, Campaneris walked two men on eight straight balls, then threw two more balls to Joe Adcock before he singled for another run.

Finally, there was his ninth-inning job — catching Ed Kirkpatrick stole second on him, but Campaneris nailed him at the plate when he tried to steal home Kirkpatrick knocked Campaneris over, and a brief tussle ensued. It was on that play that the all-around Athletic hurt his left shoulder.

In other AL games, Baltimore defeated Detroit 2-0 before having its eight-game winning streak stopped 5-0 and Boston trimmed Cleveland 5-3 in 10 innings

Jim Grant stopped the White Sox on four hits for his 18th victory against five defeats while Jimmie Hall provided Minnesota's winning margin with a two-run homer in the seventh inning, his first since Aug. 2.

The Yankees, who had won a record-tying five straight pennants, went down fighting. Elston Howard's run-scoring single with two out in the ninth won it for the Yankees, who also got a three-run homer from Ray Barker in the fifth. Willie Kirkland, Don Lock and Ken McMullen homered for Washington.

O'Donoghue's Error

The Angels finally downed Kansas City with two runs in the 13th, Bobby Knoop scoring the tie-breaker on pitcher John O'Donoghue's two-base throwing error. The Athletics tied the game in the ninth on run-scoring singles by Ken Harrelson and Dick Green.

Baltimore's Bob Johnson hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning of the first game, giving Steve Barber his 13th victory. The hit was only the fourth off Detroit's Hank Aguirre.

Dave Wickersham pitched the Tigers to the second-game triumph, limiting the third-place Orioles to three hits Don Wert provided a three-run homer in the sixth jobs. Roberts isn't sure at this stage which sophs will be in there Sept. 25, except that a sophomore quarterback will definitely be at the controls. Figi, McKee and Koskeln are the only QBs on the roster, and one will have to start. Each one excels in some phase of play, according to Roberts.

Fred Whitfield's two-run homer in the ninth inning pulled Cleveland into a 3-3 tie, but Boston won in the 10th as Tony Horton socked a two-run homer.

Roberts is starting out with the idea of platooning. He and his staff will be able to tab the best prospects for offense and defense with somewhat more certainty after this weekend's initial scrimmage.

Assisting Roberts are Clyde Rusk, head basketball coach, who was also a grid assistant last year, and newcomers Roger Merb and Bob Mueller Rusk will be head frosh grid coach, with Mueller as his assistant. Rather than having each coach specialize, Roberts is rotating the line and backfield duties — so each can get a better conception of the over-all picture.

For obvious reasons, Roberts doesn't wish to divulge publicly what his style of offense will be. His MC rivals will have to learn the hard way what the new coach will throw at them. Defensively, Roberts' by-words are "control, confuse and attack."

Roberts is endeavoring to acquaint his charges with every type of offensive and defensive situation they are apt to meet in a game. Then, only minor adjustments are needed during the games.

Because of his "think positively" attitude, Roberts doesn't want to regard this as a building year — although logic would single it out as such. He wants to make a run for having as high a finish as possible and doesn't feel the title is even beyond reach "It's not fair to seniors to talk of rebuilding," says Roberts, "because this is their last year."

Terrell Reportedly Signs to Meet George Chuvalo

TORONTO (AP) — Ernie Terrell will have one less advisor in his corner when he defends his World Boxing Association heavyweight title in Toronto — possibly next month — against Canada's George Chuvalo.

The Chicago fighter reportedly signed to meet Chuvalo, the Canadian champion from Toronto, Wednesday although neither Terrell, Chuvalo nor their representatives were available for comment.

In New York, Big Julie Isaacson, one of Terrell's comanagers, announced he is parting ways with the WBA champ.

"I wanted him to fight Chuvalo as part of a doubleheader with the Cassius Clay-Floyd Patterson fight in Las Vegas," Isaacson said. "If Ernie wants to do things his way without consulting me, then he can do it all without me. All he has to do is buy me out."

McKinley Bows to Mexico's Palafox

Pasarell, Ashe Advance in National Net

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — "I can beat Emerson," a confident Arthur Ashe said today as he contemplated his next assignment in the National Tennis Championships.

"I have matured a lot. I found out that good players are not infallible They make mistakes like anybody else

"I figure if I go out there and play tennis — play my best — I can win, no matter how much on form Emerson is."

The 22-year-old Negro, born in Richmond, Va., and now living in Los Angeles, faces Australia's Roy Emerson, holder of the U.S., Wimbledon and Australian titles and rated the world's best amateur player, Friday in the quarter-finals.

Ashe believes the winner will go to the finals where he will find waiting for him a young outsider named Charlie Pasarell.

"I'm convinced Pasarell will go to the finals — he's playing terrific tennis," Ashe said. "I hope I can play him for the title."

There's never been a Negro men's tennis champion, although Althea Gibson ruled women's ranks in 1957 and 1958 before turning pro.

Ashe was impressive in eliminating Thomas Koch of Brazil 12-10, 13-11, 10-8.

Meets Osuna

Pasarell, the talented and unpredictable Puerto Rican who upset second-seeded Fred Stolle of Australia last Sunday, met Mexico's sixth-seeded Rafael Osuna in one of the two men's quarter-finals today.

Third-seeded Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and South Africa's Cliff Drysale played in the other.

The other half of the draw is in action Friday, with Emerson facing the fifth-seeded Ashe and Manuel Santana of Spain facing Antonio Palafox of Mexico, upset winner over seventh-seeded Chuck McKinley 9-7, 6-4, 8-6.

The women's quarter-finals will be completed, with Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith of Australia playing Justina Bricka of St. Louis in the feature match. Nancy Richey of Dallas, Tex., the top-ranked American, plays Tory Ann Fretz of Los Angeles.

Brazil's defending champion Maria Bueno, Britain's Ann Haydon Jones, Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Carole Graebner of Beechwood, Ohio, advanced Wednesday.

Went All Out

Emerson had to go all out Wednesday to beat Pierre Barthes of France 6-4, 13-11, 6-4 Ralston lost the first set and had to battle for his life before beating big Ron Holmberg 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-8, 11-9 in the tournament's top thriller to date Santana beat Marty Riessen 10-8, 6-1, 6-3.

In the other matches, Drysdale eliminated 42-year-old Vic Seixas 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. Osuna looked good in beating Ronald Barnes of Brazil 6-0, 6-4, 6-4. Pasarell breezed past Canada's left-handed Keith Carpenter 6-3, 6-3.

Frank-Pat's Wins Crown

Topples Bleier's For Mid-State League Honors

Frank & Pat's Pizza of Neenah won the Mid-State Open Softball League championship by toppling Bleier's Bar, 9-1, at Telulah Park Wednesday night.

The contest was a playoff for the second-half crown, but since the Twin City team also speared first half laurels, the triumph also gave it the overall title.

Fred Fuller limited the losers to three sixth-inning singles, walked four and struck out 15.

Frank & Pat's chased Bob Diener in the first inning when it put together five hits and three walks for six runs. Arlie Burt relieved Diener.

Tom Malchow paced the winners with three singles. Don Althaus cracked two triples, Len Adams a triple and a single and Fuller two singles

Floyd Hammen, Merle Merholtz and Tom Grishaber had the hits for Bleier's.

Omaha Legion Hurler Signs With Giants

Fila reportedly received a $40,000 bonus. Fila was a draft choice of the National League club.

NEEDED: A CREATIVE MAN FOR A TOP MANAGEMENT SPOT

We are looking for a special kind of man. Perhaps you are our man, but if not, read this anyway because you may be able to help us find him. Rather than describe the job, we are going to describe the man. Our experience has shown us that if you meet these qualifications, we can offer you immediate advancement and future growth.

You are willing to relocate once or twice as you grow with us.

We feel that if you are personally aggressive, and know how to lead people effectively to produce increased, profitable sales, you can learn our business.

We are not looking for a run-of-the-mill executive. We are looking for a man who is accustomed to thinking creatively, who seeks the different approach, who thinks of himself as an innovator, and rebels against dust-ridden traditions.

You are probably now working at the management level of a company, but are stymied because management above you restricts your ideas and your actions.

Now a word about us. We are a large, established organization, well capitalized, but in great need of forward thinking management personnel.

Plays All Positions

Insurance Policy Nearly Used by Campaneris

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Campy Campaneris, whose blithe spirit on the base paths and brilliant fielding has made him a stellar attraction of the last place A's, became the first baseball player in modern major league history to perform at all nine positions in one game.

Although directly or indirectly responsible for two of the runs scored by the California Angels Wednesday night in a 13-inning, 5-3 victory over Kansas City, Campy acquitted himself with glory before a crowd of 21,576 fans.

Campy wound-up his unprecedented inning-at-each of the nine positions being carted off to a hospital for precautionary Xrays. The Angels' husky outfielder, Ed Kirkpatrick, bowled him over at home plate in an attempted double steal. Campy, who was catching, held on to the ball, however, to record the third out of the ninth inning.

It appeared at the time of the collision that the $1 million insurance policy owner Charles O. Finley had taken out on the little Cuban was of more than academic interest. But the X rays proved negative and Campy says he will be ready to go again today against the Angels.

Scored First Run

At bat, Campaneris was less than sensational, but the A's provided him with considerable company until he was sidelined. However, he did score the first run for the A's and stole his 49th base of the year in the process

He walked to open the A's half of the first inning, stole second and scored on a double by Ed Charles. In three other times at bat, he struck out once and was thrown out twice.

Position-by-postion, this is how the versatile Campy fared.

1 He opened at shortstop his regular position and didn't get a chance at the ball.

2. Moved to second and received credit for an assist in a rundown.

3. Third base — no chance.

4. Left field — caught Jose Cardenal's fly ball.

5 Center — caught Paul Schaal's fly ball.

6. Right field — dropped a high, wind-blown fly by Jim Fregosi for an error that scored the tie breaking run.

7. First base — caught Schaal's infield pop-fly.

8. Pitcher — retired Cardenal on a pop fly; walked Albie Pearson and Fregosi; gave up a run-scoring single to Joe Adcock; struck out Bobby Knoop, and Fregosi was thrown out trying to steal.

9. Catcher — Only chance came in the attempted double-steal and he tagged Kirkpatrick at the plate for the final out of the inning.

Manager Haywood Sullivan said, "They really battled after they knocked Campy down." The A's rallied for two runs on four hits to send the game into extra innings tied at 3-all.

"It was a silly thing to do," Sullivan continued in reference to the collision. "Ball players don't forget those things. Kirkpatrick was out a mile and simply tried to run over Campy and knock the ball loose."

DeBusschere Will Give Up Baseball Career

DETROIT (AP) — Dave DeBusschere announced Wednesday his retirement from baseball to devote all his time to pro basketball.

DeBusschere is player-coach of the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association.

"I'm going to quit baseball. I'm not going to report to the (Chicago) White Sox," he said.

He was to have reported to Chicago Tuesday. He had been pitching with the Indianapolis Indians of the Pacific Coast League, where he compiled a 15-12 record this year.

Best known as a basketball star at the University of Detroit, DeBusschere signed for a reported $60,000 bonus when he was graduated in the spring of 1962 He announced then that he chose the White Sox because they would allow him to play professional basketball.

Slife Bowls 769; Team Slams 3,326

OSHKOSH (AP)— The Recreation Classic League got off to a good start Wednesday night when Larry's TV and Appliance bowling team racked up a 3,326 total—the league's highest in eight years of competition.

Larry Slife, store owner and team captain, paced the series with a 769 total on games of 266, 246 and 257. He had bowled only eight games during the summer.

Other team members turned in counts of 686, 672, 649, and 550.

Jim Wolters Cracks 665 Pin Threesome

Lee Burdick Rolls 268 Singleton; Sommer's 633 Leads 'Industrial'

Lee Burdick's 268 singleton and Jim Wolters' 665 threesome shared honors in Fox Cities area bowling circles Wednesday night.

Wolters fashioned lines of 243 and 226 en route to the top series of the night in the Fox Valley Classic League at Neenah's Lakeroad Lanes. Burdick etched his booming solo in the Classic as well.

Jim Kluba, another Classic competitor, had to settle for runnerup honors in both departments with a hefty 265 line and 661 finish.

Clare Sommer rolled up a 633 set, including a 225 solo, to set the pace in the Industrial circuit at Hahn's Lanes. W. Klein was next in line with 629, including a 258 solo.

Wally Roblee's 602 series was the top effort in the Fraternal loop at Hahn's.

Terrors Open Season Friday

80 passes last year (a 45 per cent pace)

In the last three games — which produced AHS wins over Fond du Lac, Manitowoc and Sheboygan South — Soley sizzled with 24 completions in 39 attempts.

Targets Back

Soley will have two of his 1964 targets back — end Jon Griffith and halfback Bon Brinkman. Griffith caught eight passes for 112 yards.

Toneys also has some proven receivers back to work on his aerials: halfback Pete Biolo and ends Bill VandenHoogen and Gary Jost. VandenHoogen was second only to all-stater Pat Harrington in FRVC pass receiving last year. He caught 21 of them for 377 yards. Jost scored against AHS.

The Terrors hope to develop a formidable running game to make their passing more effective. Fullback Jim Kloes, a 205-pound batterer, will spearhead the ground attack. After taking over the fullback slot in the last half of his sophomore season, Kloes averaged 4.8 yards per carry.

For halfback speed, the Terrors will rely on Ron Brinkman and Larry Einspahr. Brinkman saw considerable action last year.

The Terrors suffered a major loss when center Gary Lutz, a hold-over regular, hurt his knee in a scrimmage. Surgery was required, and Lutz will probably be out for the season. Replacing him at the pivot post will be Paul Ziemer, a junior.

The rest of the offensive line will consist of Giffith and Dennis Lamers, ends; John Kafura and Nick Retson, tackles; and Ron Plamann and John Boyce, guards.

In the AHS defensive line will be Jeff Huttenberg, Steve Cloud, Tom Reitzner, Keith Mossholder and Jim Michalkiewicz. Linebackers will be Dick Erickson and either Don Defoe or Bruce Kain. Manning the halfback and safety posts will be Tom Gerrits, Bob Simon, Pat Garvey and Wayne Lutz.

Southwest has nine lettermen, compared to AHS' 10. But the Trojan ranks are considerably thinner than the Terrors — with a few less than 40 players on the combined varsity and JV squads.

Yanks Retain Keane for '66

Richardson, Kubek Talk of Retiring After Current Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Johnny Keane will be back next year but the same cannot be said for certain about two other New York Yankee standbys — second baseman Bobby Richardson and shortstop Tony Kubek.

At Wednesday's signing ceremonies in which Keane was retained for the 1966 season, the 53-year-old pilot acknowledged his awareness of Kubek's and Richardson's intention to retire at the end of the current season.

He added, however, "I won't believe it until I see it."

Richardson and Kubek have told teammates they are at least considering retirement. Third baseman Clete Boyer, like Keane, admitted he had heard both express those sentiments. Again, like Keane, he believes they will change their mind.

The Yankees' 1965 futility reached its climax Wednesday night when they were officially eliminated from the American League pennant race by Minnesota's 3-2 victory over Chicago.

back, and Bragan said he would have to hit his way back into it.

Reinstated in lineup

Carty was reinstated in the lineup recently and has hit well. In fact, after getting five hits and playing a solid outfield against the New York Mets in a doubleheader sweep Monday, Carty got nothing but praise from his manager. But it was another story Wednesday night.

Bragan singled out Carty, saying he should have been backing up the infield on an overthrow that allowed John Callison to go all to third base in the seventh inning. Callison scored what proved to be the deciding run when Richie Allen, the next batter, bounced out.

"He should have been there," said Bragan, "and Callison would never have gotten to third. It turned out to be the big run."

The Phillies scored three times in the inning, which Adolpho Phillips opened with a walk off losing pitcher Ken Johnson, 15-9. Cookie Rojas then laid a perfect bunt down the third base line. Eddie Mathews picked up the ball, but threw it low past Felipe Alou at first base and the Phillies had runners on second and third.

Brought in Lemaster

Bragan then brought in Denver Lemaster, a lefthander, to pitch to the southpaw-swinging Callison, who promptly ripped a single to right, scoring two runs.

Callison, apparently thinking there would be play at the plate, broke for second base. But there was no play and the Braves' had the Phils' outfielder trapped. But Alou fired the ball into left field and Callison streaked toward third before Carty could retrieve the ball.

Callison also singled in the first Philadelphia run following a third-inning Rojas double. Dick Stuart added two more runs with a home run in the fourth, his 25th of the season.

Down 6-2 in the eighth, the Braves rallied. Mike de la Hoz opened the inning with a single. After Ty Cline flied to left, Carty singled de la Hoz to third. Mack Jones doubled to drive in de la Hoz and Aaron doubled to drive in Carty and Jones.

Worked Out of Jam

Phillies' Manager Gene Mauch then brought on Chris Short, normally a starter, and Short worked out of the jam by getting Gene Oliver to bounce into a fielder's choice that erased Aaron, the potential tying run, from the basepaths.

Sandy Alomar ran for Oliver and stole second base. Joe Torre was then given a free pass and Alou bounced into a force-out to end the threat.

Short struck out the side after giving up a leadoff single to Frank Bolling in the ninth inning.

The Braves try to get back on the winning track tonight when they meet the Phillies in a game that will close out the current home stand. Tony Cloninger, 20-9, will pitch for the Braves against the Phillies' Jim Bunning, 16-8.

of Houston. Fourth place Milwaukee fell two games behind after a 6-5 loss to Philadelphia and fifth-place Pittsburgh remained four back with a 2-1 decision over St. Louis.

Walks Hickman

O'Toole retired the Mets in order until he walked Jim Hickman with one out in the fifth inning. Ron Swoboda followed with New York's first hit, a double, and Hickman scored on a grounder. Walks to Danny Napoleon and Bobby Klaus, a force play and Joe Christopher's sacrifice fly brought in the second Mets run in the sixth.

The Reds got the job done quickly against the Mets, pushing across four first inning runs — three on Frank Robinson's homer. Deron Johnson, who lifted his major league leading runs batted in total to 116, added another three-run homer in the eighth inning.

Mays hit a three-run homer in the second inning and connected with one man on in the eighth, lifting his career homer total to 498. Willie McCovey also homered for the Giants while Bob Bolin scattered nine Houston hits, bringing his record to 9-5 with his first complete game of the season.

Bob Friend allowed the Cardinals only four hits, bringing his record to 7-11, while the Pirates broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh when Del Crandall lashed a double off Ray Sadecki and Gene Alley followed with a single. Sadecki struck out 13 in his seven-inning stint.

Boxer's Condition Improves Slightly

LONDON (AP) — A hospital spokesman reported a slight improvement today in the condition of Mexican boxer Jesus Saucedo, who remains in a coma.

Saucedo, 23, was carried out of the ring on a stretcher after being knocked out by John O'Brien of Scotland Tuesday night in a preliminary bout to the Vincente Saldivar-Howard Winstone featherweight title fight.

"He is still semi-conscious but the slight improvement in his condition has been maintained," a hospital medical bulletin said.

NOTES and NOTIONS

John L. Faustian

Picking an opening set of football games in the predictions league is akin to trying to figure out who'll win the National League baseball pennant. But, since we have to get our feet wet sometime, we might as well find out right now how cold the water will be in '65.

Appleton over Southwest — The Terrors, who aren't about to be caught short a second straight time by this new school, will blunt the Trojans' aerial game.

Fox Lutheran over Winnebago Lutheran — The Foxes, who showed admirable bounce-back qualities in their opener, have too much offense for their arch rivals.

Xavier over Rhinelander — The Hawks, who came close to dumping a strong Milwaukee Jordan team, will be both eager for revenge and anxious to make a good start on their home season.

Kaukauna over Pennings — The veteran-laden Squires will provide a stern pre-conference tests for the Ghosts, but the sure-to-be-potent Kaukaunans will be ready for them.

Neenah over Eau Claire Memorial — Eau Claire could be one of the best in the state, but M-E football doesn't have to take a back seat to any played in the state. The Rocket defense will be ready to key the upset by stopping Memorial's vaunted aerial attack.

Kimberly over St. John — A virtually even game could be decided by the Papermaker's small edge in experience. It's completely unpredictable, however, since Kimberly is playing its first game under a new coach.

Menasha over Berlin — The Jays, who have improved steadily the last few years, have too much speed for their non-league foe.

Clintonville over Merrill — The Truckers figure to have another of their typically strong entries.

Marinette over New London — Marinette has an extra game under its belt, and that experience could prove the difference. The Bulldogs will be bigger and better this season.

St. Mary over Weyauwega — The Zephyrs should profit from their mistakes in last week's loss to Oconto Falls. The Indians figure to make it close.

Other FRVC games: Oshkosh over Preble, East over Manitowoc, South over Fond du Lac, North over West.

LITTLE NINE: Winneconne over Shiocton, Denmark over Hilbert, Omro over Hortonville, Wrightstown over Brillion, Reedsville over Freedom.

Major League Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BATTING — Willie Mays, San Francisco, rapped his 44th and 45th homers plus a single, driving in five runs, as the Giants walloped Houston 12-3 and took a one-half game lead in the National League.

Pick Oshkosh To Repeat as FRVC Titlists pick), George Dahl, Larry Meyers, Rock Woodland, Greg Weigandt and Bruce Erickson, center Larry Clark, tackles Scott Schermetzler and T. J. Rodgers, guard Gary Jischke and end Mark Spanbauer.

The big ground-gainers are expected to be Steinert, Dahl and Weigandt. Steinert averaged 9.0-yards per try last season and Dahl was even better with a 9.4 per trip effort. More help came via a transfer from Green Bay Southwest, Jim Schroeder. Schroeder was a fullback at Southwest, but could be shifted into the line, where experience is lacking.

GREEN BAY WEST — Coach John Biolo, in his 15th season, has 10 returning veterans. Among these are backs Bill Woosencraft, Steve Harrison, Jack Paluch and Lou Magnuson, linemen Bob Joslin, Gary DeByl, Vic Long, Mike McCartney and Dennis Bartel and end Chet Johnston.

Joslin, at 250 pounds, is a 2-year letterman tackle. The biggest Wildcat is Dean Zuelsdorf, a 6-3, 280-pound specimen. Woosencraft, the quarterback, is a mere 5-5 and 135 pounds.

APPLETON — Coach Ade Dillon, who, like Schumerth, is launching his 23rd year at the controls, has 10 lettermen. Quarterback Terry Soley and fullback Jim Kloes are expected to supply the brunt of the attack.

Other veteran backs include Ron Brinkman, Pat Garvey and Dick Erickson. Lettermen linemen back in uniform include Rick Boyce, Ron Plamann, Pete Stark, and end Jon Griffith. The Terrors suffered a severe blow with the loss of letterman No. 10, Gary Lutz. Lutz, who has had knee surgery, was the regular center last season.

SHEBOYGAN NORTH — Eight lettermen greeted Coach Ron Nieman, including all-FRVC halfback Tim Seifert. Lynn Nickerson and Mike Graef are the other backfield returnees. Nickerson will be the quarterback.

Line vets returning include Dick Van Driest, Steve Renzelman, Roger Leys, Joel Grollmus and Dennis Luedtke.

SHEBOYGAN SOUTH — Only six letter-winners remain from Coach Fritz Goettel's third place team of $64. These include backs Gerald Lauff and Jim Schwiner and linemen Mark Trumm, Chris Kroos, Mark Lautenschlager and Harold Pette. Prime weaknesses are at tackle and quarterback. Lauff, Kroos (end) and Trumm are the sparkplugs.

GREEN BAY EAST — The entire offensive line (including Pat Harrington) was lost through graduation and Coach Al Manchoski has many holes to fill, despite a 14-lettermen contingent.

The veterans include fullback Larry Ebert and Jim Wright, Keith Renard, Wayne Klopotek, Karl Kolodzik and Keith Bridenhagen in the backfield and linemen Dave Skovera, Randy VandenLangenberg, Tom Siebert, John Rose, Howie Deer, Bill Piontek, Bill Hitch and Paul Spielbauer. Ebert and Skovera are the only returning regulars. Jim Barnhart, East's ace pole vaulter, is a good bet for a starting offensive end berth.

MANITOWOC — New Coach Bill Twichell has problems — only three returning lettermen and no experienced quarterback (JV included). The quarterback situation is acute, since no team member has ever so much as made a single hand-off under competitive fire. The vets are guard John Schuh, tackle Dick Burger and halfback Chuck Leiker. Twichell hopes to use the Split-T with variations.

PREBLE — Coach Bill Dessart makes his much-awaited debut in the FRVC with one of his weakest-ever teams. The Hornets amassed a nifty 5-2 mark in a tough independent schedule last year, but only four lettermen return.

Quarterback Don Donarski, a junior, is definitely the team leader. Other vets include 6-4 end Rick Van Roy, and linemen Paul Simons and Ron Gauthier. Overall, team speed should be good with ample size in the interior line. Transfer Dave Hill, a sophomore scatback from Pennsylvania, is the top prospect.

FOND DU LAC — The Cardinals of Coach Jim Johnson could surprise fellow members this season. With quarterback Larry Bornemann heading a list of 14 lettermen, Johnson is definitely optimistic.

Other vets include backs Bob Diener, Leo Goldapske, Mark McLain and Dennis Meyer and linemen Steve Sheridan, Tom Oldfield, Dick Diener, Joe Guyette, 268-pound tackle Dan Christus, Tom Sabel, Steve Cochran, Ralph Scheel and Bill Fritz. The only problem is a rushing attack.

SOUTHWEST — Coach Jim Reinke, a former Appleton High standout end, has nine lettermen back from the first team in the young school's history.

The lettermen are quarterback Rick Toneys and backs Pete Biolo and Mike Pharis. Linemen returnees include end Bill VandenHoogen, Gary Jost, Jim Kassner, Tom Schaus, Paul Debban and Bruce Conger. Debban, a guard, could rank among the best in the FRVC.

Profitable Flop For Realtors Worth Millions

Land That Farmers Would Not Buy Is Saturated With Oil

By LEIF ERICKSON

SAN FRANCICO (AP) — The investment "mistake" of Kern County Land Co. founders has turned out to be one of the most enormously profitable flops in California business enterprise.

With mining bonanza profits, bankers Lloyd Tevis and James Ben Ali Haggin originally bought up San Joaquin Valley land with a pain to sell it to immigrant farmers they hoped to lure from England.

Spurning Wild West ventures in the 1870s, England's farmers just wouldn't buy. Tevis and Haggin were stuck with their acres. They turned to cattle raising and incorporated in 1890.

The land the bankers couldn't unload produced $416.6 million in oil royalty revenues through 1964.

President Dwight M. Cochran recently asured land company stockholders: "We will continue to have substantial income and cash flow from oil royalty payments for many, many years."

Kern County land is celebrating this month its 75th corporate birthday with broadly diversified assets exceeding $218 million. Newly acquired among these are controlling interest in J. I. Case Co., farm implement maker; and a partnership stake with Union Oil Co. In Australia's first major oil discovery at Moonie field.

First-half earnings in 1965 amounted to $10.6 million, or $2.47 a share.

Kern County Land no longer is simply a land company nor is it confined to Kern County.

But it remains one of the country's biggest cattle raising operations, annually marketing about 200,000 head.

Six Ranches

The beef animals start as calves on six company ranches in California, New Mexico and Arizona with a total of 1.8 million acres of company-owned land.

They go to market from scientifically managed feed lots near Bakersfield, Calif., and Scottsbluff, Neb.

The company also is one of the nation's biggest corporate crop farmers. It has 118,000 acres of irrigated lands producing cotton, fruit, potatoes, and nuts. It operates only 11,000 acres on its own and leases the balance in big-scale crop sharing.

The first oil royalty revenue started in 1902. Oil revenues were starting to decline in 1954 when the board chairman, George C. Montgomery, came to Kern County Land as its chief executive officer from Hawaii's Castle & Cooke Co.

The company was paying out 75 per cent in dividends and reinvesting extensively in traditional cattle and crop operations.

"But cash still was accumulating at the rate of $2 million a year," Montgomery recalls.

Directors debated whether to increase dividends on a long-term liquidation basis or seek growth.

The decision was made for growth.

The biggest commitment was made a year ago when the company borrowed $60 million on its lands at 4.65 per cent interest to buy controlling interest in Case.

Case contributed $1.8 million to this year's first-half earnings. In earlier diversifying ventures Kern County Land acquired wholly owned manufacturing subsidiaries in Watkins-Johnson Co., Palo Alto, Calif., electronics firm; and Walker Manufacturing Co. of Racine, Wis., maker of auto exhausts and parts.

Strike Halts Newsprint Plant in Texas

LUFKIN, Tex. (AP)—A strike halted production Tuesday at Southland Paper Mills, Inc., the only newsprint plant in Texas.

Company officials announced that operations had been halted after union employes failed to return from a Labor Day holiday.

About 500 workers struck. They are member of the United Papermakers and Paperworkers, the International Brotherhood of Pulp Sulphide and Paper Mill Workers, and the International Association of Machinists.

A leader said the International Brotherhood of Electricians, which did not strike, would respect picket lines of the other three unions.

B. R. Cheatham, president of the Papermakers and Paperworkers local, said discussions of a new contract broke down last weekend. He said the unions seek a one-year contract and the company wants a three year pact.

TVA Stockpiling Coal For Bull Run Plant

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Tennessee Valley Authority is stockpiling coal for its huge Bull Run steam plant on the Clinch River near Oak Ridge.

Bull Run will consume an estimated 2.2 million tons of coal a year — 316 tons an hour — when it is placed in operation next year. The $135-million plant will produce 900,000 kilowatts of electricity.

Raymond Warner

Name Village Street for Hortonville President

HORTONVILLE — The village board at its recent meeting voted to name a new street near the high school Warner Street, honoring Village president Raymond Warner.

The street, named in a 6-1 secret vote, runs north from U. S. 45 and behind the high school. It previously was considered an extension of Union Street.

In other action the board voted to advertise for fuel oil bids for heating the sewage treatment plant, village hall and the community hall. Bids are to be submitted to the village clerk by Wednesday.

A final audit report from Municipal Justice Jon C. Platts showed a total of $2,265 collected through the municipal court.

Funds Transferred

The board okayed a $5,000 transfer from the general village fund to the water and sewer utility to be repaid in October when water billing is done. The transfer was made to carry the utility over until the billing.

In other action the board:

—Approved the transfer of a cigarette license from Tay Ray Baernwald to Charles Mann for a root beer stand on W. Main Street.

—Heard and filed a letter from Ray Jandourek, 340 N. Olk St., requesting water and sewer service.

—Granted a building permit to Duane Earll, 223 W. Embarrass St., for home remodeling and a new garage.

Parking Considered

Downtown parking for workers and shoppers was discussed. Off-street parking on an alley behind business establishments on the south side of Main Street was considered. Although no action was taken, plans for more downtown parking will be carried out.

Approval was also given to the village clerk to purchase a four-drawer filing cabinet.

Bogota Project Shows Poverty Is Tough Foe

Success of Housing Unit Doubted by Many After 4 Years

An AP Special Report
By JAMES D. BOWMAN

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Almost four years ago John F. Kennedy journeyed to a windswept field near here "to join in making this a better dwelling place for man."

It was to become a hallmark for the Alliance for Progress, the U. S. declared a battleground of the alliance versus poverty.

The president's visit on Dec. 17, 1961, marked the birth of Ciudad Kennedy, a development of some 7,800 homes and about 65,000 persons on the western outskirts of the Colombian capital.

Success Not Agreed

Into Ciudad Kennedy—the biggest such project in South America—the United States and various international lending agencies have pumped more than $9.4 million.

Ciudad Kennedy approaches its fourth birthday as a subject of controversy.

There is grumbling about the lack of water mains, telephones, paved streets, parks and inefficient garbage collection. Juvenile gangs roam the streets.

Schools are opening but more are needed. There are doctors but no hospitals. And there are complaints that some buy homes only on speculation, with rentals leading to deterioration.

Loose Ends

Its often-muddy streets and hit and miss planning reflect both pride and indifference, achievement and neglect. It houses the civic booster, the disillusioned, the industrious and some simply reaching for pie in the sky.

All share the common denominator of middle- or lower-class incomes in this country where 1,000 pesos—about $55 a month—is considered good take-home pay for a factory worker.

Peeling Paint

At first glance, one sees paint peeling from the alliance signboard that greets him.

Behind one such battered billboard rises a four-story apartment building, scarcely finished but already in need of repair.

A start has been made toward beautifying a parkway along a main avenue while a trash dump mars another. Youngsters fly kites from atop a mound of broken glass and refuse.

One Family Homes

Then come the rows of flat-topped one-family brick or cement block homes fringed with iron grillwork and touches of Spanish architecture. Some cost as little as $350.

A few are immaculate with tiny but carefully tended front yards and brightly painted trimwork. There are modest but attractive furnishings.

Others are ill-kept with mud piled high in front of doorways and littered pathways.

Crude, But Home

Some are crude but comfortable products of the owners' labor.

In one such home resides Eduardo Martinez Perilla, 36, with his wife, Maria, and their three youngsters.

Two years ago, Martinez quit his job in the oilfields near Puerto Boyaca and struck out for Bogota. He got a factory job making $33 a month. The family lived in one room.

Built It Himself

With the help of friends and a down payment of about $100, Martinez bought a lot and built a home with his own hands in Ciudad Kennedy. The government agency which handled the sale threw in building materials.

Once the roof and the brick walls were up, the family moved in. They have five rooms, a bath, water, electricity, and a 15-year mortgage at $10 a month.

Their youngsters and a mongrel pup romp on the cement floor when the rain keeps them inside. Drainage always is a problem outside on the street.

Must Help Yourself

Martinez is a literate man and understands that alliance funds helped him get his house. He is critical of those who won't help to better themselves. Weekends he aids neigbors in building their homes.

He shares in the grumbling but would not go back to Puerto Boyaca.

Ciudad Kennedy, say alliance officials, demonstrates that social change in Latin America is a complex process. Introduction of one social improvement leads to impatient demands for others.

Herein, they contend, lies the real challenge of the alliance.

Fine Two as Tipsy Drivers

Arthur Charles, 26, Oneida, Also Jailed For 60 Day Period

Arthur M. Charles, 26, Oneida, was sentenced to 60 days in county jail and was assessed $195 and costs when he appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 on traffic charges.

A fine of $175 and costs was levied for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and there was a $20 fine for failing to heed a stop sign. The jail sentence was on a charge of driving after revocation of license.

Charles was arrested Monday afternoon on County Trunk U by Outagamie County traffic police.

Melvin A. Gustafson, 32, route 4, Appleton, was fined $175 and costs and had his drivers license revoked for one year when he appeared this morning on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

Charles was arrested Tuesday by Kimberly police.

Driver Injured in Car, Train Collision

KAUKAUNA — Daniel Verbeten, 25, 801 Lawe St., received a bruised left arm and was advised to see a family physician when the car he was driving east on Thilmany Road was involved in a collision with a Chicago North Western train Tuesday.

Verbeten told police he did not see the train backing across the roadway until it was too late. A boxcar struck the driver's side of the vehicle.

Texas, Louisiana Are Betsy's Next Targets

Negotiators Meet Past Midnight in Attempt to Settle

KENOSHA (AP)—Representatives of the American Motors Corp., and United Auto Workers Local 72 continued their meetings until well past midnight Wednesday in an attempt to settle the 18-day strike at the company's Rambler plants here.

More than 16,000 production workers have been idled at Kenosha and at Milwaukee in the strike reportedly started here over work standards and disciplining of union stewards.

The meetings were resumed late Wednesday after Gov. Warren P. Knowles said at a joint meeting of the company and union leaders that a prolonged strike would "do irreparable damage" to the state's image and its efforts to locate and expand industry.

Knowles' Offer

The governor offered his services to end the strike "at the earliest opportunity."

"I believe that men of good will sitting around the bargaining table can find a means of compromising their differences and adjusting their grievances," Knowles said

Local 72 announced shortly after the governor's talk that it would hold its regular meeting on Saturday at a lakefront stadium. A union source indicated a progress report on the negotiations would be given at the meeting.

George Gullen, vice president of industrial relations and the company's chief negotiator, issued a statement after the governor's talk.

Good Citizen

He said:

"The American Motors Corporation regards itself as a good citizen of Wisconsin We have been honored by the presence of the governor today. He has helped us to see our problems in a new perspective. It renews our determination to settle our problems in such a manner that we can continue to be a strong industrial organization in this important state and community."

Another company spokesman said early today that the union and company held separate caucuses during the night and then met jointly until about 1 30 a.m. today before adjourning with an agreement to meet again this morning.

Aid Appropriation Passed by House

$4 Billion Foreign Spending Sent to Senate; GOP Balk Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $4-billion foreign aid appropriation has cleared the House after administration forces beat back Republican moves to withhold help from India and Pakistan.

Such a cutback would invite Communist China to enter the war on Pakistan's side, Democrats argued before passing the bill on a 239-143 roll call vote late Wednesday and sending it to the Senate.

Besides, administration supporters said, the State Department already has announced a suspension of military aid to the battling countries and said no economic help will be given without consultation with congressional leaders.

Ban Attempt

The attempt to ban aid until the fighting stops was spearheaded by Rep. Frank T. Bow, R-Ohio, who coupled it with a proposal to cut $285 million from the bill's total.

Bow, along with the GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and former leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, disputed the administration claim that the amendment would tie the hands of the President in dealing with the India-Pakistan crisis

They insisted it would ban U.S. aid from a recipient nation carrying on a militation action against another recipient country. Since Red China receives no U.S help, Bow contended it would not be binding if that nation enters the war.

Into Red's Hands

Democrats pointed out, however, that even if China enters the battle on the side of Pakistan, India presumably would continue fighting Pakistan and the United States could not go to India's assistance.

Rep George H. Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said Bow's proposal would tie the hands of the President and would be "playing into the hands of Red China."

"This might be an invitation to Red China to intervene," declared Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma

In the face of apparent defeat, Republicans did not seek a roll-call vote on the Bow amendment, although they could have forced one

In another action, the House approved without debate and by voice vote a ban on aid to any nation whose ships carry war supplies or strategic material to Cuba or North Viet Nam.

WASHINGTON (AP)— Four Wisconsin Democrats voted with the majority Wednesday night as the House passed, 239-143, the Foreign Aid Appropriations Bill. Five Wisconsin Republicans and one Democrat voted against the measure.

Voting for the bill were Democrats Kastenmeier, Reuss, Stalbaum and Zablocki. Opposing the measure were Republicans Byrnes, Davis, Laird, O'Konski and Thomson and Democrat Race.

100,000 Expected to Leave U. S. Gulf Coast Area; Florida Assesses Damage

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A great exodus from low lying coastal areas shaped up today as Hurricane Betsy, fresh from an attack on Florida, advanced on the Gulf Coast.

More than 100,000 residents were expected to pack cars and trailers today and head out of south Louisiana and east Texas, away from possible killer tides and 140-mile winds.

The Weather Bureau urged them to evacuate as soon as possible before escape routes were cut off by rising waters.

Target Uncertain

Backtracking Betsy's exact target remained uncertain The storm — described as fast-moving, big and dangerous — has proved itself unpredictable.

The multibillion-dollar offshore oil industry — 4,800 oil wells and drilling platforms, some of them 100 miles from land — was being evacuated and battened down.

All possible equipment had headed for inland waters. About 3,000 oil workers had been moved to safety.

The last hurricane in the area — Hilda last September — caused about $200 million damage to offshore oil rigs.

At 8 a.m. the Navy located the center of Betsy about 235 miles southeast of the mouth of the Mississippi River. She was moving west-northwest at 18 miles an hour, packing winds of 120 to 140 miles an hour.

1957 Storm

The trickle of evacuees, soon to swell, started at Cameron, the little town in western Louisiana near the Texas border, where Hurricane Audrey killed 500 in June 1957.

Most of those 500 died in surging tides which swept the coastal area. Betsy's tides were also expected to be high — forecast at 10 to 12 feet at some points.

The Weather Bureau said the most likely landfall for the hurricane's center was western Louisiana and the extreme upper Texas coast.

Betsy left most of the Florida area without power and with ruined crops, flooded homes.

No damage estimate was firm but it was expected to run to at least $100 million.

Three Dead

Three lives also were lost. This was considered a relatively light toll in view of the six-foot

U. S. Silent About Wessin Bribe Claim

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The U.S. Embassy kept silent today on claims by Gen Elias Wessin y Wessin that two of its staff offered him money and position abroad if he agreed to leave the Dominican Republic.

Wessin, who led the coup which overthrew President Juan Bosch and also led the resistance to the pro-Bosch revolt in April, told newsmen the Americans offered him $50,000 for his home He said the house and lot were worth half that

The two Americans also promised him military attache jobs in London or Madrid he said.

Rebel leaders have demanded removal of Wessin from command of the armed forces training center and that he be sent out of the country or barred from any post of power.

The general, 42, said he was approached by Lt Col Joseph William Weyrich, an Army attache; and David Phillips, who he claimed was an agent for the Central Intelligence Agency.

U. S. Bombers Hit Bridge at Red China Line

Closest Penetration To Frontier in Viet Nam Conflict

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U S military spokesmen announced today that American planes bombed a bridge 17 miles south of Red China's border with North Viet Nam It was their closest penetration toward the Chinese frontier in the Vietnamese war.

The spokesmen said four F105 Thunderchiefs damaged the railroad bridge in the raid Wednesday and pounded two other bridges 25 and 30 miles south of the border.

The area, about 140 miles northwest of Hanoi, is an important transportation center leading to the North Vietnamese capital. U S pilots are trying to disrupt a railroad in the area and last month bombed within 30 miles of Red China twice.

Ground War

In the ground war, U.S. Marines and Vietnamese troops continued their giant sweep to clear the Viet Cong from the Batangan peninsula.

Reports from the three-day-old operation 200 miles south of Chu Lai said 148 Viet Cong had been killed, 38 captured and 100 suspects detained.

Although between 5,000 and 6,000 troops were taking part, American and Vietnamese casualties were described as light.

No other major ground activity was reported, but a U.S. Army helicopter crashed in the Mekong Delta 100 miles south of Saigon, and all members of its crew were reported killed.

The crash occurred in Communist-infested Vinh Binh Province, but it was not known immediately whether the craft was hit by enemy fire. Although the

Thant Arrives

Heavy Battles Rage In India, Pakistan

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Indian and Pakistani troops fought heavy engagements on two new fronts in northern and southern Pakistan today. India claimed 75 Pakistani tanks—all American-made—were destroyed in a 24-hour period.

In Rawalypindi, a Pakistani spokesman claimed both drives were stopped cold. But India said its forces were advancing on both fronts, in the Sialkot sector in the north and in the Gadra area 600 miles to the south, in southeast Pakistan where it launched invasions Wednesday.

It was understood the toughest fighting was in the border regions of the north near the West Pakistan city of Kasur and India's city of Frezepore in Punjab.

Red Blast

As the fighting raged, Premier Chou En-lai of Red China loosed another blast at India and said its "massive armed attack on Pakistan" could not have been carried out without U.S. consent and support.

In a speech at a reception in Peking at the North Korean Embassy, Chou stopped short of saying Red China would provide concrete assistance to Pakistan. But he reiterated firm support of the Pakistanis.

Officials in Washington and London were concerned lest Red China take a hand in behalf of Pakistan by starting new trouble on India's border.

Thant Arrives

There were these other diplomatic developments:

—U.N. Secretary-General U Thant arrived in Rawalpindi, the Pakistan capital, on his mission to seek a cease-fire. He said the situation was serious.

—Premier Amir Abass Hoveida of Iran flew into Turkey to consult with Turkish officials on Pakistan's appeal to them for military help. All three nations are members of the Central Treaty Organization, an anti-Communist alliance with which the United States is associated.

An Indian communique, reporting the claim that 114 Pakistani tanks had been destroyed since Sept. 1, spoke in general terms of the battles.

"Reports received until this afternoon indicate very heavy fighting is in progress in most sectors in Pakistan," it said.

Baggage Cut From Airborne U. S. Divisions

Units Slimmed for Likely Duty Against 'Unsophisticated' Foe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has streamlined its two paratrooper divisions and regeared them to fight chiefly in underdeveloped areas like Southeast Asia rather than against a "sophisticated" enemy in Europe.

The action came after Army experts reviewed the role of the 82nd Airborne and 101st Airborne divisions "in the light of contemporary world conditions."

The slimmed-down divisions require only about half as many Air Force transports to carry them to trouble spots — 620 instead of 1,300 — and this gives the paratroopers what the Army calls "greater strategic mobility."

Weapons Cut

Stripped away from each division was a battalion of 47 self-propelled 90-millimeter guns, a battery of four Little John rockets and all heavy equipment not capable of being carried in the Air Force's C130 transport planes.

Each division was cut by 1,000 men, paring their strength to slightly under 13,000 men apiece.

In effect, the Army's combat developments command decided that airborne divisions would not be needed, at least at the outset, in any land battle against Communist armies in Europe.

However, it was stressed that in the event a need arose for the paratrooper units in Europe, they could be reinforced and fitted for action there.

Likely Threats

Basically, the Army experts concluded that the most likely threats of the future will arise in areas like Asia, Africa and Latin America.

It was to meet these threats better that the airborne divisions were streamlined.

Both the 82nd Airborne and the 101st Airborne currently are involved in what are called militarily "unsophisticated" environments. Part of the 82nd is still in the Dominican Republic. A brigade of the 101st is in South Viet Nam.

'Wise and Progressive'

Urban Cabinet Seat Bill Signed by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law today legislation creating a new department of housing and urban affairs and called it "a wise, just and progressive measure for all America."

Speaking before a large group of mayors, members of Congress and other officials in the White House flower garden, Johnson said the legislation is "the first step toward organizing our system for a more rational response to the pressing challenge of urban life."

Johnson delayed announcement of his selection to head the new department which will be the 11th Cabinet post

Speculation has centered on Robert C. Weaver, director of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, which is the core of the new department

Second America

Johnson said that in the next 35 years "we must literally build a second America — putting in place as many houses, schools, apartments, parks and offices as we have built through all the time since the pilgrims arrived on these shores."

"The physical challenge is awesome," Johnson said.

"But there is a challenge to the spirit that is even greater and more demanding.

Not Enough

"It is not enough for us to erect towers of stone and glass or to lay out vast suburbs of order and conformity. We must seek — and we must find — ways to preserve and perpetuate in the city the individuality, the human dignity, the respect for individual rights and the devotion to individual responsibility that have been parts of the American character and strengths of the American system."

Johnson said enactment of the legislation "represents the unified determination of this generation to preserve the best of the past by preparing to make the future better still."

DeGaulle Calls for Dismantling of NATO Command Structure

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle said today that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's integrated command structure must be dismantled by 1969 at the latest.

At his semiannual news conference the president said the present system of NATO constitutes a "subordination" of France's own defense forces to the Allied structure. He said this must end.

This was a reference to the integrated command structure at Supreme Allied Command, Europe, first established by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and headed by an American general ever since. The present commander is Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

De Gaulle did not mention SHAPE by name, nor the nationality of its commander, but his reference was quite clear.

Jailer Hospitalized

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WAUPACA—The search continued late this morning for a 29-year-old rural Iola man who struck a jailer and fled from the county jail about 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Bloodhounds were taken into the area near the intersection of Oborn and Sherear streets on the northeast side today to see if they could pick up the trail left by Gordon F. Tews who was being held in jail on a rape charge The bloodhounds lost the train in the same vicinity during heavy rains Wednesday night

Dogs were unable to pick up any scent this morning Again the rain was blamed. The hounds also were taken to the Soo Line railroad yards but found nothing.

Gordon F. Tews

Tews struck Jailer Larry Jensen with a heavy cast frame which he pried loose from a ceiling light fixture in his cell. Tews fled out the front door of the jail as Jensen went to the radio to summon help.

All exit routes from the city were sealed off by police from Waupaca and neighboring communities. An intensive search continued through the night and early morning hours. It was called off about 4 a.m. because of the heavy rains but was resumed at daybreak.

Taken to Hospital

Jensen, who was rushed to the Waupaca Riverside Hospital, is listed in satisfactory condition. He suffered a gash above his left eye which required 10 stitches to close He also may have received a skull fracture.

Mrs. Loran Frazier, wife of Sheriff Frazier, was in the kitchen adjoining the office. She gave the following account of the jailbreak.

Jensen was at the radio desk when Tews pounded on the cell block door. When Jensen went to investigate, Tews asked that he be locked in his cell. When Jensen opened the cell block door, Tews apparently pushed him back and Jensen yelled for help. As Mrs. Frazier started for the door she saw Jensen back across the doorway and Tews had the six-by 13-inch five-pound metal frame in his hand. With the first blow Tews struck Jensen across the arm which he raised to ward off the blow. The second blow struck Jensen on the head.

After striking Jensen the second time, Tews looked towards Mrs. Frazier, dropped the frame and fled out the door. Other prisoners in the cell block rushed out and one attempted to stop Tews but he was unable to catch him. Two prisoners gave Jensen first aid until an ambulance arrived.

At the time of the break,

Gemini 5 Twins To Discuss Trip

MANNED SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — Eight days of cliff hanging — that's the way Gemini 5 astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. described his record flight, and today he tells about those exciting hours.

Cooper and his space partner, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr. were recovered Aug. 29 from the west Atlantic after 190 hours and 55 minutes orbiting the earth. Soon afterward the veteran space voyager told sailors aboard the USS Lake Champlain that the flight was "eight days of cliff hanging not knowing what was going to go wrong next."

For 11 days since, Cooper and Conrad have been telling doctors, scientists and engineers what happened during the 120 orbits.

Valuation at Waupaca Shows $800,000 Increase

Total Climbs to $13,292,825; $552,125 of Gain Attributed To Land Reassessment in City

WAUPACA — The new assessed valuation of the City of Wupaca increased $803,650 over the 1964 figure, according to Henry J. Wiegel, city assessor.

The total assessment roll for this year amounts to $13,292,825 compared with the 1964 figure of $12,489,175. Of the increase, $552,125 can be attributed to a reassessment of land in the city. Real estate values increased $651,450 from $10,958,050 in 1964 to $11,609,500 this year. Personal property assessments, are up $252,100 from the $1,531,125 last year to $1,683,325 in 1965.

Wiegel's report lists 1,230 homes in the city and 141 vacant residential lots, a total of 1,371 residential lots. In the merchantile category, which includes stores, service stations and other businesses, there 176 buildings and 35 vacant lots.

Manufacturing Sites

Fourteen manufacturing sites, all occupied, are listed. Within the city limits there are 711 acres of agriculture land but only one owner maintains a herd of cattle. His report lists 24 head of cattle valued at $1,800. There are no swine, sheep or poultry in the city but there are three hives of bees.

A breakdown shows an increase of $312,455 in residential land values, $1,164,875 in 1964 to $1,477,325 in 1965. Coupled with the $7,235,640 in residential improvements, which is up $145,645 from last year, the total residential real estate is valued at $8,730,975.

Mercantile land has gained $113,550 in assessed value from $540,900 to $654,450 and the improvements have increased slightly from $1,659,750 in 1964 to $1,662,250 this year for a total of $2,314,200.

Manufacturing Values

For manufacturing, $47,150 is listed for land, up $16,600, and improvements have increased from $397,125 in 1964 to $438,425 this year, a gain of $41,300, bringing the total to $485,575.

Agriculture land came up slightly more than $9,000 to $39,950 in 1965 and the improvements dropped $3,150 from $41,950 in 1964 to $38,800 this year. However the increase in land assessment offset the improvement drop bringing the total agriculture valuation to $78,750, $5,378 above last year's $72,375.

The total personal property assessment gain for this year is $175,200, up from $1,531,125 in 1964 to $1,683,325.

The breakdown of the personal property is cattle, 20 head last year, 24 head this year with the value up from $1,500 to $1,800; merchants stock, from $689,550 to $812,925, up $123,375; manufacturers' stock, from $171,175 in 1964 to $190,800 this year, up $19,625; machinery, tools and patterns, last year, $255,900, this year, $274,700, up $17,800; furniture fixtures and equipment, a drop of $8,300 from $356,550 in 1964 to $348,250 in 1965.

All other personal property not exempt decreased from $56,400 in 1964 to $54,850 this year, a drop of $1,550.

Clintonville Takes Step to End Pollution of Wolf River

Council Okays Advertising for Bids for Sanitary Sewer Work

CLINTONVILLE — Another step toward eliminating pollution of the Wolf River was taken Tuesday night when the board of public works was authorized to advertise for bids for storm sewers. The city is separating its storm and sanitary sewer systems.

The council heard a report from the state regarding the city's shortcomings in combating water pollution. The report covered a period when the city was beginning work on separating the sanitary and storm sewers and enlarging the sewage treatment plant.

There are various parts of the city that need storm sewers.

Public Hearing Planned

The board recommended to the council that a public hearing be held on the installation of a sewer for a distance of 780 feet west of N. Twelfth Street on a proposed new street. The date for the public hearing will be announced as soon as the notice is prepared.

To alleviate the traffic problem from FWD Corp., McKinley Avenue will be made a one-way street for northbound traffic from E. 12th to E. 14th Streets for a 30-day trial. The trial period will begin as soon as the proper signs are posted.

The Rev. John Sizemore appeared regarding what action had been taken on a petition presented in June asking for signs to be erected on Harriet Street to warn motorists of children playing in the area. The board reported it is making an overall study of the situation in the city.

Street Extension

The Paulina Street extension issue was referred back to the board of public works. A petition had been brought to the council about two years ago and referred to the board. No definite action had been taken.

Installation of a water main to the Jirschele property, 97 11th St., was discussed. The property is near Walter A. Olen Park and west of Auto Street. The city would have to install 304 feet of water main across city-owned property to get to the Jirschele property. At the present time, the property is being serviced from another person's property.

City Atty. Ralph Lauer said he is waiting for a report from the state as to the city's legal responsibility in such a case and he expects an answer in about two weeks. Mayor Frank Sinkewicz said that in view of this, if necessary, a special meeting will be scheduled after the attorney receives the report.

Dam Wall Repair

The council voted to award Martin Brothers, Clintonville, a contract for repairing the walls of the dam and along both sides of the Pigeon River to the Main Street bridge for $600, and for cleaning out the river from the Main Street bridge to the first walking bridge in the park for $900. Funds will be transferred from the general fund to the river improvement account for the work.

Basil Arvey, city building inspector, reported that his attention had been called to the condition of the buildings occupied by Bert Smith, S. Main Street. The brick front of a building is coming loose. The matter was referred to the board of public works, which was instructed to check the structures.

Sinkewicz reported on correspondence that L. A. De Polis, president of FWD Corp., had received from Assemblyman Gerald Anderson in which Anderson wrote that it appeared a vocational school in the Clintonville area might have a better chance than a junior college. The Mayor said he talked with DePolis and told him the city was still interested in a junior college. The matter was referred to a steering committee set up for the junior college.

The council authorized Police Chief James Beggs to attend the Wisconsin Police Chiefs convention Sept. 20-22 at Burlington, and also authorized the purchase of one rain coat at a price not to exceed $35.

The council also authorized the payment of expenses of one representative of the airport commission to attend the air tour Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, sponsored by the Wisconsin Aeronautics Commission.

Enrollment at WSU-O Climbs to Nearly 7,000

Officials Predict Largest School in System To Have 13,000 Student Population by 1968

Post Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Enrollment growth at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh continues at a pace that is one of the highlights of the extraordinary expansion of state-supported higher education in Wisconsin. Nearly 7,000 have enrolled for the fall term.

The state administrative office of the state university system Thursday published enrollment projects showing that the Oshkosh school, already the largest in the system by a substantial margin, will increase its lead during the next two years and attain a probable student population of over 13,000 in the fall of 1968.

Compared With UW

That would be more than the total enrollment of the University of Wisconsin at Madison before World War II, and would represent the most rapid campus expansion in the history of education in Wisconsin.

The state university system officials said enrollment at Oshkosh next fall will be 9,200, and that the figure will rise to 11,200 in the fall of 1967.

Rival of the Oshkosh university in student enrollment growth has been Wisconsin State University-Whitewater in recent years. Whitewater, like Oshkosh, attracts students from a populous neighborhood. The Whitewater figure will rise to 8,600 next year, to 10,400 in 1967 and to 11,900 in 1968, said E. R. McPhee, director of the state university system.

Reflects Valley Urbanization

The rapid growth of the two schools, reflecting the urbanization of the Fox River Valley and the southeastern district, figured in the decision of the Legislature to authorize two new branches of the University of Wisconsin to serve northeastern and southeastern Wisconsin.

Such schools would divert some of the pressure upon the Oshkosh and Whitewater institutions, and contain them to manageable and more satisfactory size, according to the calculations of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, which were accepted in effect by the legislature in authorizing planning funds for the new University of Wisconsin branches.

State Agency Praised; Told To Improve

$3.2 Million Savings Foreseen if Unit Adopts Suggestions

MADISON (AP) — A government efficiency team of 12 businessmen appointed by Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles gave the State Department of Administration a pat on the back Wednesday, then told the agency it could do better.

The group saw possible savings of $3.2 million a year through the adoption of 47 recommendations for operational improvements. Clerical work revisions could account for $2 million of the total, the group said.

The Department of Administration was organized in 1959 under the Democratic administration of former Gov. Gaylord Nelson. It merged the bureaus of management, personnel, engineering, purchases and finance and was hailed by supporters as a sweeping and necessary reorganization of state government.

Target of Criticism

In the last three elections, however, the agency has been a target of Republican criticism. And in the last three legislative sessions there have been GOP bills to remove the bureaus of personnel and engineering from the department.

"After observing it at its myriad tasks, one can only wonder how the state ever operated without it," was the group's comment on the department. The group is known as the Task Force on State Expenditure Management and is headed by William R. Kellett of Neenah, retired president of the Kimberly-Clark Corp.

In addition to the clerical work changes, the task force said savings of up to $1 million a year were possible if the Bureau of Engineering did its own building design work.

Sewage Rates Hiked by Hilbert Board Action

Expect $3,000 More in Annual Receipts; Approve $1,500 Loan for Park Projects

HILBERT — An increase in sewage rates to equal water rates has been approved by the village board. The new ruling will take effect after publication of the ordinance and the increase will show on the Sept. 30 billing.

The raise, expected to bring in $3,000 annually, was necessitated by increased operating and repair costs.

A loan of $1,500, requested by Paul Hernke, secretary-treasurer of the park board, to complete payment of $4,204 for park improvements, was approved. The largest park board expense was $3,000 for the new bandstand. About $500 was for new tennis courts.

The loan will be made by the village, as the governing body and will be repaid in yearly installments.

Clarence Stengel, chairman of the highways committee, reported street projects by Badger Highway Co. Inc. amounted to $9,000. About $1,000 of the total will be paid by property owners benefitting from the blacktop curbing.

Curb, Gutter Project

The Daul Construction Co., route 3, Kaukauna, will install curb and gutter on the new addition west of State 57 at $1.90 a foot. Property owners will be billed $1.55 per foot.

Trustee Howard Sielaff suggested property owners be billed at the increased rate. Orville Manz explained the $1.55 rate had been the standard price charged in the past when the village had paid $2.10 a foot and he felt the $1.55 rate should remain. A budget of $12,700 is set up in the village for road work, which covers snow removal, repairs and other expenses.

The board authorized repairs on Cedar Street by Badger Highways Co., Inc.

Purchase of a used air compressor, requested by Ernest Pitzen, was approved. Cost is estimated between $160 and $190.

The plat of the new Koehler addition, approved by the state, was accepted.

No Change in Music Fare but Prisoner Ends Hunger Strike

WAUPACA — The Waupaca County prisoner, Lawrence L. Vieau, Chicago, who went on a hunger strike last Friday because the night jailer did not select radio stations to his liking, ended his five-day strike Wednesday after he was visited by the Rev. Officials said Vieau decided to go on the hunger strike when the night jailer refused to tune in a radio station of Vieau's choice and pipe the music into the cell block. Unable to convince Vieau to eat, officials contacted a doctor to check on his health and then contacted the parish priest.

The night jailer has not changed his choice of radio stations.

Vieau is serving a one-year term for burglarizing Catholic churches in Clintonville and Marion. He has been in jail since April.

Maintenance of Parks Urged At Clintonville

Recreation Unit Suggests Hiring Full-Time Director

CLINTONVILLE — The recreation committee told the city council Tuesday night there appeared to be a need for more maintenance in the city park areas, such as weed cutting and picking up of debris.

The possibility of hiring a full-time employe to supervise maintenance and serve as recreational director was discussed.

The committee reported to the council after making a visual inspection of the city's recreational facilities and discussing its budget requirements for 1966. The committee plans to meet with the park board to discuss improvements which it thinks are necessary.

Referred to the park board was a letter to Mayor Frank Sinkewicz from James Lindow, president of the Clintonville Softball League, listing three improvements it felt were necessary prior to next year's season at the Bucholtz Park softball diamond. The proposed improvements were installation of a bubbler system with facilities available to water the infield, installation of a new fence in the outfield as the present fence is inadequate, and installation of toilet facilities as the facilities at the swimming pool are too far away.

Battering Surf From Hurricane Betsy weakened the foundation and caused the collapse of the beachfront Bella Vista Motel apartments in Surfside, near Miami Beach, Wednesday. Winds reached 140 miles an hour. (AP Wirephoto) helicopter was on a troop transport mission, there were no passengers aboard.

The Batangan offensive was aimed at smashing a reported Communist buildup in the area 330 miles north of Saigon.

The Marines made the biggest strike Wednesday when they blew up a tunnel and killed 66 uniformed Viet Cong.

The Leathernecks discovered the underground maze after a Viet Cong sniper they were pursuing ducked into an opening.

The Marines planted a TNT charge, but before they touched it off, two Viet Cong emerged from the tunnel and surrendered. They were followed by two women believed to be Viet Cong nurses.

Entering the tunnel after the blast, the Americans found it littered with the bodies of Viet Cong wearing field packs, loaded cartridge belts and other combat equipment.

Some Bandaged

Some of the guerrillas were bandaged, apparently because of wounds received earlier.

In other developments:

Radio Hanoi said North Viet Nam filed charges with the International Control Commission for Viet Nam accusing U.S. Marines of using "toxic gas" against South Vietnamese civilians.

The broadcast said the protest to commission members India, Canada and Poland charged that Marines "impudently used toxic gas, killing or seriously affecting many civilians."

U.S. officials in Saigon said Tuesday a Marine officer, acting on his own, ordered his men on Sunday to use nonlethal tear gas to flush a group of civilians out of caves where Viet Cong were believed holed up. The officials said the Marine officer considered this the most humane way of getting out any civilians in the caves.

Proving Ground

North Viet Nam's official newspaper Nhan Dan accused the United States of using South Viet Nam as a proving ground for bacteriological and chemical warfare. The paper charged that the United States recently sent a "mobile research institute" from Japan to Viet Nam to carry out such warfare.

The U.S. Command in Viet Nam has ordered an investigation of the tear gas incident. A spokesman said tear gas is issued to troops as part of their basic equipment, but that it is to be used only on the specific authorization of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, chief of the U.S. Command.

A Defense Department spokesman in Washington said the Marine officer who ordered tear gas used may not have been aware of the directive regulating its use.

More Paraglider Tests Planned for Landing Capsules

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Two more tests are planned this week with the paraglider, a device designed to bring spacecraft to a safe landing on the ground.

The paraglider was given its second test Wednesday by test pilot Don McCusker. A spokesman for the project termed the five-minute flight successful.

North American Aviation, Inc., developed the paraglider, which looks like a big paper airplane with a capsule slung below. In a dummy Gemini capsule, McCusker rode it down from an altitude of 8,500 feet.

After this week's tests the dummy capsule will be remodeled to carry two persons for additional tests.

Search Continues For Jail Escapee

Sheriff Frazier and other officers were attending a law enforcement meeting in the nearby courthouse. Mrs. Frazier rushed to the courthouse and called for help. Jensen was able to contact the city police by radio and they hurried to the scene.

The prisoner who started to chase Tews saw him cross Union Street and disappear in a used car lot. He headed toward the Waupaca River.

Within a few minutes after the break, all Waupaca auxiliary police were alerted and with the use of radio cars, took up the search. Jerome J. Yelk, a Sun Prairie bloodhound handler, was called. He arrived with the hounds at 11:40 p.m. to aid in the search.

Hounds picked up the trail and led searchers to the river where they crossed a foot bridge into the citys' Third Ward. The dogs followed the trail for nearly an hour, but because of the heavy rain, were unable to follow the scent on pavement.

Taking up the search again at 2:30 a.m., the dogs followed the trail to the area of the Fulton Lumber Co. where the trail was again lost because of a downpour.

Arrested Aug. 24

Tews was arrested Aug. 24, after the parents of a 19-year-old Town of Harrison girl reported to the sheriff's office that Tews had assaulted their daughter as she walked along a country road. Tews and the girl had been engaged, but she broke the engagement several days before she allegedly was assaulted. Held until Tuesday in the county jail, Tews then was taken to Clintonville and arraigned on a rape charge.

Tews has a past prison record. He served from July, 1959 until February 1964 in the Indiana state prison for the armed robbery of a LaGrange, Ind. Restaurant. After being released from prison, he was returned to Milwaukee where he was placed on probation for five years for the armed robbery of a tavern in 1959.

As the search for Tews was underway Wednesday night, Sheriff Frazier sent officers to the Town of Harrison and the 19-year-old girl and her mother were brought to Waupaca and placed in protective custody.

Aiding in the search Wednesday night and early today were police officers from Wevauwega, Manawa, New London, Clintonville, and Iola, plus the Waupaca city police, auxiliary police and several sheriff's deputies.

Three Escaped Lions Terrify Peaceful Delta

ANTIOCH, Calif. (AP) — The peaceful San Joaquin River delta was alive Wednesday with the terrifying snarls of escaped circus lions who turned the countryside into an armed camp for six hours.

Three of the Carson-Barnes Show's six female lions escaped from a truck while crossing a San Joaquin River bridge. Before the excitement was over one big cat was dead, another was stunned by tranquilizer bullets and the third meekly submitted to being lassoed and returned to her cage.

The lions were being trucked across the bridge when the cage apparently grazed a guard rail and sprung open. Out bounded the three lions.

Scores of heavily armed officers closed in on the scene as the domestic safari began.

Sinona, 700 pounds, was cornered against the riverbank and knocked out by three shots fired from a tranquilizer gun by a state game supervisor.

Jezebel's 450-pound body was found floating in the river about 200 feet from the bridge by Pat Amundson of Belmont, Calif., who was fishing in his boat. Either she had drowned or the 30-foot leap from the bridge killed her, officers said.

PSC Decision May Alter Plans For Cable TV

MADISON (AP)— Arthur Padrutt, chairman of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission, said Wednesday that plans for cable television in several Wisconsin communities could be affected by a case pending before the PSC.

Padrutt said that the PSC will decide within a month whether to take jurisdiction in a Wisconsin Telephone Co. application to file tariffs with the commission for use of its facilities by cable television companies, also known as community antenna television companies.

The PSC has refused to accept jurisdiction in a tariff application filed by the Wood County Telephone Co. In that case, Padrutt said, the application was so broad it appeared that the company wanted to go into the community antenna television business.

Indian Embassy Sacked by Mob

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — A mob of 500 Indonesians sacked the Indian Embassy today, charging India with aggression against Pakistan.

The mob broke into the unguarded embassy in downtown Jakarta and in half an hour destroyed all the furniture and broke all the windows in the one-story bungalow. The mob also destroyed three automobiles.

Security forces arrived 10 minutes after the mob left.

Ambassador Perala Ratnam was not in the embassy. Members of his staff fled to the back yard.

3 Sentenced In Murder At Montello

MONTELLO (AP) — Three more young migrant workers have been sentenced in Marquette County in connection with the slaying of Peter Stewart, 20, a Montello area farmer on July 16.

Judge J. K. Callihan sentenced Jimmy Pany, 19, of Oakland, Calif., Wednesday to five years in the state reformatory near Green Bay. The youth pleaded guilty to third degree murder in the fatal shooting of Stewart.

Carlos Gacula, 20, of San Francisco, was sentenced to two years in the reformatory on charges of aggravated battery and aiding a felon to escape. A third youth sentenced to the reformatory for two years was Alvino Espina, San Francisco. He pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated battery.

Five youths now have been sentenced in the shooting. One still faces trial and two other migrant workers have been released on parole.

Another Name on Labor Day Toll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The highway accident toll for the Labor Day weekend, which already had set an all time Wisconsin record, has risen to 32 with the death of a Barron County man.

The toll for the year reached 682, compared with 749 at this time a year ago.

tides, second only to the record 10-foot tides of 1926 that ended Florida's great land boom.

While Betsy was more of a destroyer than a killer, it did not appear the damage would match that of last year's hurricane, Cleo, which also hit southern Florida.

But the Bahamas, where communications had been knocked out since Sunday, reported heavy property losses as reports came in from the Out Islands, to Nassau, capital of the archipelago.

None Killed

Exclusive clubs of the very rich on Eleuthera and Nassau's New Providence were struck hard. But no one was reported killed in the Bahamas although the hurricane's center had lain just off the shore of New Providence for over 12 hours.

Nassau's shops, which live off the spending of American tourists, were without electricity but were opened for business. Damage there was estimated at $500,000.

Betsy took all Wednesday to pass over the tip of the Florida peninsula. The high onshore winds pushed six-foot tides over low lying areas, swamping Miami's posh Key Biscayne with its expensive villas under the three feet of water.

Heartache Faces Negro Pupil in White School

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bitterness and heartache are ahead for thousands of Negro pupils and Negro teachers in the South, even if full school integration should proceed without incident.

The harsh fact is that years of segregated, inferior education have left them ill-prepared to cope with the higher standards they will find in previously all-white schools.

Hundreds of Negro teachers already have lost their jobs as a direct result of desegregation Where there is a surplus of teachers, the Negro usually is first to go.

In some cases this is outright racial discrimination, and redress may be available through the courts. The federal government is keeping a close watch and is prepared to step in where discrimination can be proved.

NEA Battle

The National Education Association, too, is pledged to fight what it calls "illegal and capricious dismissals, intimidation, and punitive transfers."

But in a tragic number of cases, it isn't discrimination. The Negro teacher just does not measure up.

Dr Dave Darland of the NEA said recently:

"Their education is traditionally bad. They are victims of inferior elementary schools, inferior secondary schools, and inferior colleges.

"They started behind, they stayed behind, and it would take a superman to catch up."

In Florida, all teachers must now pass the National Teacher Examination as a requirement for certification. Two hundred Negro teachers have lost their jobs there because of low test scores

Summer Institutes

Throughout the South this year, there were special summer institutes for teachers of disadvantaged children. The institutes were sponsored by the U S Office of Education.

Within a week after they started, it was apparent that the problem wasn't only disadvantaged children, but disadvantaged teachers as well.

The director of one such institute, herself a Negro, said in an interview:

"We had 40 Negro teachers here from four Southern states Some of them had advanced degrees from Negro colleges

'Only one or two could write a coherent paragraph The level of spoken English was just as bad

"It is heart-breaking to think of these teachers going back to the classroom and inflicting their ignorance on hundreds of little children"

Rocky Road

And what of those children? The road ahead will be rocky indeed as desegregation spreads.

A Negro youngster entering the 9th grade in a previously all-white school will be at a terrible disadvantage in competition with white classmates who have had eight years of the best education available

It will be easier, perhaps, for younger children who are integrated at the first and second grade levels. But it will be difficult for them, too, if they come from homes where they never have seen a magazine, never held a pencil in their hand, never had a story read to them.

If the Negro youngsters fail, they may become discouraged and drop out of school altogether.

And then, ironically, they will be the victims of the very civil rights law that was designed for their benefit.

Conservative Group Offers Campaign Aid

The Committee for Election by Voters of Appleton Officials has received an offer of assistance from an unexpected source

William Christen, 911 N Badger Ave, vice president of the recently formed Outagamie Conservative Organization, told committee members the group would help the committee in its effort urging Appleton voters to vote "no" in the Tuesday referendum

The referendum will determine if the offices of city clerk, attorney, assessor and treasurer should be made appointive.

Christen, an Appleton High School student, said the organization's eight members would help the committee pass out handbills

Neal Wellman, 900 S Westland Drive president of the group, is a student at the University of Wisconsin-Madison

The 30 persons attending the meeting discussed campaign efforts for the coming week.

Cooper to Open Namesake School

CLIFFWOOD BEACH, N.J (AP) — Astronaut L Gordon Cooper Jr is due to be the guest of honor next month at dedication ceremonies marking the completion of Madison Township's $4-million school construction program

William Rice, president of the Board of Education, says the township is the first community in the nation to honor all of the astronauts who took part in this country's first manned space flight program, Project Mercury Three existing schools and three new schools have been named for the men.

Lucky Decision Outweighs Weight For Green Bay Man

GREEN BAY (AP) — It was lucky for George Webster that he weighed his decision to weigh himself

Webster, a dispatcher for a cab company, was about to put what he thought was a penny in a sidewalk scale last week, but he noticed that the coin was slightly smaller than an ordinary penny.

The coin was a $2 50 gold piece of 1856 He put it back in his pocket

Webster said today that dealers value the coin at $1,100 to $3,000.
